CHARGES OF GRAFT IN PLUMBERS' BOARD

Trade School Instructor Says He Shared in It with Examiners Moore and Donohue.

MONEY PAID FOR LICENSES

One Disappointed Candidate Brings Suit to Recover $300 Paid for Master Plumber's Certificate.

A charge of wholesale graft was made yesterday against Bartholomew F. Donohue and John J. Moore, who up to Feb. 19 last were members of the Plumbers' Examining Board. The allegations were made in a suit before Justice Murray in the Third District Municipal Court by William F. O'Connell, who has been an instructor in the National Trade School at Twenty-seventh Street and Tenth Avenue. O'Connell on the witness stand testified that he had received money from candidates for plumbers' licenses, one-third of which he kept for himself, and the rest he gave to Donohue and Moore in consideration of supplying the candidates with copies of the examination paper they were to answer, and guaranteeing their success. Both Donohue and Moore denied the charges under oath.

The suit was brought by J. Mehlhop, a plumber of 4,741 Richardson Avenue, Wakefield, against Donohue, Moore, and O'Connell for $300, which he alleges he paid them for a master plumber's certificate. His lawyers were Gardner & Quigley, who will, it is understood, bring a number of similar suits.

Mehlhop swore that after he had paid the $300, to be divided, as he understood, between the three men, he received the examination paper, and O'Connell coached him in the answers. To his chagrin, when the results of the examination were announced, his name did not appear as one of the successful candidates.

He called on O'Connell, who stated, the witness testified, that he had given to Donohue and Moore their share of the money, and that Mehlhop should have been passed. He declared that he was quite willing to return his $100, if the others did the same, but they refused to do so.

O'Connell, one of the defendants, was then called by Mehlhop, and made a confession of his share in the transaction.

As an instructor at the National Trade School he had, he testified, become a sort of official go-between for the Board of Examining Plumbers and the number of aspiring master plumbers whom he met. Moreover he had been deputed two months ago by Local 498 of the Plumbers and Gas Fitters' Union to investigate the rumors that many incompetent men were being certificated as master plumbers who had not, in accordance with the municipal ordinances, served at least five years as a helper and two as a journeyman plumber before taking the examination.

"I have put through," said O'Connell on the stand, "men who could not wipe a joint and did not know the least thing about plumbing. It used to cost them from $300 up as far as I was concerned. I used to meet Donohue and Moore twice a week and tell them the names of my candidates. I put forty-seven through at $300 a head during their term of office, and kept one-third of it for myself. If the candidates paid less than $250 I took no part of it.

"I used to meet Donohue and Moore at the board and also outside, generally at a hotel in Chambers Street, but I always got the money of the candidate in my pocket before I mixed up in the matter.

"Mehlhop gave me six fifty-dollar bills on July 9, 1907, and I gave four to Moore, who said Donohue could get his. Mehlhop failed, and I advised him to make his application again and see what he could do. I told the board members that unless he was passed he must have his money back."

Cross-examination did nothing to shake the witness's testimony, and he offered to produce a list of those whom he had helped to slip through. The court would not accept this line of evidence, but further details of O'Connell's methods were brought out.

He stated that he always received a copy of the examination papers two weeks before the examination, and also an official list of the answers expected. If the candidates who had applied to him were intelligent he would merely coach them in these questions and answers. If they were utterly incompetent O'Connell would, he swore, dictate the answers on the regular examination blank sheets and instruct the candidates, when he was in the examination hall, to substitute these written pages for the blank paper given to him.

John J. Moore, one of the accused members of the Board of Examining Plumbers, gave a direct contradiction to O'Connell's evidence.

"I met Mehlhop," he testified, "in a saloon at 124th Street and Park Avenue. He told me that he had failed in the examination, and I advised him to try again. O'Connell poked his head in at the door, and Mehlhop and I left.

"I never took a dollar from O'Connell and have had no dealings of this sort with him, either in or out of the board rooms. I have known him for many years as a plumber, but never took a cent of money from him to get a license for anybody."

Donohue gave a similar sweeping denial. He denied indignantly ever giving O'Connell a plan or a paper from the board. The only time he had spoken to O'Connell in the board room, he said, was practically to order him out because he inquired as to the standing of a certain candidate. He had never met Moore in O'Connell's presence or taken a single dollar from him.

Justice Murray took the papers in the case, and will announce his decision later. After the case was adjourned O'Connell showed to the reporters this letter, addressed to Moore, written on the stationery of the Board of Aldermen and purporting to be signed by a well-known Alderman, who is also a Tammany leader:

New York, July 12, 1909.

Friend John: As I explained to you, I am very anxious to see Michael Leight get a license, and this should be done. Will you please consult the other members of the board and put it through to-day?

O'Connell also displayed a list of men who, he alleges, were unfit to be plumbers who had passed the examination. They had paid him, he said, from $300 to $500 in order to get their certificates.

BUYS NEW HAVEN STOCK?

Report that the Pennsylvania Now Owns Important Interest.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The North American to-morrow will announce that the Pennsylvania Railroad now owns an important stock interest in the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

There is not apparently any authority for the announcement. The North American says:

"The Pennsylvania Railroad Company now owns an important stock interest in the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. With the first vacancies which occur in the Board of Directors of the big New England transportation system the Pennsylvania Railroad interest will be accorded representation commensurate with its ownership.

"Not in a long time has there been a development in the railroad and financial world more important and far-reaching than that involved in the present news that the Pennsylvania Railroad has projected its influence in an effective way past New York and on throughout New England. This fact, as it leaked out yesterday, is fully confirmed, even if it has not yet been officially announced.

"Since the begining of the year the Pennsylvania Railroad has acquired what is described as a very considerable holding of New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad stock. Whether this has been bought in the open market, whether it has been taken over from the banking syndicate which is behind the $50,000,000 allotment made last Fall, or whether it has been bought from the company out of the nearly $22,000,000 of stock which was held in the treasury of the controlled New England Navigation Company is not known."

The Pennsylvania Railroad has sold to E. B. Smith & Co. $11,000,000 general freight 4 per cent. equipment trust certificates. It was said in well-informed banking circles that the Pennsylvania had done no other recent financing. The certificates mature in ten annual installments, beginning May 1, 1911. They are guaranteed by the Pennsylvania Railroad and are secured by 10,159 freight cars.

The Pennsylvania has from time to time issued a large amount of equipment trust certificates against portions of the very large additions which have been made to the company's equipment in late years. Many of the issues, however, have been retained among the treasury assets of the road.

SUBMARINE FOULS SHAMROCK.

Nearly Rams Lipton's Yacht—Cutter Brynhild Is Sunk.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 23.—Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Shamrock was fouled by a submarine which ran amuck in the course of a regatta at Felixstowe to-day.

The Shamrock was stretching her canvas at anchor when the submarine, steaming down the harbor, apparently developed some defect in her steering gear. Her course became erratic and she turned right around and went in the direction of the Shamrock, which she would have rammed had not the crew paid out the anchor chain. The submarine glided under the overhanging bow of the yacht, where she became wedged. A steam launch from Sir Thomas Lipton's Erin tried unsuccessfully to tow out the errant craft until a tug was made fast to the submarine and pulled her clear.

The Shamrock escaped real damage and took part in the race, in the course of which Sir John Pender's racer Brynhild was dismasted and sunk. The Shamrock and other yachts saved the crew.

LONDON, May 23.—Sir James Pender's well-known racing cutter Brynhild was capsized and sunk in a squall while racing off Felixstowe to-day. The crew were rescued.

The Brynhild won the King's Cup in the Royal Yacht Squadron regatta of 1908.

PASS STEINWAY TUNNEL BILL.

Senate at Albany Accepts Measure Approved by Mayor Gaynor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 23.—The Senate to-night passed the Steinway Tunnel bill by a vote of 31 to 9. Senator Harte, who introduced the bill, said the measure was desired by the residents of Queens, who regarded it as a quick method of securing additional railway facilities. In the form it passed the Senate the bill has the approval of the Public Service Commission and Mayor Gaynor.

By this bill it is provided that the tunnel may be operated by some company which in the future may receive a franchise.

A bill amending the Rapid Transit act was introduced to-night by Senator Agnew. It gives the city the right to reserve trackage rights in any municipally constructed subway through the action of the Public Service Commission in conjunction with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The reserved track may be used by the city itself or another company under certain conditions, and for proper compensation. The power given by the bill is desired for terminal facilities. It was stated that Mayor Gaynor and the Public Service Commission were in favor of the bill. Senator Grady's objection prevented the advancement of the bill out of its order, and it was referred to the Cities Committee.

NO TIGHTS ON BILLBOARDS.

Poster Printers' Association to Put Them Under the Ban.

CINCINNATI, May 23.—"Short skirts and tights must go from the billboards. We'll go further than that—we will not print anything that a reputable newspaper or magazine would reject."

This declaration was made to-day by Clarence E. Runey, Secretary of the International Poster Printers' Association of the United States and Canada, just before the fourth annual convention of the association met. Several of the delegates corroborated Mr. Runey's statement of the main purpose of the meeting.

35 INJURED IN WRECK.

Three May Die as Result of Train Derailment in Arkansas.

ROGERS, Ark., May 23.—St. Louis & San Francisco Passenger Train No. 4, the fast express from Texas to St. Louis, was wrecked two miles south of Rogers to-day. Thirty-five persons were injured, three probably fatally.

The injured were brought here. The train was running thirty-five miles an hour when the engine and mail and baggage cars left the track and turned over. The chair car followed, but remained upright.

DEPEW SAYS SPANISH WAR WAS NEEDLESS

Cuba and Porto Rico Would Have Been Freed Without It—McKinley Couldn't Resist.

ANOTHER WAR AVERTED

When Victoria Overruled Salisbury in Dispute with Us — $134,000,000 Naval Bill Passed, Including Two Dreadnoughts.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The debate in the Senate which led to the passage of the Naval Appropriation bill without change to-day served to elicit two historical revelations by Senator Depew. One of them bore on the war with Spain and the other on the Venezuelan imbroglio with Great Britain in the second Administration of President Cleveland.

The statement regarding the Spanish war was elicited by an assertion by Senator Heyburn that the people themselves did not want wars, but generally were compelled by their rulers to submit to them. Taking issue with the Idaho Senator, Mr. Depew said that popular demand forced the war with Spain on the country, and that President McKinley was opposed to it. He said, also, that as favorable terms could have been obtained from Spain without war as were obtained with war.

"Does not the Senator believe that but for the pressure of that time the President would have negotiated Spain off the American continent?" asked Mr. Hale.

"I do," responded the New York Senator. "I know of my own knowledge that Spain was prepared to abandon Cuba and Porto Rico to prevent humiliation if she could be assured in advance of the acceptance of the proposition."

He said President McKinley was not a strong enough personality to resist the popular will.

Concerning the Venezuelan episode, Mr. Depew said:

"An intimate friend of mine, who also was an intimate friend of Lord Salisbury, then the British Prime Minister, told me that when the President's message was promulgated Lord Salisbury said to him: 'I believe that on account of the rancor coming down from the Revolutionary War and accentuated by certain occurrences in the civil war, America means to have a war with Great Britain at some time, and I believe now is the best time, when America has no navy.' The views of the Prime Minister were overruled by Queen Victoria, but if Lord Salisbury had had the power possessed by some of the English Prime Ministers, the issue certainly would have been tried out."

Mr. Depew used the last incident to enforce an argument in favor of a strong navy and the authorization of two new battleships of the Dreadnought type.

The one fight of the two days' debate on the bill centred around the two battleship programme indorsed by this Administration, as it was by President Roosevelt. Senator Hale attacked the programme on grounds of economy, and Senator Burton made two speeches against it, contending that a large navy makes for war rather than for peace, and that the prestige of this country rested on a moral rather than a military basis.

The larger navy programme was defended by Senators from the Pacific Coast and by most of the New Englanders, though Mr. Hale and Mr. Page of Vermont voted in favor of Mr. Burton's amendment, cutting the increase to one battleship. In general the Democrats and insurgents voted for the smaller appropriation, while the regular Republicans backed the President's demands. Only two Democrats voted for the full programme. They were Mr. McEnery of Louisiana, who nearly always votes with the Republicans on national questions, and Mr. Taylor of Tennessee. The Republicans who voted for only one battleship were Messrs. Bristow, Burton, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dixon, Dolliver, Hale, La Follette, and Page.

The bill as passed carries an appropriation of almost $134,000,000. The naval increase for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, is to be as follows: Two first-class battleships to cost not exceeding $6,000,000 each, and when equipped with armor and armament about $12,500,000 each; two fleet colliers to cost not exceeding $1,000,000 each; five submarine torpedo boats not exceeding a total of $2,500,000, and six torpedo boat destroyers to cost not exceeding $750,000 each.

The House bill provided for only four submarines and no torpedo boat destroyers.

ALFRED NUTT DROWNED.

Well-Known London Publisher Dies Trying to Save His Invalid Son.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 23.—The London publishing world has been saddened by the news of the tragic death in France of Alfred Trubner Nutt, head of the well-known firm founded by his father, David Nutt.

Mr. Nutt had been staying at Melun during the past fortnight. Accompanied by his invalid son, aged 17, Mr. Nutt went for a drive on the side of the Seine on Saturday evening. After a while, leaving the reins to his son, he followed on foot, when suddenly the horse bolted, dragging the carriage with it into the river, which at this point is eight feet deep. Mr. Nutt at once went to his son's rescue, but was carried away by the current and was drowned. The boy was saved.

Mr. Nutt's body was found an hour later by the Captain of a houseboat which was in the neighborhood.

Mr. Nutt was born in London in 1856 and was the eldest and only surviving son of David Nutt. He was educated in England and France, and after serving a business apprenticeship in Leipsic, Berlin, and Paris, took up his father's business in 1878. He was greatly interested in folk-lore, and in 1897 was elected President of the Folk-Lore Society. He was an author as well as a publisher, among his books being "The Legend of the Holy Grail" and some essays on Celtic folk-lore. The beautiful printing of Mr. Nutt's publications is known to every book lover.

DALMORES TO GET $50,000 A YEAR

French Tenor Engaged by Dippel for Metropolitan Opera for Four Years at $200,000.

HIS LAST SALARY DOUBLED

Reported That Contract Nullifies $20,000 Judgment Against Singer, Who Left Metropolitan for Hammerstein.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 23.—Andreas Dippel, who is returning to the United States after a brief visit in Berlin, has just signed a remarkable contract with Charles Dalmores whereby the French tenor will receive the record sum of $200,000 for the period of a four years' engagement at the Metropolitan, New York, and the allied opera houses of Chicago and Philadelphia.

It is stated that the consummation of this contract nullifies the indemnity of $20,000 which Dalmores was required to pay the Metropolitan as a result of his lost legal action against the management.

Dippel came to Europe this time primarily to see his wife, who was ill at Nice. He returns for his annual European hunt for talent and new operas some time next month.

Mr. Dalmores's salary at the Manhattan Opera House was $800 a performance. Last season he sang at least sixty performances, and the amount he made, therefore, was $36,000. As his new contract is probably arranged on a basis of forty performances a season, if the amount named is the correct one his new salary must be estimated as more than double that of his old one, or $1,250 a performance. This is a larger amount than any tenor receives in America, with the exception of Mr. Caruso.

The Metropolitan Opera Company won its suit against Charles L. Brin, better known as Charles Dalmores, last February, and the tenor was ordered to pay the company $20,000 and the costs of the suit. The suit was brought by ex-Judge Dittenhoefer on behalf of the opera company, and it was alleged that Mr. Dalmores had broken his contract with the Metropolitan.

In February, 1908, Mr. Dalmores made a contract to sing for the Metropolitan from Nov. 15 of that year until April 30, 1909, and by the terms of the contract he was to receive $20,000 for his services. According to the papers in the case, the tenor was bound by the contract to pay a forfeit of $20,000 in case he should break the agreement.

A few days after the contract was signed Mr. Dalmores notified the Metropolitan management that he would not honor the contract, as he was engaged by Oscar Hammerstein to sing at the Manhattan Opera House. During the trial, before Justice Bischoff in the Supreme Court here, Andreas Dippel was called to testify as an expert as to Mr. Dalmores's rating as a tenor.

"I consider Mr. Dalmores one of the greatest French tenors," said Mr. Dippel in his testimony. "He has a great repertoire. We had to engage four different tenors to sing his rôles. There are a few high class French tenors, but all were engaged at that time."

The defense to the suit offered by Mr. Dalmores and his lawyer, Delphin M. Delmas, was that the liquidated damage clause in the contract was uninforcible because it constituted a penalty instead of liquated damages. If this construction had been sustained the Metropolitan could only have collected such sum as was adjudged sufficient for the actual damage caused the opera company by the failure of Mr. Dalmores to sing.

PRIESTS SAVE HOLY VESSELS.

Two Burned Carrying Sacred Objects from Blazing Church.

TRENTON, N. J., May 23.—The Rev. Fathers Sheedy and Healey at a fire in the Church of the Sacred Heart to-day saved all the vestments and sacred vessels from destruction. The clergymen had their hands and clothing badly burned. The fire started in a closet where incense is kept, and the vestry soon was filled with smoke.

When the priests saw it the sacristy in which were the vestments and vessels used in the mass was in a blaze. In the tabernacle was the handsome gold chalice.

Father Sheedy carried this chalice to a place of safety and then went to the aid of Father Healey, who was trying to save the vestments. They had saved everything of value when the firemen arrived.

It was only after several of the firemen had been injured by falling plaster that they succeeded in extinguishing the flames.

CONGRESS IN TILL JULY 15?

Champ Clark Predicts Session Will Last Till Then—Others More Hopeful.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—With the first of June almost in sight Congressional visitors at the White House to-day began to discuss the prospects of adjournment.

"We'll be here till the 15th of July, sure," said Champ Clark, minority leader of the House.

"I think the first of July will see us away," declared Mr. Longworth of Ohio. "It will be the 15th of July at least," remarked Victor Murdock, the Kansas "insurgent," who called to introduce some friends and remained for a private chat with the President.

"I really don't know," said Senator Crane, who ought to be in a position to know if such a thing were possible. "But," he added, "I don't think it will be so late as July 15."

"With three days out of the week given over to the progressives for unanimous consent, calendar Wednesday, and claims day, there's no telling when we will get away," declared Representative Kennedy of Ohio. "But the primaries out my way are over, and I'm ready to stay till the snow flies if necessary."

HUDSON PARK BILLS ALL PASS IN SENATE

Assembly Having Already Acted Favorably, Acceptance of Harriman Gift Is Assured.

GRADY CALLS MATTER UP

Says He Will Keep Quiet While It Is Put Through—Only Scattering Negative Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 23.—Without objection and almost without dissent, the Senate to-night passed the entire series of bills paving the way for the acceptance by the State of the offer by Mrs. E. H. Harriman of 10,000 acres of land in the highlands of the Hudson for State Park purposes, and the additional gift of $1,000,000 for development and improvement. The Senate's action renders it a foregone conclusion that the vast Hudson River Park project will be realized.

It was at the request of Senator Grady that the Senate late to-night undertook to pass the so-called Harriman Hudson River bills out of their regular order. All the bills, with the exception of that providing for the submission to the voters of the question whether the State shall issue $2,500,000 in bonds in connection with the park project, were on the calendar in the form in which they have already been passed by the Assembly. George W. Perkins, President of the Palisades Park Commission, accompanied by J. Du Pratt White, its Secretary, was in the Senate chamber, when Minority Leader Grady moved that the bills be taken up.

"There seems to be such a strong public demand for the passage of these bills," said Senator Grady, "that I would ask the Senate to take them up, even if out of their regular order. As for me, I shall lapse into a state of silent meditation rather than enter any opposition while this business is on."

Senator Bayne, who introduced the bills in the upper house, moved that his motion to reconsider the vote by which the $2,500,000 Bond Issue bill was defeated last week be taken from the table. The motion was carried, and after Mr. Bayne had explained that all the bill did was to make it possible to submit the question whether the money is to be spent to the voters this Fall, the motion to reconsider was carried without dissent.

The bill was then passed, 44 to 3. Senators Hinman, Allen, and Holden voted in the negative. The other bills passed by the vote of 45 to 2, 45 to 1, and 47 to 0, respectively.

The bond issue bill will have to go back to the Assembly for concurrence. The other bills go to the Governor for his signature.

Of the three bills passed to-night besides that providing for the bond issue one provides for the abandonment of the prison site at Bear Mountain, which is within the territory to be given over to the Hudson River Park. Another provides for the acceptance of the Harriman gift and appoints the Palisades Inter-State Commission as the administrative power of the park project.

The third bill provides for the acquisition of additional land in order to connect the new portions included in the Harriman gift and other land in that vicinity, which under the conditions of the offer the State must acquire for park purposes, with the Palisades and the Park reservation in the Highlands of the Hudson, so as to create one unbroken State park along the western shore of the Hudson from the Palisades as far north as Newburg.

ENGLAND, ALEXANDRA'S HOME.

Queen Denies She Will Live in Denmark—Dislikes "Queen Mother" Title.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 23.—The Court Circular to-night publishes the following announcement, which, in view of the facts outlined in THE NEW YORK TIMES'S Sunday cablegrams, is likely to cause a good deal of comment:

Buckingham Palace, Monday.

Queen Alexandra has received many kind letters expressing the hope that there is no truth in the report that her Majesty intended to leave England and take up her residence in the future in Denmark.

Queen Alexandra has lived in England for forty-seven years, during which time she has received countless tokens of love and affection, especially in her recent sorrow, shared, as she so truly knows it is, by the nation. Her Majesty will ever look upon England as her home.

Queen Alexandra, who, by the way, here makes it plain that she prefers to be called "Queen Alexandra" rather than "the Queen Mother," also issued a statement to-day that she was greatly grieved by a leaflet printed and circulated by some anti-vivisectionists, which stated that the death of King Edward was caused by vaccine treatment.

Lord Llangattock and the Hon. Stephen Coleridge of the National Anti-Vivisection Society have written to all the papers dissociating their society from "this effort to exploit the lamentable decease of the King for controversial purposes."

KAISER LEAVES ENGLAND.

Kisses King George Twice—Thanks the People of London.

LONDON, May 23.—Emperor William departed from London to-day, proceeding to Port Victoria, where he boarded the imperial yacht Hohenzollern for the return to his domains.

King George accompanied his cousin to the railway station, and their parting was affectionate, the Emperor kissing the King twice. The Duke of Cornwall, the Duke of Connaught, and the members of the German Embassy were also at the station to bid his Majesty farewell.

To the Lord Mayor of London the German monarch sent a message expressing his warm appreciation of the sincere sympathy exhibited toward him in his sad bereavement by the people of London.

WANTED TO RECEIVE PEARY.

LONDON, May 23.—Presiding at the anniversary meeting of the Royal Geographical Society to-day, the President, Major Leonard Darwin, referred to the encouragement which great travelers had received from the late King.

"Only two days before his death," said the President, "King Edward sent word to the American Ambassador that ill-health alone prevented him from receiving Commander Peary, which otherwise it would have given him much gratification to have done."

BOMB ON HARLEM PIER.

Residents of Harlem Frightened by Crash in the Ship Canal.

A terrific explosion occurred about 2 o'clock this morning on the Interborough Rapid Transit Company's pier on the Harlem Ship Canal, near Spuyten Duyvil. The Pennsylvania Steel Company has for several days been storing steel rails and other railway equipment for the Interborough on the pier. The steel is designed for the new Subway extentions planned by the Interborough. Whether the explosion was the result of a dynamite bomb set off by some enemy of the steel company is not known as yet.

Residents of that part of the city in a radius of half a mile of the Harlem Ship Canal were startled by the explosion, which came like an earthquake shock and with a sound like a crash of thunder. Two policemen were standing at Broadway and 221st Street when the explosion occurred. They hastened toward the canal, and were surprised to find no one about the Interborough pier.

They found the pier watchman, William Zorsilach, who was rubbing his eyes and appeared to be dazed. He told the police that he did not know just what had occurred, but that the explosion, which had knocked him off his feet, appeared to have come from the pier. The policemen notified Police Headquarters over the telephone and several detectives were sent out on the case. Later they reported that the explosion was due to a bomb, supposedly set off by enemies of the steel company.

The bomb is said by the police to have been dropped probably from a Broadway Subway train as it passed over the Harlem Ship Canal on the Interborough bridge. The bomb missed its mark because the only damage the police could find were several broken windows on the bridge tender's shanty and a few broken windows in a Subway train.

ANARCHIST BOMB IN MADRID.

Hurts Nobody but the Thrower, Who Commits Suicide When Pursued.

MADRID, May 23.—An Anarchist threw a bomb to-day at the monument erected to the victims of the attempt against King Alfonso on his wedding day, May 31, 1906.

The bomb did little damage beyond wounding the Anarchist, who, when pursued by the police, committed suicide.

The bomb, the police say, was very similar to that used by Morales against the King.

SPECIAL JOURNEY, $1,000.

Cost to W. J. Chalmers for Trains and Boat to Catch the Mauretania.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 23.—W. J. Chalmers's race to catch the Mauretania, the story of which was telegraphed yesterday, was a costly journey.

Mr. Chalmers was charged an inclusive fee of £200 ($1,000) for the special trains and steamer from Dover to Queenstown, a total of 543 miles. This works out at 7s. 8d. ($1.83) per mile.

BATTLE NEAR BLUEFIELDS.

Rivas Said to Have Made a Passage Around the Insurgent Army.

NEW ORLEANS, May 23.—That Gen. Fernandino Rivas, at the head of 1,000 troops of the Madriz Army, arrived at Rama at the beginning of an engagement yesterday between the Estrada and Madriz forces in Nicaragua and made a successful passage around the insurgent army was the statement contained in a cablegram to-night to Dr. Lopez, ex-Governor of the Atlantic Coast District of Nicaragua, who is now in New Orleans.

By this manoeuvre, it is asserted, three divisions, numbering approximately 1,000 men each, are assailing the town of Bluefields. Two are in the front and rear, respectively, of Rama, and the other is seven miles from Bluefields.

BACK BROKEN, CAN'T TELL HOW

Newark Man Mortally Injured, but Is Unable to Explain It.

Thomas P. Carney, a member of the old elective Board of Education of Newark from 1900 to 1908, is in the City Hospital with a broken spine and other injuries which will cause his death.

He cannot tell how he was hurt. He was found early yesterday morning on the ground in Kirk's Alley, a short distance from the Market Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He had recently been living in cheap lodging houses.

BOY GETS $15,000 DAMAGES.

Jury Renders a Verdict Against the Orange County Traction Company.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 23.—Irving Demlitz, an 8-year-old boy of Newburg, got a verdict in the Supreme Court here to-day of $15,000 in his suit for $25,000 against the Orange County Traction Company, in which ex-Governor Odell is interested.

The boy's father, Leopold Demlitz of Newburg, brought the suit, as guardian. The evidence was that on July 1, 1909, the boy was riding on one of the company's cars. When he started to alight at Carpenter Avenue and Broadway, Newburg, he was knocked down and run over, his right foot being amputated about 5 inches above the ankle.

SPITZER, PARDONED, A STATE'S WITNESS

Liberated from Atlanta Prison by President Taft, ex-Pier Boss Testifies in Sugar Trial.

FRIGHTENS THE SUGAR MEN

He Confesses Complicity in Weighing Frauds with Gerbracht, Bendernagel, and Others on Trial.

Oliver Spitzer, boss of the Williamsburg piers of the Sugar Trust during the years in which the sugar-weighing frauds were going on, walked into the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court yesterday, with a pardon from President Taft in his hand, to give his testimony, a free man, against Gerbracht, his old-time boss at the refinery; Bendernagel, the ex-cashier, and three underlings, who are on trial with Charles R. Heike, Secretary and Treasurer of the trust, for conspiracy to defraud the United States. It was a sorry episode for Gerbracht and Bendernagel, for Harry Walker, Spitzer's old assistant, and Halligan and Voelker, the two former tallymen, but Heike was spared. Spitzer did not connect him with knowledge of the weighing frauds.

If Henry O. Havemeyer had appeared from the grave he would not have created a bigger sensation than did Spitzer in Judge Martin's court, where the Sugar Trust men are beginning the second week of their trial. Spitzer was the "big fish" of the Government's prior haul, when Henry L. Stimson, Winfred Denison, and Felix Frankfurter convicted him, along with four ex-tallymen, but suffered a disagreement in the case against Bendernagel. The dock boss got a sentence of two years at Atlanta, as against a year on Blackwell's Island for each of his co-defendants convicted, and was led away vowing vengence on the people who had deserted him. Said Spitzer at that time: "The Sugar Trust made a scapegoat of me. It pounded and ruined me after I had served it faithfully for twenty-nine years. In the alleged fraud prosecution the Government cried for a victim, and the Sugar Trust answered by sacrificing me and four eighteen-dollar-a-week checkers."

Tells All to the Grand Jury.

The scapegoat returned yesterday from the wilderness with some of the sins of the trust still upon his head. These he dropped, in part, on the witness stand by telling how the trust "took care" of him and the tallymen it discharged after the discovery of the weighing frauds; by telling how Gerbracht, the Superintendent of the Williamsburg refinery, and Bendernagel knew all about the weighing frauds, and how he reported to a man named Leroy in the trust's head office, at 117 Wall Street, when the system of cheating the Government was changed from the bag of shot to the steel springs, about 1901. Leroy is now dead. It is a reasonable assumption that such other burden of guilty knowledge as Spitzer had he freed his mind of in the Grand Jury room, for as soon as his direct examination was over before Judge Martin, Mr. Stimson and Mr. Frankfurter took him before the Grand Jury, and kept him there most of the rest of the day.

When he left the Federal Building, walking by himself for the first time in months, Spitzer said that he wouldn't talk about how he got his pardon until after he had been cross-examined to-morrow. The Government's counsel naturally do not want him to give the defense material for his cross-examination. Nor would these lawyers discuss the visit of Spitzer with the Grand Jury, but from the fact that his evidence in the trial left several points undeveloped it was gathered that there might well be in Spitzer's full story something that would aid the Government in reaching somebody even higher up in the trust than Gerbracht, the Superintendent, and Heike, the Secretary-Treasurer.

From unofficial sources it was learned yesterday that Spitzer's brother and some Brooklyn friends who have political connections were working with him all Winter to get him to win a pardon by taking the step he took yesterday. The pardon was sure, provided there was in Spitzer's story sufficient meat to warrant its introduction before the Grand Jury or a trial jury, for the crime of which he was convicted, involving what is technically described as "moral turpitude," cost him his citizenship and made his evidence incompetent in any Federal court.

Getting His Confession.

It was about three weeks ago, so the story runs, that Spitzer made up his mind to tell all he knew. Chief Flynn of the local branch of the Secret Service was going to Atlanta on Government business, and Mr. Stimson suggested to him that he approach Spitzer once more to see if the ex-dock boss wasn't ready to talk. Spitzer told Chief Flynn that he had experienced a change of heart and wanted to confess. Very secretly, then, a transfer of Spitzer was arranged to the New Jersey Penitentiary, at Caldwell, and over there last Thursday went Messrs. Stimson and Frankfurter to receive the confession. Spitzer had declared that he would confess to Mr. Stimson or Mr. Frankfurter, and to them alone.

The confession was of sufficient importance to warrant its use in the pending trial; hence arrangements were made with Attorney General Wickersham to get the pardon from President Taft, and when Spitzer was brought over to New York yesterday Chief Flynn had it ready for him. In point of fact, Spitzer got the coveted paper into his hands just as he started into the courtroom where he was so unwelcome a visitor to the defendants.

"Oliver Spitzer," called out Mr. Stimson when Judge Martin and the jury had found their places yesterday morning.

"O-o-oh!" went up in involuntary exclamation from the defendants. Their faces became ashy white as the vision from the Atlanta prison walked in past their chairs. Testy old Gerbracht, who has made bold to tell Government witnesses they were liars when their testimony didn't please him, sank back into his chair, all a-tremble. Bendernagel kept his nerve, and so did Heike, their color being about the only indication of the shock they had experienced.

Defense Thrown in Confusion.

One of the first questions asked by Mr. Stimson was whether Spitzer knew the defendants or any of them, naming over the five.

"I object," sang out John H. Stanchfield, counsel for Heike.

"Specify your objection," retorted Mr. Stimson.

"I object on the ground that the testimony is incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial," declared the attorney for the defense.

"Mr. Spitzer, please state in what way you are qualified to testify here," remarked the Government's counsel, addressing the witness.

"I have been pardoned by the President of the United States," replied Spitzer, and the defense was thrown into confusion again.

Spitzer reached into his pocket and pulled out his pardon, bearing the signature "W. H. Taft," and there was no gainsaying his right to testify in any court. It was dated Thursday, May 19, 1910. When Mr. Stanchfield, specialist in legal objections, was silent.

From this point Spitzer's story ran on rapidly. It began away back in the years when he was a checker for the Sugar Trust, and followed the successive steps in his advancement to the point of dock boss. He declared that he knew all the defendants, but Heike only slightly, and described how he had under his charge, subject only to Gerbracht, everything that went on at the Williamsburg docks—the weighing, the checking, the sampling, and the testing. At length he came down to the specific subject of the frauds.

Here his testimony was in exact confirmation of the story previously told by the other witnesses for the Government in the present trial. It was the linen bag of shot that was used first to tamper with the scales, said Spitzer, and then, about the time when James M. Vail became Deputy Surveyor in charge of the weighing division, in 1901, this scheme had to be abandoned because the sides of the scales were boarded up.

"Did you report the fact to Mr. Leroy in the company's office?" asked Mr. Stimson.

"I did," said Spitzer.

"Was any change made in the methods of the company?"

"There was," Spitzer replied.

Invented Steel Spring Process.

"Did the underweighing continue?" was the next question. Spitzer answered in the affirmative, and then was asked what new method was devised. He had already explained that the bag of lead falsified the weight against the Government to the extent of thirty-five or forty pounds in a draft of 100 pounds, and then proceeded to narrate how he and Harry Walker, his assistant, went to work to experiment on the scales for the purpose of discovering how they might again be tampered with so as to continue the underweighing. Spitzer said that as a result of his experiments he found that if a hole were bored in the stanchion at a certain place and a thin piece of steel inserted which a tallyman might manipulate it would produce the desired effect. He accordingly bored the holes in the stanchions of the seventeen scales on the Williamsburg piers and had the steel springs made which went through them into the journal of the scale beams.

Here was where one of the significant omissions in Spitzer's testimony of yesterday occurred. He did not say where he got his instructions to make the experiments, or who besides Walker helped him with them, or how the steel springs were ordered and obtained. Perhaps the Grand Jury got some further light along these lines.

The witness continued to tell Mr. Stimson that the heavier of the two sets of springs already described by Government witnesses were used first, and later on the lighter springs which reduced the variation against the Government to a matter of nine or ten pounds a draft. Next he described a system of signal lights which he arranged on the dock to notify the tallymen of the approach of any Government representative, and declared that the orders from time to time to turn on these lights generally came to him, but from whom he could not remember.

The arrangement with Gerbracht and Bendernagel to increase the wages of the tallymen who were depended upon to work the steel springs was the next feature of Spitzer's testimony, and in this connection he directly incriminated the former superintendent and cashier of the refinery in the guilty knowledge of the scheme to defraud.

Now Spitzer's attention was drawn to the year 1906, when the customs authorities began to get somewhat more active than they had been in the years preceding. He declared that some time in the Fall of that year he had been advised from the head office of the company over the telephone to "go easy," but he insisted that he did not know who gave him this warning. When Spitzer got to telling how the Trust "took care" of him and his fellows after the raid of Nov. 20, 1907, however, Spitzer's memory improved greatly.

It was Gerbracht, Spitzer asserted, who came once a week to the garage, where he found employment after his discharge by the Trust, with a bag of money. The bag contained the sum of the wages previously paid to Spitzer and the former employes who had been discharged at the time Spitzer was, and the witness said that he acted as distributing agent. Later on, after the whole crew except Gerbracht had been indicted, the wages did not fall, and Spitzer asserted that the Trust only stopped its payment after the convictions had been obtained last Fall.

That was about the end of the Spitzer story. When the Government was done with him George W. MacKellar, counsel with Clarence K. Lexow for Halligan, Walker, and Voelker, asked for a postponement of the cross-examination for a week so they could engage other counsel to conduct it, inasmuch as they had been Spitzer's own counsel at the former trial.

"Why could not Mr. Stanchfield or Mr. Graham conduct it?" inquired Mr. Denison, and he was greeted with a duet of

"Oh, no! Oh, no!"

"I represent Mr. Heike and my time is taken up," explained Mr. Stanchfield.

"And I stand with Mr. Stanchfield," echoed Mr. Graham.

So Judge Martin gave the lawyers for Bendernagel, Gerbracht, and the rest until to-morrow morning to retain another lawyer to cross-examine Spitzer, and there the matter rested while the Government went on with some corroborative witnesses for the remainder of yesterday's session.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Attorney General Wickersham was at the White House when word was received in this city of the pardon of Oliver Spitzer. When he left he seemed surprised that any one should know of the fact. "Who announced it and where was it announced?" he sharply inquired. When told that the announcement came from New York he said:

"You had better go to the Department of Justice to find out about pardons instead of going to New York."

At the Pardon Division of the Department of Justice to-day it was said that the pardon of Oliver Spitzer had been arranged entirely by Attorney General Wickersham, and that no one in the division knew anything about the case. Instructions had been received there to keep the matter quiet when the pardon was issued.

At the White House to-day it was said there was no statement to be made as to the pardon.

ARRESTED ON SPITZER'S STORY.

Former Treasury Employe Brzezinski Locked Up on Perjury Charge.

James C. Brzezinski, the former special employe of the Treasury Department who assisted Special Agent Richard Parr in the detection of the secret spring used to underweigh sugar at the Williamsburg piers of the American Sugar Refining Company on Nov. 20, 1907, was committed to the Tombs prison by United States Commissioner Shields late yesterday afternoon on a charge of perjury.

Oliver Spitzer, former Dock Superintendent of the Sugar Trust, who was pardoned by the President to give testimony in the sugar fraud cases now on trial, made the disclosures which resulted in the arrest of Brzezinski. This is considered strange, for it was Brzezinski's testimony that prevented Spitzer from being convicted of attempted bribery in the Brooklyn Federal Court in 1908. At that trial Brzezinski testified that Spitzer had not endeavored to approach either himself or Parr in an endeavor to hush up the finding of the piece of "corset steel" in one of the seventeen weighing machines, although he had given contrary evidence on which the indictment of Spitzer was based. This action of Brzezinski led to an open breach with Parr, and after an investigation at the Custom House the former lost his position in the Government service.

The testimony upon which the present charge of perjury is based was given in the recent investigation, when Brzezinski again repeated his testimony that Spitzer had not endeavored to bribe him and Parr after the finding of the concealed spring on Nov. 20, 1907. He had no idea at the time of the confession that Spitzer was to make.

Upon getting Spitzer's testimony that he had endeavored to bribe Brzezinski and Parr, at the close of the Heike trial yesterday, Assistant United States District Attorney Felix Frankfurter swore to a charge of perjury before Commissioner Shields. The warrant was given to Marshal Henkel for service, and Brzezinski was found at a matinée performance in a theatre. He was taken before Commissioner Shields, who set the examination for Friday at 2 P. M., and fixed the bail at $5,000. The prisoner was allowed to telephone for a Dr. Lewis of Brooklyn. The latter made a flying trip to the Federal Building in his automobile, but had neglected to bring the deeds of his property with him and was not accepted as a bondsman. Brzezinski, who had taken his arrest coolly, was locked up for the night in the Tombs.

Brzezinski lives at 423 Fifty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, and has been running a private detective agency in Manhattan. There is a Dr. M. T. Lewis living at No. [illegible] in the same street.

RABBI MAGNES OUT OF TEMPLE EMANU-EL

HIS TERM EXPIRES OCT. 1

Dr. Magnes Reaffirms the Views Expressed in His Passover Sermon, and Says He Cannot Change Them.

The Rev. Dr. Judah Leon Magnes, associate rabbi at Temple Emanu-El, will cease to be rabbi in that pulpit at the expiration of his term on Oct. 1.

This was decided at the annual meeting of members of the congregation in the vestry room of the temple last night, after the Board of Trustees had reported itself unable to recommend his re-election, owing to his insistence upon the sentiments voiced by him in a Passover sermon on April 24, which, the congregation decided, were in ritual and doctrine contrary to the tradition of Temple Emanu-El as a leader in the Jewish reform movement.

In the Trustees' report a letter was read last night, written by Dr. Magnes to the Board of Trustees on May 16, reaffirming his position and declaring that unless the congregation could give some sign of agreement with them he could not be a candidate for re-election. The letter said:

To the President and Board of Trustees of Temple Emanu-El, New York:

Gentlemen: I have learned from a committee designated at an informal conference of your board, that a majority of the board is not in sympathy with the views expressed in my Passover sermon, and that the opinion of such majority reflects the attitude of a considerable part of the congregation as well.

When I accepted the invitation in 1906 to become one of the rabbis of Congregation Emanu-El, it was explicitly stipulated that I was to have the right to give free and untrammeled expression to my convictions. I recognized, at the same time, the right of the congregation to signify its disagreement with any opinions I might have, and it was understood that I might be at liberty to sever my relations with the congregation whenever I found myself unable to reconcile my views with those to which the congregation adhered.

What I said in my Passover sermon voices convictions which, so long as I should continue to be your rabbi, I would feel bound to advocate, in order to bring about a genuine reform of Judaism by a revivification of its true spirit and sacred traditions. Nothing is further from my purpose than to induce this congregation to revert to "Orthodoxy," in the sense in which this much-abused term is commonly understood. A decorous service, with family pews, a reasonable use of the English vernacular, and all possible conformity with the spirit of the land, has always found in me an earnest supporter. Nor am I unwilling to discuss the efficacy of each and every remedy suggested in my sermon.

But I believe I have the right to expect some indication that the congregation recognizes the existence of the conditions I have pointed out, and that relief must in large measure be sought through a closer communion with the whole House of Israel and a closer approach to the sources of Judaism. On condition that such an indication can be given me by the congregation, I shall be willing to continue to occupy its pulpit.

If, however, the congregation indicates that I am not to expect its co-operation in accomplishing the purpose I cherish, then I am constrained, with regret, but without the least hesitation, to refuse a re-election to the rabbinate of the congregation at the expiration of my present term.

Thanking you for your many acts of courtesy, and with the sincere hope that Congregational Emanu-El may be a great influence for good in Judaism, I am, very truly yours, J. L. MAGNES.

The remedies proposed by Dr. Magnes had included the restoration of the Bar Mitzvah or Hebrew confirmation of boys, study of the Hebrew language in the Sunday school, adult classes for the study of Hebrew literature, reduction of membership fees, and the substitution of the traditional Jewish prayer book for the Union prayer book now used by all reform Jewish congregations.

"These conditions," said Louis Marshall, Secretary of the Board of Trustees, last night, "the congregation was unable to accept, and it therefore agreed with the report of the Trustees, declaring itself unable to recommend Dr. Magnes's re-election at the expiration of his term on Oct. 1.

"The Board of Trustees was then delegated to act in conjunction with a committee of four members, still to be appointed, to consider the subject of the pulpit and of finding an incumbent for it at an early date."

There was no election of a rabbi last night. Dr. Joseph Silverman, senior rabbi of the congregation, will continue in office.

Besides hearing the reports of the Trustees and committees, the congregation re-elected the following officers, whose terms had expired: President—James Seligman; Vice President—M. H. Moses; Trustees—Henry Sidenberg, Louis Marshall, and David Leventritt.

Dr. Magnes said last night that he had nothing to add to his letter to the Board of Trustees, nor any statement as to his future plans. He had some time ago decided to spend his vacation this Summer in Palestine, and will leave here for that country on June 17.

Manufacturers Wholesalers

Some wholesalers who are utilizing our facilities find that they are able to reduce the number of their porters by two-thirds. The present shipping room force gives far better, faster, surer, more intelligent service at a saving—a proven saving—of $6,000 yearly.

Some manufacturers who are our tenants find that their piece workers make from $1 to $1.50 more weekly. The increased facilities we give, the marked advantages of perfect light, ventilation, comfort, every known facility—these enable them to do more work, better work—faster work. The other operatives increase their production in exactly the same proportion. Does this appeal to you? Greatly increased production at the same payroll cost?

DE MONTPENSIER UNDER FIRE.

French Duke Here Tells of His War Adventures Before Melilla.

Duke Ferdinand de Montpensier, brother of the Duc d'Orleans, who claims the title of King of France, received a reporter in the royal suite at the Hotel Knickerbocker yesterday. The Duke, who, like his brother, is exiled from his country, was most democratic in speech and manner.

Nor did the Duke talk much about his plans for hunting with a moving-picture machine which he expects to use as a matter of record in his adventures in the wilds of Mexico, the Rocky Mountains, and the jungles of Southern China. He made known for the first time his experiences in the recent trouble between Spain and Morocco, when, as a Lieutenant in the Spanish Navy, he was under fire for ten consecutive hours at Melilla.

"It was on the night of Sept. 5 last," said the Duke, "that I was ordered to take food and ammunition from the Spanish battleship Numancia to the Spanish soldiers in the fort at Melilla. As First Lieutenant I commanded a steam launch with several small boats in tow filled with food and ammunition. We put out under the cover of darkness from the ship.

"We were hardly a hundred yards from the ship when we were sighted by the enemy. Although it was 10 o'clock the moon had not risen. But the Arabs have keen eyes, and as we passed in through the neck of the smaller bay, headed toward the fort, the bullets dropped about us. For a long ways we were within 200 yards of the enemy on the shore, and they kept up a fusillade from behind rocks.

"All night we passed under fire to and from the ship. Two of my men were wounded and one killed. In the light of the moon I watched for figures to show from behind the rocks. Three times I saw a man fall after I shot, and on a subsequent trip to the fort we found three bodies lying where they dropped.

"It was a night I shall never forget. When I returned to Spain King Alfonso decorated me with the badge of honor known as the Maria Christina. I am happiest when I am fighting or hunting, and this trip is my second one around the world in search of game.

"I was attacked once in India by a buffalo, and barely escaped death. As the buffalo plunged toward me I emptied my gun, inflicting a mortal wound. It was the last shot, and to my consternation the buffalo kept coming on toward me, with death in his eye. I leaped to one side as he lunged at me, and then he stumbled into his death agony and died from the wound in his head.

"When I next hunt in the jungle of Indo-China I shall do so from a motor car, which has been specially constructed for my use. It is almost like an armored car, and the tires are made of leather and are puncture proof. It is rather hard going for a motor car in the jungle, as there are no roads.

"As for my moving picture machine, I am simply taking it along for a record. After a while all explorers and hunters will include a cinematograph in their outfit, for then one will have pictures to demonstrate what he says."

The Duke then told something about his royal brother, who is living quietly in Woodnorton, Worcestershire, England. He said that he himself was allowed to visit France as long as he did not mix up in politics.

The Duke is fully six feet tall, and is 26 years old. He laughed at the idea of his coming here to hunt an American heiress. He is rich in his own name, having inherited the wealth of his grandfather, the late Duc de Montpensier.

Accompanying the Duke is his intimate friend, Hubert Thonier, a good shot also, although he wears a gold bracelet, a servant, and a moving picture machine operator. M. G. Pontac of this city will accompany the Duke in his hunting trip to the Rockies. The party will remain in New York about ten days.

COX MEN BACK LONGWORTH.

Will Give Roosevelt's Son-in-Law Solid Support for Ohio Senatorship.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, May 23.—The Cox organization in Cincinnati will support to a man Congressman Nicholas Longworth of the First Ohio District for the Senatorship, in succession to Senator Charles Dick of Akron. Cox men say openly that they will not only give him their support, but that they will work for him at the Dayton Convention this Summer.

When the primaries were held in Cincinnati on May 17 every Cox man at every balloting place whispered to the men as they voted, "Please scratch the name of Dick at the top of the ticket." Later it was learned that Longworth had been decided upon by the Cox-Herrmann-Hynicka organization as the most likely man to defeat Senator Dick. That is the reason why Mr. Longworth was so vehement in opposing the placing of his name on the Gubernatorial slate. He told Charles P. Taft that under no consideration would he be a candidate for that place, and repeated this declaration to R. K. Hynicka in a letter.

It is thought here that the naming of Longworth for this position at the primaries will cause a stampede in his favor by the Republicans. Ever since Herrick withdrew Longworth has appeared to be the most available man.

HIS FIRST RAILROAD RIDE.

Ayres Will Go to Newark on His Thirty-first Birthday.

BRANCHVILLE, N. J., May 23.—To celebrate his thirty-first birthday soon William Ayres of Sandystone Township will take his first ride on a railroad train, going to Newark.

Ayres does not hate or fear the railroad, but a chain of circumstances has kept him away from them. He has traveled much about the country in carriages and has even taken a spin in the automobile of his employer.

"I have never had time to take any trips," said Ayres to-day. "I never had the money. What I earned I needed to support my family. I have read in newspapers about the big city and the doings of the city people. I have always wanted to see the world, and I will do so yet."

TAPEWORM CLUB DINES.

Vice President Sherman and Odell and Black at Washington Banquet.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Members of the Tapeworm Club, an old organization of New York Republican Congressmen, dined here to-night at the Chevy Chase Club. The club was organized when former Gov. B. B. Odell of New York, Vice President Sherman, former Gov. Frank S. Black, and others were members of the House. It was an eating club then and is a banquet club now.

Among those present at the dinner were former Govs. Odell and Black, former Congressman Lucient Littauer, Vice President Sherman, Wallace Foote, Representative Southwick, Charles G. Bennett, Secretary of the Senate, and former Senator Hemenway of Indiana.

BEAT SUSPECTED KIDNAPPER.

Crowd Fails on Italian from Whom a Father Had Rescued His Baby Boy.

Yonkers residents inflicted summary punishment last night upon an Italian who gave his name as Michael Deveto, and who was found leading Jerome, the three-year-old son of Samuel Weinberger of 160 Riverdale Avenue, through the streets.

Weinberger and his wife, accompanied by Jerome, had gone into a confectionery store on Riverdale Avenue. Unnoticed by his parents, Jerome toddled into the street. A few minutes later a girl, Mamie Beiner, ran up to Weinberger and cried: "An Italian has run away with your boy."

A couple of blocks ahead Weinberger saw a rough-looking fellow leading Jerome by the hand. Weinberger overtook him and rescued the child. Deveto drew a knife, but before he could use it Weinberger knocked him down. A crowd gathered, and when the nature of the trouble was learned a score of men sprang upon Deveto and pounded him without mercy. The intervention of the police saved him from further punishment when he was half unconscious.

When Deveto was arraigned in court he denied attempting to kidnap the child. He said the boy followed him.

Suspicious characters followed the Weinbergers after Deveto was locked up, and by the advice of friends they decided to withdraw the complaint in court.

RISK LIVES TO SAVE A BLAZING LIGHTER

Captain and Mate Stick to the Stranahan Until She Is Almost Burned to Water's Edge.

DANCING PAVILION IN PERIL

Clason Point Merrymakers in a Panic as Pier Catches Fire—Near Scene of Slocum Disaster.

A steam lighter, loaded with lumber, on fire just above North Brother Island in the Upper East River, where the ill-fated Sunday school excursion steamer General Slocum was burned in 1905, furnished spectacular effects last night and brought to light two heroes in the persons of the Captain and the mate, who refused to leave the lighter after all hope of saving her was gone, and after they had been severely burned. A panic among several hundred pleasure seekers in a big dancing pavilion at Clason Point, toward which the burning boat was drifting, furnished additional excitement.

The boat was the steam lighter Joseph A. Stranahan, belonging to McCaleven Brothers of 81 Broad Street. It was in charge of Capt. William Gulley of 540 Fifty-fifth Street, Brooklyn. Yesterday morning Capt. Gulley received orders to go to the Erie Railway pier in the North River and take forty Indians and a carload of lumber to Glen Island, a Summer resort in the Sound. The Indians are to appear in a spectacle called the Hiawatha Show at Glen Island, which opens on May 28. The lumber was consigned to the L. A. Thompson Company, which is building a scenic railway at Clason Point.

The crew, besides the Captain, consisted of First Mate Percy Walsh, Engineer John Wilson, Assistant Engineer John Kane, and Deck Hand Gus Leibright. Capt. Gulley landed his cargo of Indians at Glen Island, and late in the afternoon started for Clason Point to discharge the lumber. About 7:30 o'clock, when the vessel was off College Point, Mate Walsh discovered fire in the hold, close to the engine room.

He notified the Captain, who set the crew at work to fight the flames. The Captain pointed the vessel's nose toward the Bronx shore and put on full speed. The fire was a stubborn one, but after a hard fight it was being subdued, when a barrel of kerosene which had not been noticed exploded. The stern of the vessel was immediately a mass of flame.

Stay with Their Boat.

Capt. Gulley ordered every one to the lifeboat. At the last moment he refused to leave himself, saying he would stick to the wheel and try to beach the boat. When Mate Walsh found the Captain was obdurate he put back to the burning vessel and leaped aboard.

"My place is beside you, Cap," said Walsh, "and here I'll stick."

The Captain and the mate kept close to the wheel until the flames drove them to the bow, and being unable to manage the boat it began to drift toward the northwest. The men in the lifeboat rowed frantically toward shore for help. They had a hard time, however, keeping their bearings in the dense fog.

When the vessel was about a mile and a half from Clason Point it was seen by Edward Dilligan, the proprietor of the Clason Point Inn. All he could make out through the fog was a blur of flame, and he immediately surmised that an excursion boat was on fire. He called up all the fire companies in the neighborhood on the telephone and notified the police of the Westchester Station. The nearest fire station to Clason Point is three miles distant, and owing to the indefinite information the firemen received they had a hard time locating the exact point toward which the burning boat was drifting.

The Sergeant at the Westchester Police Station told Mounted Policeman Edward West of the fire, and West spurred his horse in the direction of Clason Point. As he was galloping along the Clason Point road he almost ran over the firemen, who were feeling their way through the fog with their apparatus. He led the way to the pier, and when the firemen arrived there they discovered that there were no water hydrants.

Launch to the Rescue.

After arousing the Fire and Police Departments Dilligan started to do some rescuing on his own account. The Joseph A. Stranahan had drifted to within half a mile of the shore, and, calling upon Clinton Stevens, who owns most of the property at the point to follow, Dilligan put out through the fog in his launch, the Elk. Without much trouble he found the lifeboat containing Wilson, Kane, and Leibright, and took them aboard. Everybody on Clason Point was aroused by this time. A crowd swarmed down upon the boats of the Clason Point Yacht Club, and soon a dozen or more were rowing toward the burning lighter.

They could plainly see Capt. Gulley and Mate Walsh standing upon the vessel's bow with the flames close behind them. The vessel was drifting straight for Cowan's Dancing Casino, and for a time it looked as if it would land there and set it afire. Some one shouted a warning, and the crowd that was watching from the end of the pier made a mad scramble for safety. Women and children were knocked down and trampled on, but no one was seriously injured.

More firemen and policemen had arrived by this time, and with long poles they kept the boat from coming alongside the wharf. It was finally pushed off, and drifted over to the Clason Point pier. As it struck Capt. Gulley and Mate Walsh jumped ashore. Both had narrow escapes. Their hands and faces were blistered. They were taken into the Inn close by and their injuries attended.

When the lighter struck the pier the flames leaped to a pile of lumber stored thereon, and soon the pier was ablaze. Near by another steam lighter, the Stamford, with 125,000 feet of lumber on board, was in danger of catching fire also. Its moorings were cut loose and it was allowed to drift down the river. It was beached without loss about 100 feet below the point.

The firemen managed to keep the flames from spreading along the pier, but nothing could be done to save the Joseph A. Stranahan. The boat and its cargo of yellow pine burned to the water's edge.

Capt. Gulley and Mate Walsh refused to leave the place until the last ember had died out.

What was left of the lighter finally sank, leaving only a foot of smokestack above the water. About that time the fireboat McClellan arrived from Manhattan.

Ambulances were called from the Fordham Hospital, and Drs. Carey and Kessler dressed the Captain's and mate's burns. They went to their homes.

The Joseph A. Stranahan was built in Athens, N. Y., in 1883. She was of 127 tons gross tonnage. Her length was 99.5 feet and her home port was New York City.

FIRE ON THE COLORADO OUT.

Little Damage Done to the Mallory Liner or Its Cargo.

KEY WEST, Fla., May 23.—The fire which was discovered yesterday afternoon in the lower hold of the Mallory Line steamer Colorado was extinguished at noon to-day, and it is not believed that any serious damage was done either to the ship or cargo.

The revenue cutter Forward and navy tug Massasoit went alongside as soon as the Colorado entered the harbor this morning, having been advised by wireless of the steamer's plight. The Colorado was grounded on Middle Groundbank, where the work of fighting the flames began in earnest. The Colorado was still aground to-night, and the flooded hold is being pumped free of water.

The forward and the Massasoit left the Colorado's side before dark. No officer or agent of the line came ashore to-day, and no details are known further than that the fire was discovered at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon while off the East coast.

The Colorado was bound from New York to Galveston with a general cargo.

A brief message was received at the office of the Mallory Line here yesterday morning from Capt. W. T. Davidson stating that the steamship Colorado was on fire. Later a message reached the office that a Government vessel was standing by and the fire, which was in the forward hold, was out. The Colorado was bound from this port for Key West and Galveston. She carried no passengers. The vessel sailed from here on Wednesday and was due at Key West yesterday.

SMALL FIRE CAUSES PANIC.

Burning Pitch in the Cellar Called for Second Alarm and Police Reserves.

A fire which started in the cellar of a three-story brick building on lower Fulton Street, Brooklyn, yesterday among a lot of barrels of pitch and tar caused a panic among the four families living on the upper floors of the house and the residents of a tenement building next door.

Dense clouds of smoke from the burning pitch filled the house and streets, causing the families in the house to believe that the blaze was much larger than it really was. The Fulton Street Police Station adjoins the burned building, and the reserves were easily at hand to give assistance to the terror-stricken tenants.

The two months' old baby boy of Mrs. John Gomez was carried out partly overcome by smoke. The police guided all the families safely to the street. It was found necessary to sound a second alarm, though the damage to the building and contents caused by the fire was only $800.

Taxicab Catches Fire.

Theatre crowds in the vicinity of Herald Square saw a taxicab fire last night shortly before the shows began. The vehicle was owned by Martan Oronf of 200 East Eighty-sixth Street, who operates it for himself, and the trouble began when a quantity of gasoline caught fire. Three hundred dollars' damage was done before the fire was extinguished.

TRAIN CUT OFF HIS LEGS.

Henry Maher Attempts to End His Life at a Brooklyn Subway Station.

Several persons waiting for a train for Manhattan in the Borough Hall station of the Subway in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon saw Henry Maher of 233 Court Street, that borough, attempt suicide by throwing himself in front of a train as it was pulling up to the station platform. He had been pacing nervously up and down the platform before the train arrived.

The motorman put on the emergency brakes as soon as he saw the man jump, but before the train could be stopped the wheels of the first car and the forward trucks of the second car had passed over him, amputating both legs.

The Interborough employes lifted him from under the car and carried him across the tracks to the uptown station of the Subway, where he was attended by an ambulance surgeon from the Brooklyn Hospital. The surgeon was surprised to find the man conscious and able to talk. While the surgeon was dressing his injuries, before removing his to the hospital, Maher, supporting his head on his right arm, watched him at work. He finally asked for a priest. A messenger was dispatched for one at the rectory of St. Charles Borromeo, in Sidney Place, near Livingston Street.

Maher lives at the Court Street address with his wife and 2-year-old boy. Mrs. Maher said her husband worked in a sugar refinery at Fort Lee. She said there had been no family quarrel, but that he had been drinking. He was taken to the hospital a prisoner on the charge of attempted suicide. It was said there last night that he would probably die.

DOG LICENSE BILL DEFEATED.

It Would Have Taken Away the Power from the Humane Societies.

Humane societies in the State are mightily pleased with their success in defeating in the Senate the Cobb License bill, which threatened to take from the hands of the societies the licensing of dogs. It mustered only nine votes when it came up in Albany last Friday.

Had it passed, the State would have been set "forty years back in humane legislation," General Manager William K. Horton of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said yesterday. The measure would have placed the control of dogs in the hands of the State Department of Agriculture, removing all power from city and town authorities and local humane societies.

"The most barbarous provision of the bill," said Mr. Horton, "was that which permitted the killing of any dog which strayed from its owner's premises by any one, the sole restricting clause being that animals 'licensed were to be exempt.' Another provision was that the registration fee, which now is $1 to $3 a year, was to be increased to $5 for female dogs, males being kept at the same figures The bill originated with the State Grange."

The number of persons who would be affected by this measure should it have become a law, may be realized when it is stated that in Manhattan and the Bronx there are nearly 200,000 dogs, while Brooklyn has 100,000.

BELL LOSES TO MADDEN.

Broker in Default in Horseman's $50,000 Damage Suit.

John E. Madden, the horseman, won his suit against Louis V. Bell, a local broker, by the failure of Bell to put in an appearance yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Ford. The Justice signed an interlocutory decree for $50,000, the amount sued for.

Madden alleged that Bell influenced Mrs. Marie Anna Louise Magrue Madden, Madden's divorced wife, whom Bell married, to bring injunction proceedings which destroyed the success of a horse sale which Madden conducted at Sheepshead Bay.

The sale realized $54,000, but Madden alleged that but for the charges made by his former wife at Bell's alleged instigation the amount would have been much greater. The horses sold were from Madden's stock farm at Hamburg Place, Lexington, Ky.

ANGEL DANCERS LOSE PROTEGE

"Farmer," a Waif They Adopted, Will Go Back to His Mother.

"Farmer," a 10-year-old boy, who was adopted by the Lord's Farm Community, known as "Angel Dancers," several years ago and over whom there was much dispute when Garret Storms ousted Huntsman T. Mnason, the leading spiritual adviser, has been reclaimed by his mother and will soon return to France.

A woman who gave her name as Maria Theresa and her baby boy were taken in at the Lord's Farm. The child, which was named "Farmer," remained, though Maria Theresa returned to France and married a well-to-do Frenchman.

Some time ago she sent for the boy, but Storms refused to surrender him, until Justice James Bratt of Hackensack, Superintendent of the Children's Home, persuaded him to do so.

"Farmer" Storms, who is now at the residence of an aunt in Brooklyn, will sail on May 31 for France to join his mother. Justice Bratt received a note from the boy this morning in which he requested that his toys and bank book be sent to him.

Smallpox in the Birma's Steerage.

Discovery of a case of smallpox on the steamer Birma resulted in the detention of the vessel yesterday on her arrival from Libau and Copenhagen. The patient is a child who traveled in the steerage with more than 800 passengers. A number of these will be held for observation on Hoffman Island, where the little patient was also taken. The steamer was disinfected.

WOMAN LEARNS LAW TO PLEAD OWN CASE

Forced to Do It, Says Miss Requa, When Other Attorneys Refused to Act for Her.

SUES BOARD OF EDUCATION

For Reinstatement as Supervisor of Physical Culture in the Public Schools—Decision Reserved.

Mary Augusta Requa, who became a lawyer because, she said, she could find no attorney who would guarantee to recover her place as Supervisor of Physical Culture in the public schools, appeared yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Erlanger to argue for a writ of mandamus against the Board of Education. Justice Erlanger reserved decision.

Miss Requa has been fighting for seven years—since the Board of Education dismissed her on charges in 1903. She has reported for work on every schoolday in that period. Prior to consolidation she was a Supervisor of Physical Education at $2,000 a year salary.

At that time her place was abolished and Luther H. Gulick was appointed Director of Physical Training at $4,000 a year. Miss Requa was retained as assistant to Mr. Gulick, with supervision over her old territory, at the same salary as she had enjoyed before the consolidation.

She considered this a grievance, she said, and insisted on reporting for work as principal director, and made continuous protests to the Superintendent and the Board of Education. She refused to do the work to which she was assigned, and was brought up on charges and dismissed. She then took her case to a score of lawyers, all of whom told her she had no redress from her dismissal. Miss Requa then entered upon the study of law, so that she might prosecute her own claims.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles McIntyre, who appeared in opposition to Miss Requa's application, said that Miss Requa's claim had lapsed from lack of prosecution and that, as the place has been abolished and she herself dismissed from the department on charges, she had no basis for an action for reinstatement.

SHAUGHNESSY DENIES MERGER

Says Canadian Pacific Has Not Acquired Ontario & Western.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, May 23.—Sir Thomas Shaugnessy denied to-day that there was any truth in the report that the Canadian Pacific had acquired a controlling interest in the New York, Ontario & Western, and added that he had never thought of such a thing, "that is, not in office hours," he remarked.

"It might be a fine thing," he said, "to have Canadian Pacific engines pulling freight into New York City, but I fail to see how it would benefit Montreal or Canada. I must admit that I, with others, have had dreams of like to see the Canadian Pacific absorb the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, and all the rest of them. One is about as near reality as the other."

The absorption of the Ontario & Western by the Canadian Pacific Railroad is regarded by railway men here as the most natural thing in the world. It has been thought that the Canadian Pacific would take hold of the line, extend it along the south shore of Lake Ontario to Niagara Falls, where the Canadian Pacific has a line in process of construction, and west to Woodstock, on the main line between Detroit and Montreal. The Canadian Pacific Railroad has running rights over the Wabash from Detroit to Chicago. Hence the acquisition of the New York, Ontario & Western would probably mean the establishment of a new route between New York and Chicago in competition with the Lehigh Valley route of the Grand Trunk.

STILL FEAR POLLUTION.

City Sewerage Commission Again Reports Against the Passaic Valley Plan.

The Metropolitan Sewerage Commission presented a further report to Mayor Gaynor yesterday on the construction of the proposed Passaic Valley sewer in New Jersey. The commission still contends that the sewer would materially add to the pollution of the waters of the harbor, and urges that steps be taken to make the city a party to the suit with the State opposing the construction of the sewer now pending in the United States Supreme Court.

It is pointed out that the State of New Jersey and the United States Attorney General have withdrawn from the action on an agreement entered into with the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission. This agreement includes provisions for the handling of the sewage which the Metropolitan Commission does not consider sufficient.

"The agreement does not give adequate assurance to the people of New York City and State that the Passaic Valley project will not become a public nuisance and the method of enforcing the agreement is open to criticism," says the report.

President Soper of the commission held a conference on the subject yesterday with the Mayor, and the latter said that he will take it up with Corporation Counsel Watson.

PROTECTION OF WORKMEN.

Paul U. Kellogg Says More Legal Safeguards Must Be Granted.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 23.—Paul U. Kellogg of New York, in an address to-night before the National Conference of Charities and Correction, said:

"We must insure by law to American workmen certain minimum standards of hours of labor and of rest, of safety, of health, of restitution when the workingman is killed or injured or diseased through his work, and of current wages such as will sustain life amply."

Local public and private institutions of charity and correction were visited today by the delegates. In addition, six sectional and one general session of the conference were largely attended.

Probation officers from many cities in the sectional meeting on "Children" agreed that the juvenile court had been a success, and its enlargement was urged. The National Probation Officers' Association attended the meeting in a body.

BLACK HANDER SENTENCED.

Albano Gets Shorter Prison Term by Changing Plea to Guilty.

In pleading guilty for assault in the first degree before Judge Fawcett in the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, Pasquale Albano, known to the police as a leader of a gang of Black Handers, saved himself from a long sentence. He was indicted for attempted murder with his pal, Raffaello Pissano, for shooting another Italian in the eye after trying to extort $100 from him.

Pissano was convicted on the indictment several weeks ago and is now serving a term of twenty years in Sing Sing. Albano was allowed to change his plea yesterday to the lesser charge, and was sentenced to nine years and ten months in Sing Sing. Judge Fawcett in passing sentence repeated his statement made at the trials of other Black Handers convicted of extortion, that he would give them the limit if any of them came before him in the future. He told Albano that he would like to have him deported as soon as his sentence expired.

NEW PRIMARY BILL SEEMS TO BE DOOMED

Only 22 Out of 36 at Conference of Republican Senators Support It.

CAUCUS PLAN DEFEATED

Discussion Adjourned Until To-night—Machine Followers Denounce Cobb's Negotiations with Gov. Hughes.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 23.—After a conference of the Republican Senators to-night to consider the new compromise Direct Nominations bill, which has been evolved under the Governor's auspices since last Saturday, it became apparent that this measure would follow the Hinman-Green bill to defeat. The hope had been entertained by the Governor's friends that the bill would pass the Senate, so that it could be "put up" to Speaker Wadsworth and the Assembly leaders, who have so far furnished the backbone in the fight against the Governor's primary reforms.

The conference to-night seemed to settle the question, however, for out of the 36 Republicans who attended only 22 voted for introducing the compromise bill in the Senate, while 14 voted against it. All the support the advocates of direct nominations can expect from the Democratic side of the Senate is two votes—those of Gardner of Montgomery and Ramsperger of Erie.

The friends of Gov. Hughes, led by Senators Hinman and Cobb, tried hard to turn the conference into a caucus. In this effort they were baffled. A number of Republican Senators who have leanings toward the bosses declared that if the caucus rule were applied they would stay out, and, by joining hands with the Tammany delegation they would be in a position to beat the compromise bill on the floor of the Senate. On the other hand, had the caucus rule been applied, the result of the only vote taken shows that the compromise bill would have been made an organization measure.

Such Senators as Platt, Grattan, Meade, White, and others controlled by the machine leaders declared before they entered the conference that they would not take part in a caucus or be bound by caucus action. They held out for a vote in the Senate as each individual desired. With such an arrangement, the opponents of the direct nominations scheme declare they have enough votes to defeat the compromise bill, although they cannot muster enough to pass the Meade-Phillips bill.

For two hours the Senators discussed features of the Cobb bill to which objection was made. One of these was the provision that existing committees shall make the "preferential nominations" this year. It is provided that after this year the committees chosen at the primaries shall make such nominations for the following year. The time is too short to provide for the election of new committees to make up the ticket for the present year.

Another provision to which objection was made was the apportionment of votes among the members of the committees which are to make the organization nominations. The voting strength depends on the number of party voters in the district and not on the majority the member of a committee may receive at the primary.

Organization Republicans made a strenuous fight on the Hinman-Green ballot, which is incorporated in the modified measure. In the Meade-Phillips bill, which has been passed by the Assembly, provision is made for voting an entire ticket at the primary with one mark, as is the case with the present ballot on Election Day. The Cobb bill divides the ticket according to the offices to be filled. All the candidates for one office are grouped together, and the organization candidate is to have the first place under each heading, being designated by a number. It was pointed out that this is practically an educational qualification, as no provision is made for an emblem. It would also require a voter at a primary to mark his ballot separately for each candidate he desires to vote for. This is the Massachusetts ballot feature, which the Republican organization has always opposed.

While the conference was in progress the opening of the Senate's session was delayed. At 10 o'clock, after the patience of the waiting Democrats was nearly exhausted, the Republican Senators voted to adjourn the conference until to-morrow night. Each side seemed satisfied with this action, as it gives another day for manoeuvring.

Under this arrangement the compromise bill cannot reach the Senate before Wednesday. With an emergency message it might be passed on that day, but it would not reach the Assembly until Thursday, the day before the time set by both houses for final adjournment. This situation makes it more probable than ever that there will be no primary legislation in the regular session of the Legislature, and that there will be a special session.

In its final form the Cobb bill provides for the direct nomination of candidates for the Assembly, Senate, Congress, and county offices. The Counties of Greater New York are exempted from the direct primary system in every year in which a city election occurs. In all other years the provisions of the bill are to apply to counties in the city. Thus the Governor would secure direct nominations for all offices except city, judicial, State, and village.

The opponents of the compromise measure see an advantage in the extension of the direct nominations principle to Congressmen. They look for enough opposition from Republican members of Congress to make its passage impossible.

Senators representing districts controlled by Barnes, Aldridge, and other leaders complain bitterly of the failure of Senator Cobb, the majority leader, to stand up against the Governor's plan to the end. They say the Governor has been whipped in both houses and that it is ridiculous to accept terms from the Executive Chamber under the circumstances. Speaker Wadsworth and Assemblymen Phillips and Merritt were busy during the day in an effort to beat the compromise, or at least to prevent a Senate caucus on the measure.

TELEPHONE BILL DELAYED.

Grady Holds Up Measure Extending Service Board's Authority.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 23.—The bill extending the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission to the telephone and telegraph companies was again held up in the Senate to-night by Senator Grady.

Senator Davis insisted at first upon a vote on the bill, but Senator Grady said that on account of the late hour at which the Senate convened it would be necessary "to send for sandwiches" if Senator Davis persisted in his intention. It was finally agreed that the bill should be made a special order in the early part of to-morrow's session.

SUBURBAN RATES HEARING.

New Haven Road Increases Before Public Service Board Thursday.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 23.—The Public Service Commission to-day appointed a hearing for Thursday of this week at Albany on the complaint of William P. Hickok and Buell G. Tallman against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company in the matter of increased commutation rates which the company proposed to put in effect on June 1.

In the answer of the company received to-day it admitted that it did not post the tariffs in the station at Mount Vernon thirty days preceding the first of June, denying that the posting of the schedules is required by the Public Service Commissions law, and held that it had complied with the requirements regulating the publication, posting, and keeping posted of schedules.

Following the receipt of the answer William Greenough, attorney, and F. C. Coley, First Assistant General Passenger Agent of the company, appeared before the commission and asked that it be permitted to file and publish new commutation rates five days after the filing of supplements to the tariffs in dispute. The petition represented that the supplements would postpone until June 4 the cancellation of the present commutation rates and other local rates, and recited that the tariffs were filed with the commission thirty days before the date, but were posted in the stations one day late, owing to the failure of the printer to furnish them in time.

The commission denied the applications to put the rates in on short notice and ordered the hearing to be had.

AIDS INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Assembly Passes Bill Enabling Them to Do More Business.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 23.—By a practically unanimous vote the Assembly to-night passed the Allen bill, which permits domestic life insurance companies to undertake new business in excess of the $150,000,000 annually to which they were restricted by the Armstrong amendments to the insurance law. The large insurance companies have been fighting for legislation of this nature since the Armstrong amendments became law, but not until the present time have they been able to convince Gov. Hughes that the Legislature would be warranted in removing the bars.

As it is, the new business in excess of $150,000,000 is surrounded with many safeguards, making it incumbent on the companies to practice economies in connection with the cost of their new business in order to benefit from the provisions of the bill. The only companies in this State which could be affected in the near future by the proposed amendment are the New York Life, the Mutual, and the Equitable. The Metropolitan Life, being an industrial concern, is not restricted in the matter of new business as are the non-industrial concerns.

The bill has not yet passed the Senate.

SUPERVISORS CRITICISED.

Controller Says Irregularities Are the Rule in Smaller Cities.

ALBANY, May 23.—The special report of the State Controller, made annually, regarding the work of his office under the Municipal Accounts law, was transmitted to the Legislature to-night. Under this law examinations are made of the accounts of cities of the second and third classes, counties outside of the City of New York, and incorporated villages in the State. These municipalities expended during the latest fiscal year of each an aggregate of nearly $55,000,000.

The Controller says that "while not asserting that members of the Boards of Supervisors would knowingly be parties to or sanction any scheme to effect a misappropriation of any part of the taxpayers' money, it is found that in not a single municipality examined have the finances been administered in an absolutely proper and lawful manner."

The opinion is expressed, however, that many of the irregularities result from precedents established by previous boards.

SIGNS BANK LICENSE BILL.

Gov. Hughes Approves Measure to Protect Immigrants' Savings.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 23.—Gov. Hughes to-day signed the bill of Senator Sullivan providing for the licensing of private bankers who do not operate under the provisions of the banking law. The bill is designed to protect the savings of immigrants, especially those on the east side of New York, who, it is stated, have lost millions of dollars in recent years.

The State Controller is authorized to issue a license after the applicants file certain statements and make a deposit with the Controller of $10,000. The penalty of the bond is fixed at from $10,000 to $50,000.

The Governor also signed the bill of Assemblyman Foley requiring the licensing of all persons selling transportation tickets to or from foreign countries. Railroad and transatlantic steamship companies or their agents are exempt from the provisions of the law. The Controller is authorized to issue a license upon the filing of a bond of $2,000 in first-class cities and $1,000 in other localities.

Both acts take effect Sept. 1.

GIRL PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Slide Down a Pole and Wade a Swamp —Police Catch Them.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, May 23.—Two girl citizens of the George Junior Republic at Freeville successfully broke from jail last night and were on their way West when caught by the Ithaca Chief of Police. The girls are Florence Dougherty of Pittsburg and Carrie Hazely of Interlaken. Both are about 18 years of age. They had been sent to jail after a hearing before the Republic Judge and convicted of misconduct.

About midnight the girls crawled through a narrow window to the roof of the second story. There they found escape cut off, except by a near-by pole, which they slid down, hurting their hands in the descent. To avoid approaching too close to the republic walls they waded through a swamp. Then they put on dry stockings and walked fourteen miles to Ithaca, where they bought tickets for Trumansburg, but, alarmed at the attention they attracted at the station, started to walk to Willow Creek, a distance of seven miles.

Chief Buck saw them at Glenwood, five miles from this city. They started to run, but he caught them and brought them to jail here. They were taken back to Freeville prison.

AUTOMOBILE BILL GOES TO GOVERNOR

Callan Measure Regulating Motor Vehicles Has Passed Both Houses at Albany.

SPEED LIMIT 30 MILES

Licenses Graded by Horse Power and Persons Under 18 Not Allowed to Drive Without Chauffeur.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 23.—By a vote of 95 to 12 the Assembly to-night passed the Callan Automobile bill, and it now goes to the Governor. This measure provides for speed at from fifteen to thirty miles an hour, and for an annual registration fee graded according to the horse power of the machine.

The bill was amended in the Senate so as to take from the authorities of small cities and villages the right to regulate traffic. This amendment was requested by the users of automobiles, and was made after it was indicated that Gov. Hughes would have no objection to the change.

In the Assembly to-night the Senate amendments were concurred in, the only speech in opposition being made by Assemblyman Lansing of Rensselaer, who objected to the speed provision. It is probable the Governor will give a hearing on the bill.

The regulations of the new bill can be summed up briefly as follows: No car can carry more than one license number, the speed shall not be more than thirty miles an hour on the State highways, license numbers must not swing, and the number must be displayed in both the front and rear of the machine, the rear number must be illuminated at night so that it will be easy to read, no one under eighteen years of age shall be permitted to drive a car unless accompanied by a licensed chauffeur, and every car must be licensed annually, the license fee being regulated by the horse power of the car. The maximum rate of speed as provided by the bill is thirty miles an hour on all of the highways of the State. This will not affect the ordinances of towns and villages, which can still pass ordinances regulating the speed within their limits, but, except in case of the cities of the first class, they cannot pass any law bringing the limit below fifteen miles an hour.

With the new law in operation it will be a difficult matter for any car to get away after an accident without being identified. Besides providing that number plates shall be placed on the front as well as the rear and that they shall not swing, the size of the plate and letters is also regulated. The former must be 15 inches long and 6 inches high, and the numbers must be 4 inches high. Allowing the display of but one number will obviate much of the confusion that arises where a machine displays the license numbers of several States, all swinging from the rear of the car.

With the regulation of the license fee based on the horse power of the car, the cost of registering an automobile is raised from $1 to from $5 to $20, and it is compulsory that the registration be renewed each year. However, if the same car is owned at the end of four years, it is provided that the rate for registering after that shall be one-half of the set rate. For registering cars of twenty-five horse power or less the fee charged will be $5. Automobiles of from twenty-five to thirty-five horse power will entail a license fee of $10, and it will be $15 for cars of from thirty-five to fifty horse power. All automobiles of more than fifty horse power will be taxed at the rate of $20.

Another feature of the new law is that relating to the driver of a car who runs away after an accident. This is now made a felony punishable by a fine of $500, or imprisonment for not more than two years or both. It is further provided that it shall be a misdemeanor for an intoxicated person to drive a machine. Should a person violate either of these regulations a second time the offense is punishable by imprisonment for not less than one year or more than five.

The part of the law placing an age limit on those who shall drive cars, no one of less than 18 years being permitted to handle a machine unless accompanied by a licensed chauffeur, is considered of great importance. This will do away with a great deal of the reckless driving done by boys and girls of immature age such as is now seen on many of the much-traveled highways.

The right of the lover of the horse is also taken care of in the bill. Special mention is made of the fact that automobilists shall be bound to obey the requests or signals of the riders of horses or the drivers of wagons or carriages. To refuse to obey such signals is now a misdemeanor.

SUES WARDEN FOR $25,000.

Ex-Keeper at Sing Sing Says Convicts Were Employed to Trap Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 23.—The action of Richard G. Hilder, a former keeper at Sing Sing Prison, against Jesse B. Frost, the Warden, for $25,000 damages for assault, in which he charges the use of convicts as "stool pigeons" to aid in ousting him, will come up for trial before Justice Morschauser in the Supreme Court at White Plains to-morrow morning. Attorney General O'Malley will represent the Warden. Hilder alleges:

"That it is unlawful for a guard at said prison to receive from a convict a letter and carry the said letter outside the prison. That prior to July 26, 1909, the defendant maliciously and unlawfully, and to give the defendant an excuse for depriving the plaintiff of his office, employed several convicts to furnish defendant with evidence that the plaintiff was or had been violating the laws.

"That about July 26 the defendant gave a convict a sealed and stamped letter to deliver to the plaintiff and to induce the plaintiff to take it out of the prison, and gave money to the convict to pay the plaintiff for taking out said letter.

"That on July 26 the defendant caused the plaintiff to be restrained of his liberty and his clothing and body to be searched. That the plaintiff did not have in his possession a letter or any other thing received from the convict employed by the defendant or from any other convict."

SUFFRAGETTES GO TO COURT.

Mrs. Murtaugh Fails to Get a Warrant for Mrs. Loebinger's Arrest.

Mrs. Sarah A. C. Murtaugh, with members of the National Progressive Woman Suffrage Union, appeared before Magistrate Kernochan in Jefferson Market Court yesterday morning and asked that a warrant be issued for Mrs. Sofia Loebinger on a charge of grand larceny. Mrs. Murtaugh had served a summons on Mrs. Loebinger, but the "militant suffragette" failed to appear, except in the person of her attorney. Magistrate Kernochan refused to issue the warrant until Deputy Assistant District Attorney Leopold decides that a crime had been committed.

Mrs. Murtaugh then told the prosecutor that she had advanced on May 6, 1909, the sum of $125 to Mrs. Loebinger to be used in the founding of the magazine The National Suffragette. The money was to be repaid with 5 per cent. interest last December. She also said that she had advanced other sums to pay the expenses of the society, and exhibited cancelled checks aggregating $500, including the first for $125. These had been made payable or indorsed over to Mrs. Loebinger, and all bore her signature.

Mrs. Murtaugh then told the prosecutor that Mrs. Loebinger had arbitrarily appointed herself treasurer and that Mrs. Loebinger had refused to make an accounting of money she received. Mrs. Murtaugh also exhibited a letter from the Secretary of State informing her that no certificate of incorporation of the organization ever had been filed.

The deputy told Mrs. Murtaugh that she had not proved that she had given the money with the understanding that it was to be returned. He said he would need proof before he would ask for a warrant. Mrs. Murtaugh promised to satisfy him on these points to-day by letters written to her by Mrs. Loebinger and by Mrs. Olive Pierce of 2,083 Mapes Avenue, the Bronx, formerly corresponding secretary of the organization.

The attorney for Mrs. Loebinger said that Mrs. Murtaugh had been examined as to her sanity a year ago and that she had brought five civil actions against Mrs. Loebinger, all of which were dismissed.

Mrs. Murtaugh denied the five suits. She said that she had instituted one and it had been thrown out of court, the Judge advising her to take her case to a criminal court.

When Mrs. Loebinger was seen at her home, 32 Edgecombe Avenue, the Bronx, last night, she refused to take seriously the charges of Mrs. Murtaugh.

"We never represented that the union was incorporated, and we never had any idea of incorporating it," she said. "Mrs. Murtaugh, as a matter of fact, is not a member of the main body of the union. She belongs to the Harlem branch. She resigned her membership in the union in September, 1908."

Mrs. Loebinger said she had been unanimously elected Treasurer in 1907, when the union was first started, and had been re-elected ever since. The annual election will be held before the end of the month, she said, and she could be turned out if the members desired. Taking up the question of the $125 which Mrs. Murtaugh says should have been returned in December last, she said:

"I asked Mrs. Murtaugh in the Summer of 1908 to get some advertisements for our magazine. She was unable to do so, so in lieu of service for the magazine she made a contribution of $125. Of this $25 was spent in paying the rent of our hall and the remainder on the magazine.

"I have several times returned the money. Here are the Post Office receipts for the registered letters I sent, but Mrs. Murtaugh has returned the letters to me unopened, and I can't force her to take the money if she will not receive it. Now the magazine and its funds have been turned over by the union to the general suffrage movement."

Mrs. Loebinger declared that instead of the magazine being in debt to Mrs. Murtaugh, she really owed it money. She said that last July the magazine published a portrait and write-up of Mrs. Murtaugh, who, Mrs. Loebinger said, took 700 copies, and had not yet paid for them.

A SUFFRAGE DEBATE.

The "Ettes" Win in an Argument with the "Ists" at the Cafe Boulevard.

They had a debate at the meeting of the Quaint and Sunrise Clubs at the Cafe Boulevard last night as to whether suffragists should really be ists or ettes, and the ettes had it, though the only man who was an ist had the first chance to talk and read the only long typewritten paper of the evening.

This was Prof. E. C. Walker, and he said the suffragettes (the English women) and the semi-suffragettes (the militant Americans) were merely little suffragettes, and when they got the vote, if they ever did, there would be Republicanette and Democratette Parties—little Republicans and small Democrats, and he didn't think much of any of them.

"They are coquetting with the fallacy that the end justifies the means," said Prof. Walker, sternly. The suffragists, with their "poise and orderly proceedings," he approved, and Mary Keegan, the English suffragette, said that she did, too.

"We believe in the big suffragists, too," she said. "They are the head and we are the feet, and the feet are marching them on to victory. But our militant methods have made us many friends. It is the Government, not we, which has been militant, though I will admit that we have been provocative. Heretofore we have been political doormats, but we don't intend to be any more, and the conservative women are with us."

HORSE THIEF SHOT, AT BAY IN MINE

Had Wounded Officer Who Waylaid Him and Is Himself Shot While Fleeing.

MOB CAMPS AT MINE

Will Remain Until He Surrenders—He Threatens Death to Any One Who Enters.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 23.—The suburban towns immediately west of Pittsburg this evening were thrown into a state of excitement by a sensational horse theft and shooting. To-night, John McDermott, Health Officer of Crafton, Penn., lies dying at his home from three bullet wounds inflicted by one of the horse thieves, and "Steve" Migawl is under arrest on suspicion of being one of them. Some 300 persons to-night are camped at the mouth of a coal mine into which Charles Elliott, an ex-convict and one of the thieves, has been driven, wounded.

McDermott received a telephone message early in the evening that two thieves had stolen two horses from the farm of A. B. Scott, a wealthy breeder of stock near Carnegie, and that they were riding rapidly toward Crafton. McDermott hurried into the road just as two horsemen came riding by. With his revolver in view the officer called on them to stop. A bullet over the head of one of the horses was the reply. McDermott fell, shot through the neck. As he lay on the ground the horseman, who was recognized as Elliott, pulled his animal up and shot McDermott again. The horse reared and plunged so that Elliott was thrown, and the animal ran away.

Edward Gormley, who had seen the shooting, came running up with a shotgun, followed by other neighbors, whereupon Elliott took to his heels. As he was climbing into the cab of a locomotive Gormley shot him, and he fell beside the engine only to rise again and limp off, shooting at intervals at his pursuers. He was chased for a mile, and perhaps 100 shots were fired at him. He then disappeared into the old coal mine.

An appeal was sent to Pittsburg for more guns and police help, and a score of county detectives were hurried out. The officers found the mob trying to get at Elliott to hang him. Elliott, from some distance within the coal mine, threatened death to any one who entered. There is only one entrance to the mine, according to the owner, and the angry pursuers declare they will camp there for a month rather than let Elliott escape.

Later in the evening, "Steve" Migawl, whom the authorities say was the other mounted thief, was captured, the second horse having been found wandering riderless, some miles from the scene. Migawl refuses to talk.

Elliott recently ended eighteen months in Riverside Prison for horse stealing. He was formerly a railroad fireman.

HIGHWAYMEN ROB JEWELER.

Cori Beaten Unconscious by Six Men —His Condition Critical.

Footpads attacked John Cori, a wealthy jeweler, on East 149th Street, in the Bronx, yesterday morning and robbed him of his watch, a wallet containing a dozen diamond rings, and a roll of greenbacks. Cori, a husky six-footer, was struckin the head with a sandbag by one of his assailants. Policeman Dressler of the Morrisania Station found him unconscious in the street.

An ambulance took Cori to Lebanon Hospital, where it was several hours before he regained consciousness and told of the attack. After describing his experience he relapsed into coma again. The doctors say he has concussion of the brain.

In his few conscious moments at the hospital Cori told the police he was walking along 143th Street, and had paused under an arc light to look at his watch, when a heavy blow with a sandbag smashed his derby. He turned to fight, and faced half a dozen men. He struck out right and left and felled several of them, when he fell under a heavy blow. He felt his pockets being searched as he lapsed into unconsciousness.

Capt. August Kuhne and three detectives from the Harlem Detective Bureau worked all day yesterday on the case without result. They found a few links of Cori's broken watch chain near the place where Policeman Dressler found him, but they saw no clue which would enable them to learn the identity of his assailants.

Cori was unconscious at a late hour last night, and physicians at the Lebanon Hospital pronounced his condition critical.

WOMAN CATCHES THIEVES.

Seizes One by the Throat—They Had Stolen Her Father's Pin.

ROCHESTER, May 23.—Two alleged notorious thieves and pickpockets, Thomas Gohagen, 60 years of age, of Chicago, and Edward Fitzgerald, 44 years of age, of Philadelphia, are under arrest here owing to a woman's prowess. While returning from Charlotte last night with her father, Mrs. Emil F. Vetter of 39 Gorham Street noticed two men casting glances at a diamond pin he was wearing. When the car stopped the men crowded closely to her father and Mrs. Vetter saw one of them take the pin.

Mrs. Vetter sprang from her seat, seized Fitzgerald by the throat, and backed him and his companion against the side of the car, where she struggled with them until policemen arrived. Fitzgerald offered to return the pin to Mrs. Vetter if she would release him, but she refused.

At police headquarters the pictures of Fitzgerald and Gohagen were found in the Rogues' Gallery. Fitzgerald admitted that he had spent half his life behind the bars, but said it was the first time he had been caught by a woman.

How often have you started out to buy a Suit of Clothes for, say, $20 and had to pay $25 or $30 to get what you wanted?

Sometimes the persuasiveness of the salesman "raises your limit"—but more often than not it is because you have fixed upon a certain style or material—or both, and must burden your purse to get them.

The suits shown you within your price may be of the color you wish, but not the model; or, the model may meet your desires, but not the fabric. But in none of them do you find a combination of all your desires—so you "go higher."

You can avoid all these contingencies by coming here. The Suits of our creating are shown in a profusion of colorings and a wide range of our own exclusive models. From the lowest to the highest-priced there is not a deviation of "a hair's breadth" from the scrupulous care for detail and finish which stamps the work of our craftsmen.

GERMANY MAKES PERSIA AN ISSUE

Protest Against Action of Britain and Russia Creates Serious Situation.

TURKEY ASKED TO HELP

Report That the Kaiser's Government Has Proposed a Secret Convention with the Porte.

BERLIN, May 23.—A serious diplomatic controversy is in progress between the German Government on the one side and Great Britain and Russia on the other regarding the "Open Door" in Persia.

Germany firmly protests against the joint warning of the other two powers to Persia not to grant railway concessions to Germans. This warning was delivered some weeks ago, and the dispute arose much as did the difference between Germany and France in Morocco.

The Russian protest was made both in London and in St. Petersburg—in London by the German Ambassador there, Count Wolff-Metternich, and in St. Petersburg by the German Ambassador to Russia, Count Pourtales. The officials of the Wilhelmstrasse make the usual declaration that the pourparlers are most "amicable and informal," but it is known that this does not describe their real character.

At the same time, it is reported that Germany has proposed to Turkey the conclusion of a secret convention on the subject of Persia, and it is also asserted that this convention, if agreed to, would insure joint action between Germany and Turkey against the Anglo-Russian understanding regarding Persia. Germany, it is said, is now trying to obtain from Turkey an expression of her views regarding the question, and it is further reported that Germany has offered to Turkey very considerable advantages should the Sublime Porte agree to the German proposals.

Complications regarding Persia have been anticipated since it was made known in St. Petersburg that Russia and Great Britain would refuse to admit the political interests of a third power in that kingdom. The Anglo-Russian note to which objection is made demanded that Persia should not grant strategic railroad concessions to a third power or negotiate a loan with one, thus impairing the security of earlier Anglo-Russian loans.

The London Standard on May 11 printed a telegram from Berlin which said that the first proposal of Germany to Turkey was apparently brought forward on April 22, when the German Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs impressed on the Turkish Ambassador the necessity for the German and Turkish Governments to come to an understanding with regard to a definite line of action to be adopted in Persia, where the common interests of the two countries were every day becoming more and more manifest. The Turkish Government, on receiving this communication, asked its Minister in Teheran to report on those questions in Persia which were of common interest to the German and Turkish Governments, and which would permit of joint action. This report is now awaited.

"It is at the same time," said The Standard's correspondent, "rather singular that Germany should me interesting herself in the affairs of Afghanistan. The German Foreign Office has for some time been advocating the employment of Turkish regular officers as instructors in the Afghan army. One such officer was recently designated by the Porte for the purpose, but the Turkish military authorities insisted that he should first give up his position in the Turkish army. This, however, he declined to do. As the authorities could not compel him to go on the retired list, no progress has been made with the proposal."

THIRD DUEL SUCCESSFUL.

Both de Lesseps and de Polignу Wounded, Former Seriously.

PARIS, May 23.—Count Ismael de Lesseps and Count Just de Poligny fought their third duel to-day. This time each received a bullet wound.

At the second exchange de Lesseps's bullet struck the barrel of de Poligny's pistol, and ricocheting, caused a flesh wound in de Poligny's arm. At the same moment de Lesseps fell, shot through the thigh. He was removed to a hospital, where it was found that the ball had just missed the femoral artery. The wound is not mortal.

Count de Lesseps is a son of Count Ferdinand de Lesseps and an officer of a cavalry regiment. Some weeks ago he quarreled with Count de Poligny at the Circus and blows were exchanged. On May 3 they met in a formal encounter with swords in the Parc des Princes, the scene of to-day's duel. De Poligny is lame, and after a round of sword play, during which neither was injured, the seconds called a halt.

Subsequently pistols were substituted for the swords, and six shots were exchanged. None of the bullets found its mark, and the antagonists left the field without a reconciliation.

AGREE ON CHINESE RAILWAY.

American, French, English, and German Financiers Arrange the Loan.

PARIS, May 23.—The representatives of the American, French, English, and German financial groups interested in the Hankow-Sze-Chuen Railroad loan have practically adjusted their differences. They expect to sign an agreement here to-morrow.

This agreement, however, will still require the assent of China.

The loan of $30,000,000 is to be devoted to the construction of a railroad from Hankow, to Canton and from Hankow west to I-Chang, with an extension of the line ultimately into Sze-Chuen. Great Britain, the United States, Germany, and France participate in the financing of the enterprise.

Danish Ministry to Resign.

COPENHAGEN, May 23.—At a meeting of the Cabinet to-day the Ministers authorized Premier Zahle to hand their collective resignations to King Frederick immediately upon his return from London. In the recent elections the contest turned on the question of defense, and the Radicals, through whom the Government had obtained the dissolution of the Folkething in order to get the Defense bill of 1909 abolished or amended, were defeated. The Premier and the Minister of the Interior were re-elected, but the Ministers of Worship and Commerce failed to retain their seats.

CORK, May 23.—Rioting was renewed here to-night by the rival Nationalist factions. A large number of persons were injured, twenty of them being sent to the infirmaries, including several policemen.

COLON, May 23.—President Mendoza arrived here this afternoon from Panama, and will sail on the steamer Abangarez for Bocas del Toro on a tour of inspection. Many officials greeted him at the station. The President will return to Colon on Saturday.

ROOSEVELT MEETS HUNTERS.

His Throat Better, but Needs Care—He Gets Some Rest at Last.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 23. — Ex-President Roosevelt was in high spirits to-day at a luncheon in Lord Lonsdale's house in Carlton House Terrace, and, though he has to be careful of his voice, he exchanged big game stories with a choice band of hunters who had presented a sporting rifle to him when he started on his African trip.

The company included Seth Bullock, who told some racy anecdotes of his early life in the West.

Mr. Roosevelt's throat is much better than when he arrived in England, but at least another fortnight's care will be necessary if serious mischief is to be avoided.

The trouble is declared to be a recurrence of the attack he had in Africa, and to have been brought on by the change of climate—constant traveling and incessant talking. Not only has Mr. Roosevelt spoken a great deal in public; his private engagements have also put a strain upon his voice. Often at state banquets he has had to talk all through the evening in raised tones so as to be heard above the band. During many days he has been in conversation almost without a break from morning till night.

LONDON, May 23.—Mr. Roosevelt is enjoying the quietest days thus far of his European tour, and is getting something like a real rest.

After spending the week-end at the Wrest Park home of Ambassador and Mrs. Reid Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Roosevelt, and Kermit Roosevelt returned to London to-day, and are the guests of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Arthur H. Lee at their city house. Col. Lee was Military Attaché at the British Embassy at Washington in 1889. The Roosevelts will remain with the Lees for the greater part of the week. The demands upon the ex-President's time do not lessen, but his present host is doing his utmost to prevail upon the Colonel to refuse to see callers and to obtain the quiet of which he stands so much in need.

Mr. Roosevelt's only speaking engagements this week are for Wednesday and Thursday. On Wednesday he will receive a delegation from the British group of the Interparliamentary Union, and on the following day he will receive a degree from Cambridge University.

To-day Mr. Roosevelt was the guest at luncheon of twenty big game hunters. Those at the function included F. C. Selous, Sir Harry Johnston, F. G. Cunninghame, H. Seton-Kerr, Sir Clement Hill, Count von Blucher, Sydney Charles Buxton, Ian Buxton, W. A. Baillie-Grohman, and Seth Bullock.

This afternoon Mr. Roosevelt had tea at Dorchester House, meeting Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Dr. William Osler, and a few others. To-night the Roosevelts dined quietly with the Lees, only the members of the two families being present.

ROOSEVELT NEIGHBORS' PLANS

They and the Nassau County Supervisors to Greet the Colonel.

Nassau County is making great plans to welcome Col. Theodore Roosevelt when he returns from abroad on June 18. Not only will the Roosevelt Neighbors' Association turn out in full force, but the Nassau County Board of Supervisors has appointed a non-partisan reception committee, of which Frederick C. Hicks is the Chairman. The "Neighbors" and the Supervisors, to the number of 600, will sail down the bay on the Long Island steamboat Saranac to meet Col. Roosevelt at Quarantine.

Mr. Hicks said yesterday that the Supervisors are planning to give a reception to Col. Roosevelt at Mineola, but the exact date he cannot name until he hears from the former President.

The three honorary members of the Roosevelt Rough Riders' Association have notified the committee that they will ride with the rough riders in the parade. They are Lieut. Gen. S. B. M. Young, U. S. A., retired, of Washington; Brigadier Gen. Samuel S. Sumner, U. S. A., retired, Syracuse, and Brigadier Gen. Charles Cooper of Philadelphia. The Rev. Henry Brown, the "fighting chaplain" of the regiment, has written that he will come on from Panama for the reception and reunion.

Mayor Gaynor has added the name of Col. John W. Vrooman to the Reception Committee. Col. Vrooman was active in handling the arrangements for the welcoming of Admiral Dewey on his return from Manila.

FAMOUS CHAPEL IN TROUBLE.

Pilgrim Fathers' Memorial Building in London Has to Sell Plate.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 23.—The historic Pilgrim Fathers' Memorial Chapel in the New Kent Road in Southwark is in such pressing financial difficulties that it has been found necessary to dispose of a portion of the communion plate presented by Jonathan Owen in 1691.

The Memorial Chapel was erected about sixty years ago at a cost of $25,000, a considerable portion of which was subscribed by descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers in the United States.

SULLIVAN ON HIS WAY.

Sails for America to Report Jeffries-Johnson Fight for New York Times.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 23.—John L. Sullivan sailed on the Mauretania last Saturday for New York, where he will play a two weeks' engagement before starting for the West to report the Jeffries-Johnson fight for THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Sullivan's tour of the British Isles was most successful, the audiences showing the fullest appreciation of perhaps the best fighter ever seen in the prize ring.

Sullivan boarded the steamer at Queenstown, having passed the last week in Ireland.

KILLS GUGGENHEIM WRIT.

Court Decides Illinois Courts Have Jurisdiction in First Week's Suit.

Following the decision of the Appellate Division that the Illinois courts alone have jurisdiction of the suit brought by Mrs. Grace Guggenheim Wahl to set aside her divorce from William Guggenheim, Supreme Court Justice Whitney dismissed yesterday the injunction granted to Mrs. Aimee Steinberger Guggenheim.

The second Mrs. Guggenheim sought to restrain the action, on the ground that Mrs. Grace G. Wahl was a party to any irregularities in the Illinois decree and that the suit to set it aside jeopardied her dower rights and the legitimacy of her son. It appeared on the argument of the injunction proceedings that Mrs. Grace G. Wahl had obtained a large settlement at the time of the Illinois divorce and had contracted a marriage with one Jules Wahl, which was annulled by the French courts.

HETTY GREEN LOSES DEPOSIT BOX SUIT

Must Pay $550 for Five Years' Use of Eleven Boxes, Containing "Rubbish."

PROVES A POOR WITNESS

Action Started for "Blackmail," She Declares, but the Jury Takes a Different View of the Testimony.

"Cat fits" and "Blackmail" were the terms used yesterday on the stand by Mrs. Hetty Green to characterize the efforts of the Safety Deposit Company of 149 Broadway to recover $550 rentals from her. But the jury in the case, which was tried before Judge O'Dwyer in the City Court, found against Mrs. Green, and she expressed her indignation in no uncertain terms. She said she had never lost a jury case before.

Mrs. Green used her opportunity on the stand to assail others besides the Safe Deposit Company officials, and showed that she considered herself a much persecuted woman. She called the contents of the safe deposit boxes, which she was alleged to have rented, "rubbish," and made indiscriminate charges of theft and fraud.

Dr. William A. Mitchell, Vice President of the company, told the jury of a visit made by Mrs. Green to his office Dec. 16, 1903. Mrs. Green came, he said, to settle for the rentals of the previous five years and objected to paying the full rentals, which were $20 a year apiece for eleven boxes. The claim was compromised for $600, and Mrs. Green was given a receipt. She then commenced to bargain, he said, for the ensuing five years. She was offered a rate of $1 a month per box, but insisted and received a flat rate of $10 a year per box, he said. Mrs. Green objected to signing a contract, he said, and he gave her simply a memorandum.

"I had a right to make an exception to the rules of the company for a valuable customer," he said on cross-examination by Louis F. Doyle, attorney for Mrs. Green.

Mrs. Green laughed when Edward R. Kenzel, who went with Mrs. Green "as a witness," testified for the Safe Deposit Company. She seemed to think it funny that Kenzel should say:

"When the rate was made $1 a month, Mrs. Green said she would prefer to pay $10 a year."

"Hetty Howland Robinson Green" was the name given by the world's champion woman money lender to the clerk of the court when she was sworn.

"You've been familiar with money matters for some years, Mrs. Green, and business affairs?" began her counsel.

"Well, I should say I have," began Mrs. Green, outlining her business career so rapidly that the stenographer surrendered with a look of anguish to her stream of conversation.

"Not so fast, and a little louder," urged Mr. Doyle. "And please answer my questions 'yes' or 'no' whenever possible, Mrs. Green.

"You heard Dr. Mitchell testify that on Dec. 16, 1903, you agreed to pay him $10 a year storage on each of eleven boxes. Is that correct?" asked Mr. Doyle.

"Those boxes were stolen," Mrs. Green's voice rose, "stolen out of my father's estate years ago. My father died forty-five years ago and—"

"Please answer the question yes or no," insisted Mr. Doyle.

"Did you make an agreement?"

"I paid him some money, and I have the receipt for it," interjected Mrs. Green. "Anything else—"

Here Judge O'Dwyer took a hand.

"Don't volunteer any information. Answer the questions as they are put," he cautioned.

"The stuff in those boxes belonged to my father's estate. He died in 1845. I'm not going to pay for a lot of old rubbish, books, and papers that don't belong to me," continued Mrs. Green defiantly.

"Please answer the question yes or no," requested Judge O'Dwyer.

"This is the third blackmailing suit that I've had," cried Mrs. Green, clutching her reticule.

"If I made any agreement I did it for my son, who is running a railroad and can't be here. He's the executor of my father's estate. My daughter is the executrix."

"Then you never agreed to pay any amount personally for the storage of those boxes?"

"No," burst forth the defendant. "Me pay storage for forty-five years on a lot of things stolen"—her voice rose almost to a shriek—"stolen from my father's estate—"

"Please be calm," counseled Mr. Doyle.

"I am calm. I'm calm, but I'm telling the truth."

"Do you recall that you were in the Safety Deposit Company's rooms on Dec. 16, 1903?" continued Mr. Doyle.

"I wouldn't if these people didn't remind me," was the acrid response.

"The papers in these safety deposit boxes do not belong to you, then?"

"According to law they belong to my son as trustee. But before God they belong to me. I paid $2,500 to have the books written."

"There has been a lot of litigation over your father's estate, has there not?"

"Yes, they tried to steal my square in Chicago," she said.

Mrs. Green produced her receipt for charges prior to January, 1904, for the rentals from which date the company was suing, and it was put into evidence. The jury was out twenty minutes.

PLAYFUL PUSH KILLS FRIEND.

Keeshon Died as a Result of His Skylarking, Ryan Tells Police.

James M. Ryan, a driver, living at Amsterdam Avenue and 125th Street, walked into the 125th Street Police Station last night and announced that accidentally he had killed a friend. Ryan explained that on Sunday afternoon he met Patrick Kershon of 549 West 125th Street and James Egan, a watchman.

Ryan said that he was smoking a clay pipe, which Kershon playfully knocked out of his mouth. Ryan pushed Kershon, who fell and struck his head on the curb. He was taken to the J. Hood Wright Hospital, where he said that he had fallen accidentally.

Early yesterday morning Kershon died, and when Ryan heard it he hastened to the police station to see if he was wanted.

The police knew nothing of the matter, but after Ryan told his story they locked him up charged with homicide.

FIREWORKS DEALERS FIGHT.

Retailers Will Apply for a Writ to Restrain Commissioner Waldo.

Fire Commissioner Waldo's recent edict on fireworks, to the effect that he would not permit their sale in stores that were in buildings not equipped with the sprinkler system or other proper device, was met yesterday for the first time by counsel for several retailers, who notified him that on Wednesday they will apply to Supreme Court Justice McCall for a peremptory writ of mandamus compelling him to sanction the sale in the customary manner.

The application for the writ will be made by the law firm of Towns & McCrossin of 149 Broadway, counsel for Henry Rosenstein, 36 Warren Street; Isaac Mendel, 325 West Eleventh Street, and Catherine J. Brophy, 520 Tenth Avenue, all small retailers. They are making the fight against the Commissioner in behalf of the Retail Fireworks Dealers' Association, which has 1,000 members.

Commissioner Waldo sent the papers containing notice of the date of the application for the writ to Corporation Counsel Watson.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR AUTO CO.

Suits Filed Against American Motor Car Sales Co. of New York.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—Suits for a receiver for the American Motor Car Sales Company of New York, which controls the sales of the output of the Overland and the Marion Automobile Companies of this city and the Toledo Motor Company of Toledo, Ohio, and is the majority stockholder in them, were filed to-day in Federal and county courts. An accounting of the funds of the several companies is demanded of President John N. Willys.

T. P. C. Forbes, Jr., who filed suit in the County Court, alleges that Mr. Willys's residence is Indianapolis, while H. F. Campbell, who sues in the Federal court, states that he lives in Ohio. Both plaintiffs are stockholders.

Mr. Forbes declares in his complaint that Mr. Willys has personally taken entir control of the affairs of the companies, and last year converted $150,000 of their profits to salary for himself. He alleges that 4,000 automobiles were sold by the companies at a profit of $400,000 in 1909.

President Willys to-night gave out the following statement:

"A little over two months ago I was offered the stock held by Messrs. Campbell and Forbes for $2,000,000. I refused, as I considered their price far more than the stock was worth, and to show them that I was sincere I offered to sell them my stock at that time at the same rate, which they refused to accept. While they have not received cash dividends, they have received stock dividends, being a very large percentage on the amount of their investment, on which they have had offers in cash at par.

"The charges appearing in the complaints have no foundation. When the matter is fought out the fullest investigation will be offered every stockholder as to all of my actions in the management of the several companies."

WONDERBERRY NOT NEW.

Burbank's Latest Species Long Known to Botanists, Says Prof. East.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 23.—Luther Burbank's widely hailed "Wonderberry" was the particular object of attack by Prof. E. M. East of Harvard University at the Bussy Institute yesterday. Mr. East declared that many so-called famous horticulturists were but well-advertised mediocre scientists, and said:

"The 'Wonderberry' which Luther Burbank claimed to have evolved as a new species is in reality an old species well known to botanists and horticulturists. There was nothing new about it, yet Burbank and his 'Wonderberry' were the recipients of innumerable press notices. The white blackberry was also widely proclaimed as a new species, yet it was as old as the hills, and known all through Europe. Furthermore, it was of no particular value."

INSPECT BELMONT HOSPITAL.

Suffragists Later Take Luncheon at the Founder's Hempstead Home.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., May 23.—Many suffragists visited the Belmont Memorial Hospital here this afternoon as the guests of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who built the hospital as a memorial to her husband.

After going over the hospital building, which they all declared was the finest one of its kind that they had ever seen, the visitors were taken to the country place of Mrs. Belmont for luncheon. Among the visitors were Dr. Anna Shaw and Miss Inez Mulholland.

The hospital, which has not yet been opened a month, has thirty patients. It is the intention of Mrs. Belmont to establish hospitals of this kind all over the island, her contention being that an institution that can take care of a small number of patients will flourish much better in the country than one which has a large capacity, and naturally a much larger expense.

HOSTLER INHERITS $25,000.

Gets Estate of Sister He Had Not Seen in Thirty-eight Years.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 23.—Although he had not seen his sister, who supposed him dead, for thirty-eight years, William Venna, a hostler of San Mateo, Cal., was able to prove himself the only heir to her $25,000 estate, and to-day Judge Forbes of the Probate Court allowed his claim. The estate involved was that of Mrs. Jennie S. Miller of Athol, who died on July 2, 1908, leaving no known heirs.

Venna and his sister were born in Ireland, and both came to this country before the civil war. Venna worked as a hostler in Boston until the war, when he enlisted, and his sister removed to New York, where he last saw her in 1872. Venna went to California and the sister later married an Athol man. She told her friends in Athol that as her brother had not been heard from for many years she supposed he was dead.

SON OF AMOS J. SNELL DEAD.

Had Long Since Exhausted Inheritance from Murdered Millionaire.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Albert J. Snell, son of the millionaire Amos J. Snell, whose murder here in 1888 created a sensation, was found dead in bed at a cheap rooming house here to-day. He was 50 years old. He inherited a fortune from his father, and is said to have set a fast pace while the money lasted. He drifted steadily downward, and for several years had made a hand-to-mouth living running errands on the wharves. A Coroner's jury decided that death was due to heart disease.

"Willie" Tascott, who was accused of the murder of the elder Snell, was never found by the police, although the search for him was continued for many years.

SEIDEL TILTS WITH PASTORS.

Censures Them for Not Providing Rational Amusements for Boys.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 23.—"While you are fighting for some theological dogma our boys and girls are going to hell," declared Mayor Seidel in an address before the Milwaukee Ministerial Association at the Young Women's Christian Association building to-day.

There was some sharp repartee during the discussion. When Mayor Seidel remarked that a boy who had a baseball ticket would shun saloons, a preacher rose and declared that he would not trust his son to attend a baseball game for the reason that intoxicants were sold on the baseball grounds. "They'll manage to drink somehow," declared the preacher.

"Then it is up to you," replied the Mayor, "to cultivate and develop a better taste."

Mayor Seidel suggested that the preachers co-operate with the School Board to have schoolhouses thrown wide open to children for social purposes. One of the clergymen declared that there was no need trying "to give the boys good, wholesome amusement while the nickel theatres catered to their baser passions."

"The thing for us to do, then, is to compete with the nickel theatres," replied the Mayor. "Have a moving-picture machine in the schoolhouse."

HE WAS A FAKE POLICEMAN.

Prisoner Levied Tribute by Way of Cigarettes, Crabs, and Cigars.

A man who said he was Thomas Boran of 764 Columbus Avenue was held in $500 bail for trial in the Harlem Court yesterday after admitting that with a fake police badge he had obtained from saloonkeepers in Eighth Avenue "cigarettes for the cop on the beat," some soft-shell crabs for the "Lieutenant on the desk," some cigars "for the Captain," and a few other odds and ends.

A newspaper clipping was found on the prisoner showing that on April 5 a William Murray was fined $5 by Magistrate Corrigan for doing a "Salome dance" on the fire escape outside the apartment of a Mrs. Goss in West 114th Street. Patrolman Crossin of the West 125th Street Station swore that the prisoner was William Murray.

CREDITORS IN CHARGE OF BIG GRAIN FIRM

Bills of Lading Said to Have Been Used Improperly by Durant & Elmore in Obtaining Loans.

AMOUNT MAY BE $800,000

Had Offices in Albany, Chicago, Boston, and Buffalo—Banks Look to Railroads for Reimbursement.

ALBANY, May 23.—The firm of Durant & Elmore, grain merchants, with offices in Albany, Chicago, Buffalo, and Boston, is practically in the hands of the officials of the National Commercial and First National Banks of this city, which are its creditors to the extent of nearly $500,000. By the alleged manipulation of bills of lading the company is said to have been able to borrow hundreds of thousands of dollars from banks in Albany and other cities.

The scheme by which the money is alleged to have been secured was a simple one. As soon as a carload of grain was shipped from Chicago for the local firm the manager received a bill of lading in the regular course of business. The man whose duty is said to have been to take up the bills of lading when the grain was actually delivered by the railroad company, it is alleged, did not do so, and the bills were used over again.

The banks which are creditors of the firm and which suffered from the use of the unredeemed bills of lading, it is said, will look to the railroad companies for reimbursement. The Delaware & Hudson Company is understood to have taken the matter up already, but as Vice President Sims and Lewis E. Carr, counsel for the company, were both out of the city to-day no information was obtainable.

Some time ago Henry C. Palmer, freight agent of the Delaware & Hudson in this city, was dismissed from the company's employ, and a few weeks later left for Chicago, where, it is said, he entered the employ of Durant & Elmore. Mr. Palmer returned to Albany to-day and said he was ready to face any charges that might be made against him.

The total amount involved has not been ascertained. It is understood that the firm has outstanding paper aggregating between $500,000 and $800,000, but just what proportion of it is secured will probably not be known for several days. Representatives of the banks were busy to-day examining the company's books and papers and questioning its employes.

According to a statement by Vice President James H. Perkins of the National Commercial Bank the company is "hopelessly involved."

"We are informed," said Mr. Perkins, "that eight or nine banks hold the firm's paper, besides grain commission brokers with whom the firm has dealt and a number of individuals."

President Frederick A. Mead of the First National Bank said to-day that his bank holds $77,200 of the Durant & Elmore paper bearing the personal indorsement of Messrs. Durant, Elmore, and Oliver and secured by original bill of lading drafts deposited as collateral security.

"I do not believe the banks will lose any money," said Mr. Mead. "They will hold the railroads responsible."

The Durant & Elmore Company is understood to have grain in Oneonta and in Boston valued at about $100,000 and additional grain in transit from the West. The company also owns the business of the Oneonta Milling Company. Edward A. Durant, one of the firm, is said to have agreed, if necessary, to turn over to the creditors of the company all the property he possesses.

Just where the money that was borrowed went has not been told, but it is said that the firm was dealing heavily in the grain market. It has had a good deal of paper out for some time, but that was not extraordinary, as it carried on an extensive business. Word came to this city from Boston recently that some of its paper had been refused in that city, and immediately representatives of the National Commercial and the First National Banks visited the offices of Durant & Elmore and asked for an explanation. Mr. Oliver, the Treasurer and General Manager, was in New York City and could not be reached. The officials examined the books, but were unable to get any satisfactory explanation of the situation. Mr. Oliver did not return until Saturday, and since that time the bank officials have been busy delving into the firm's affairs.

E. A. Durant of Albany is President of the corporation, Edwin W. Elmore, Vice President; Gibson Oliver, Treasurer, and William S. Dyer, Secretary. The company is capitalized at $75,000. Mr. Durant has not taken an active part in the management of the company's affairs for some time. Mr. Elmore looked after the Chicago end of the business, while Mr. Oliver was the executive officer of the concern here.

CHICAGO, May 23.—The Chicago business of Durant & Elmore is done in the name of E. W. Elmore. At the local office of Mr. Elmore to-day a statement was given out to the effect that the Chicago house is not affected by the trouble of the Albany concern.

BOSTON, May 23.—The grain firm of Durant & Elmore of Albany, whose accounts are under examination, has an agent in this city, but other grain firms stated to-day that the Albany merchants had curtailed their business in this part of the country considerably during the last year.

ACCUSED OF DRUGGING GIRLS.

Physician, Once Driven from Great Barrington, Returns and Is Arrested.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., May 23.—Dr. Clifford S. Chapin, one of the most prominent physicians of Berkshire County, who left here on April 30 under an agreement with officials of the town, whereby he escaped arrest on a criminal charge, was arrested to-day on his return from Bethel, Conn., and was arraigned in the District Court.

Chief of Police Oschman was the complainant, and charged that Dr. Chapin in February administered certain drugs with the intent to stupefy or overpower Miss Florence R. Logan and Elizabeth Stevenson of Great Barrington.

On the night of Feb. 23 Mrs. R. J. Logan went to the office of Dr. Chapin just before midnight and demanded admission. She was accompanied by Chief Oschman. The door of the office of the physician was locked. Mrs. Logan was allowed to enter. Her daughter and Miss Stevenson were in the physician's consulting room. Dr. Chapin said that the young women had attended a church supper and had eaten a salad which made them ill, and when they went to the office he had given them some sauterne. This nauseated them, and they were unwilling to leave the office in that condition and he had remained there with them.

The Board of Selectmen of Great Barrington took up the matter, and after an investigation a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Dr. Chapin. A conference was held, at which he was represented by counsel. He agreed to leave Great Barrington on or before May 1 and not to return. On April 30 he went to Bethel, Conn. but returned here last Saturday.

NOW AFTER LUMBER TRUST.

Wickersham Is Finding Out Whether It Controls Prices—May Prosecute.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Department of Justice is investigating the price of lumber in the United States with the view of determining whether or not the so-called Lumber Trust may be reached by the Sherman anti-trust law on the ground that it is a combination in restraint of trade.

For some time the officials have been looking carefully into charges that the so-called trust controlled the price of lumber, and an agent has been gathering information for the use of the department. Every State, county, and city, it is said, has its lumber organization, which, the officials believe, sets the price of as well as restricts the sale to particular individuals. The so-called combination, they say, is one of the most formidable with which the department has had to deal.

The cost of lumber is an important element in the high cost of living problem, declare those who have been looking into the subject. It is higher, in their opinion, than it should be. The point is made that the inquiry under way is in line with the Department of Justice's policy of investigating and prosecuting combinations alleged to be in restraint of trade which affect the high cost of living without waiting for the decision of the Supreme Court in the Standard Oil and the American Tobacco cases. Attorney General Wickersham announced just after the request made by the Supreme Court for the reargument of those cases that this would be the attitude of the Government.

HOFFSTOT APPEAL HURRIED.

Pennsylvania Authorities Get Extradition Case on Supreme Court Docket.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The extradition case of Frank H. Hoffstot of Pittsburg was docketed in the Supreme Court of the United States to-day, and on next Tuesday the State authorities will move its dismissal on the ground that the appeal has been taken only for purposes of delay.

Hoffstot is President of the Pressed Steel Car Company and of a National bank in Pittsburg, and is under indictment on the charge of bribery. He resisted extradition proceedings by applying to the Federal courts in New York for a writ of habeas corpus, and when it was denied took an appeal to the Supreme Court. As that court will adjourn next Tuesday for the term there would be a delay until next October if the usual course had been pursued.

Instead, therefore, of waiting upon him to take the steps necessary to transfer the case the Pennsylvania authorities themselves brought the transcript to Washington and had it placed on the docket, thus rendering it possible to take up the case during the present term.

If the motion to dismiss is granted the extradition may take effect soon.

DENOUNCES FOES OF SUBSIDY.

Hackney Says They Are Asses, Demagogues, or Hirelings.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—"An ignorant ass, an unprincipled demagogue, or a paid hireling of baleful influence" is the way William P. Hackney of Winfield, Kan., who testified to-day before the House Ship Subsidy Investigating Committee, characterizes "every man in these United States who opposes the principle of ship subsidy."

"Can you think of anything else such a man might be called?" sarcastically asked Representative Garrett of Tennessee.

"That's a stinger I put in to challenge public attention to the situation," replied the witness.

Mr. Hackney's charges of the influencing of Congress by wine suppers, &c., he admitted, were based on belief and not on knowledge, because, he said, he had some "knowledge of legislative matters."

W. A. Boyd and Justus Ruperti, representing shipping interests at New York, disclaimed any knowledge of foreign bodies.

LOUISIANA'S CAPTURED BONDS

Senate Committee Would Restore a Number Seized in Civil War.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Senate Committee on Military Affairs to-day ordered a favorable report on a resolution providing for the return to the State of Louisiana and the City of New Orleans of certain bonds which were captured by Union forces at Shreveport during the civil war.

The face value of the bonds captured was $4,476,980. The securities were transmitted to the United States Treasury. All except $545,480 were returned by order of the Secretary of War in 1866, but the Statute of Limitations has operated against the remainder, and it is held that they are not returnable, although of no money value, without the sanction of Congress.

There is now on the Senate calendar a measure providing for the return to the State of Louisiana of its original articles of secession, but because of objections made by Senator Heyburn no action has been taken upon it.

SUGAR AND COFFEE RATES UP.

New Tariffs Show Sharp Rise on Traffic from Seaboard to the West.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A sharp increase in rail and sea freight rates on sugar and coffee from Atlantic seaboard points to destinations on Western trunk lines was shown by the filing of tariffs to-day with the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The rate increases on the commodities named range from 16 to 41 per cent.

From New York to Duluth the rate advance on sugar is from 36 to 42 cents a hundred pounds, or 17 per cent., and on coffee from 31 to 42 cents, or 36 per cent. From New York to St. Paul and Minneapolis sugar is advanced 17 per cent. and coffee 27 per cent. From New York to Kansas City and Omaha the sugar rate will be 30 per cent. and coffee 39 per cent.

These rates are effective on all the Eastern lines as well as on those of the Western Trunk Line Association.

LORIMER EXPLAINS SILENCE.

Too Busy with His Bank, He Says, to Answer Bribery Charges So Far.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—For the first time since charges were brought that Senator Lorimer's election to the United States Senate was due to the bribery of members of the Illinois State Legislature, Mr. Lorimer to-night made an explanation of his own silence in the matter. He said that when the charges first came to light he was busy organizing his bank, and that as he can only work at one subject at a time, he continued the work of organization until it was completed.

Meanwhile, he said, his friends and secretaries were busy collecting data as to the charges, and he received this data as he started for Washington. He is now engaged in digesting it, he said, and getting it into shape for a speech in his own defense, should he decide to make one. He has not yet made up his mind, however, whether he will make a speech or not, nor has he decided whether he will ask for an investigation.

CANARIES LEAD BIRD IMPORTS

375,000 Came Last Year—Many English Partridges Among Game Birds.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Canaries constituted 80 per cent. of the birds imported into the United States during the past year. Nearly 375,000 of these pets sang their way into American ports in 1909, according to a report by the Biological Survey. Of the remaining 100,000 birds almost 60,000 were non-game; the rest were game birds.

The greatest increase over the previous year's importations was in game birds, which gained 100 per cent., owing to the large number of English partridges imported, numbering 20,452 as against 10,000 in 1908.

TAFT TARIFF BOARD RULED OUT IN HOUSE

Appropriation Making It Effective Cut Out of Sundry Civil Bill on Point of Order.

CALLED NEW LEGISLATION

Attacked by Dalzell—Attempt to Restore Item with Changed Wording to be Ruled on To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The $250,000 appropriation in the Sundry Civil bill asked for by the President to make effective the Tariff Commission created by the last tariff bill but left without funds, was knocked out on a point of order in the House this afternoon. Representative Tawney, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, immediately offered an amendment couched in different language from that of the original provision but meaning practically the same thing, which will have the effect of restoring the item unless it, too, is declared out of order to-morrow. Representative Fitzgerald, Democrat, of New York, however, who raised the point against the Tariff Board authorization in the first instance, made and will press a similar point against Mr. Tawney's amendment.

Mr. Fitzgerald and Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania made the principal arguments against a real tariff board during the protracted debate in the House to-day. Mr. Dalzell is a regular of the old school and a stanch Cannon lieutenant, but he also is a high protectionist, and he wants no interference with the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. The Tariff Board with the powers the President proposes, he contended, would upset conditions and bring about confusion and commercial unrest.

Representative Fitzgerald and the Democrats are opposed to the creation of the board on different grounds. They see in the proposed move an effort to patch up what they consider an imperfect and unsatisfactory tariff.

Mr. Tawney, whose committee inserted the item in the Sundry Civil bill on the President's earnest desire to have such a board clearly authorized by law, defended the item. He said it was not legislation. He insisted that the functions of the proposed board had practically been authorized at the time of the passage of the tariff act.

Representative Mann of Illinois was in the chair and made the ruling which strikes the item from the bill. After reviewing the several sections in the tariff bill which provide for the appraisement of imports and the collection of data with reference to the enforcement of the customs duties, the Chair ruled:

"As the Chair has pointed out, the authority in existing law is directed toward certain things, such as the ascertainment of values of imports. Under the provision as contained in this bill the President will be authorized to secure detailed information of the cost, and of each and every element thereof, of producing at the place of production and at the place of consumption of all articles specified in the tariff act, in this country, and in the country from which they are imported, so that the cost of all such articles abroad may be compared with the cost in this country.

"There is no restriction in this authority. The President may secure under it information concerning every item mentioned in the tariff act whether the items are to be imported or not. It authorizes the ascertaining of the cost at home and abroad, and this is not authorized in the tariff act."

Mr. Tawney's amendment, designed to meet the objection stated in the decision on the point of order, proposed to appropriate $250,000 practically for the same purpose, with details omitted and the added provision that it was "to enable the President to give to Congress information of the state of the Union and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient," &c.

Under this wording of the measure it is understood that the President should send to Congress any information which may be collected under the proposed appropriation. By leaving out of the amendment all reference to the Tariff Board, which already exists, it was hoped that the provision would come within the rules of the House and would not be subject to a point of order.

Representative Fitzgerald promptly made a point of order against the new amendment also, and pending his argument upon it the House adjourned.

As the new amendment leaves to the President's discretion the expenditure of the $250,000 proposed to be appropriated, those who have favored the plan of the President hope in this manner to retain the clause in the bill, although it is more than likely that the Tariff Board provision, in whatever form offered, will go out either on a point of order or be defeated when the bill is put upon its final passage in the House. In the event it is authorized finally, those opposed to the plan will make a concerted effort to reduce the appropriation from $250,000 to $75,000, the latter being the amount first suggested by the President when he conceived the tariff board idea.

BOY HAD STOLEN NECKLACE.

Detective Saw Him Swinging Missing Jewelry About His Head.

As Detective McCarton of the Bronx Detective Bureau was passing along Olinville Avenue, the Broxn, last evening, he saw a boy swinging o gold necklace about his head. The detective said that the boy, when questioned about the necklace, confessed to having stolen it from a one-story dwelling in Academy Street, near Broadway, on May 18, last. Mrs. John Lever lives in the house, and last Wednesday afternoon the place was entered and jewelry value at $32 taken.

Detective McCarton arrested the boy, who said he was Robert Howell, 10 years old, of 3,612 Olinville Avenue. The detectives of the Bronx Detective Bureau say that the lad, while there, described how he gained entrance to the Lever home through a window in the rear. He had learned how to do it, he said, from youngsters who had taught him to gain entrance to moving picture show halls. The other trinkets taken were turned over by the boy, according to the detective, who then put him in the care of the Children's Society.

CUBAN CRUISER GETS HERE.

The Hatuey Drops In on Her Way to Bath, Me., for Repairs.

The first Cuban cruiser to arrive at this port saluted the fort on Governors Island yesterday afternoon as she passed up the North River to an anchorage off Ninety-fourth Street. She is the Hatuey, Capt. Francisco Dias Quibus in command and manned by a crew of about thirty men.

The Hatuey dropped in unexpectedly, for she was bound for Bath, Me., where her machinery is to be overhauled and repaired. She sailed from Havana on May 18. Her men will have a chance to enjoy shore leave, for she will remain here two days before proceeding on her way.

Typographical Union Re-elects Lynch.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—Reports from 577 of the approximately 700 unions of the International Typographical Union indicate to-night that, with probably one exception, all the National officers were re-elected. The possible exception is T. D. Fennessy of Los Angeles, the total showing that Michael Powell of Ottawa, Canada, is leading by several hundred votes for Trustee of the Union Printers' Home, at Colorado Springs. The reports received at the general office indicate that James M. Lynch, President, will be re-elected by about 7,000 votes.

BUCKET-SHOP INDICEMENTS.

Government Charges Violation of Anti-Gambling Laws of District of Columbia

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Department of Justice took a new tack to-day in its extensive crusade against bucket shops. In addition to the conspiracy charge that was made against twenty-nine men in the Cities of New York, Jersey City, Baltimore, and Washington last April, the department to-day lodged a complaint of a direct violation of Section 865 of the District code, which forbids bucketing or setting up a gaming table in the District.

This direct charge of operating a bucket shop in the District is made against the persons who are said to constitute the Standard Stock and Grain Company of Jersey City.

Four additional persons are expected to be caught in the dragnet who were not mentioned in the previous indictment. These are Samuel W. Adler and C. A. Tillis, known among his associates as "Cat" Tillis, of New York, and William Fox and E. M. Browning of Baltimore.

Two indictments were returned to-day charging conspiracy and the setting up of a gaming table against these four men, in addition to Edward Altemus of Jersey City, Louis and Angelo Cella of St. Louis, Mo.; Robert Hall, Samuel Raymond, Oscar J. Rappel of Baltimore, Henry C. Stumf of Philadelphia, Henry R. Duryee, and Charles Alley of Washington.

All these persons are charged not only with entering into a conspiracy to violate the District law against bucket shops, but also with being actually engaged in the conduct of the brokerage business run here in the name of Duryee & Co.

MEYER EFFECTS ECONOMIES.

Reduces Coal and Oil Consumption and Cost of Repairs on Battleships.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A virtual reorganization of navy expenditures has been made by Secretary Meyer in the year during which he has held the portfolio of the Navy Department. He is credited with effecting a saving of money in many directions. Many of the changes inaugurated by him are the result, direct or indirect, of suggestions, offered at his request, by officers in all parts of the naval service.

Saving of coal has been accomplished by systematic firing economy of steam, replacing defective joints and journals, and stopping leaky valves. On the Montana a saving of fifteen tons of coal daily is due to this retrenchment. The saving in oil consumption has been as great. On the battleship Georgia improved evaporators have reduced the cost of making fresh water 40 per cent.

Secretary Meyer's reorganization plans include the systematic overhauling of vessels at the ship yards after each cruise. This permits the continuous employment of expert machinists, many of whom formerly would be dismissed after a piece of work was done and would not be ready to return when again needed.

A saving of thousands of dollars in repair work has also been effected by installing repair shops on shipboard. The establishment of a school of marine engineering at Annapolis is another means whereby Secretary Meyer hopes to train for special work engineer officers who show aptitude to be of value in some part of his reorganization scheme.

MORE RAILWAY BILL PLANS.

Regulars Hope for Vote Before Week Ends—Insurgents Hold Out.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Senate will resume to-morrow its consideration of the Railroad bill, and the leaders to-day are talking hopefully of getting a vote before the end of the week. Exactly how this speed is figured out does not appear, for the insurgents have resolutely so far refused to commit themselves to a definite date and have steadily insisted that important amendments are still pending that will bring on extended discussion.

What is really troubling the regulars about the Railroad bill situation now is the outlook in regard to the pending Cummins amendment extending the Inter-State Commerce Commission's power over all increases in rates. This amendment the regulars confidently asserted last week they had votes enough to defeat, but as has previously been pointed out, a feeling was already abroad last Saturday that a few letters from home could change enough votes to pass the amendment safetly.

TAFT HERE MEMORIAL DAY.

At Bryn Mawr June 2, Then Off to Ohio and Michigan.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—President Taft is to make two short trips out of Washington next week. He will leave here Sunday night, May 29, to review the big Memorial Day parade in New York during the forenoon of the 30th, returning to Washington the same afternoon.

The President will leave again on June 2 to attend the exercises that afternoon at Bryn Mawr, where his daughter is a student. From Bryn Mawr, the President will go to Ada, Ohio, where he makes a noonday address June 3. The evening of June 3 Mr. Taft will be in Detroit, Mich., and on June 4 he will make a short visit to Jackson and Monroe, Mich. He will be back in Washington the evening of June 5.

POSTAL BANK CAUCUS CALLED

All House Republicans Sign Except a Dozen Insurgents—To Meet To-morrow

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Republicans of the House will hold a caucus Wednesday night on the Postal Savings Bank bill, the call having been issued to-day by Representative Currier of New Hampshire, Caucus Chairman. Representative Gardner of New Jersey has introduced a bill which has been tentatively agreed upon by the Republican members of the House Committee on Post Offices. Formal report, however, on the Gardner bill will be delayed pending the action of the caucus.

Baby Kidnapper Sentenced.

HOLTON, Kan., May 23.—Freeman H. Tillotson, who was convicted here last week for participating in the kidnapping of Marian Bleakley, the St. Louis World's Fair incubator baby, from her mother at Topeka, Kan., last August, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in prison by Judge Rains to-day. Tillotson was released on his continuing bond for ninety days, pending an appeal to the Kansas Supreme Court.

WOMAN DIES IN FIRE, BUT SAVES HER BABY

Carries It to a Window and Protects It Until She Is Suffocated.

FIREMEN ARRIVE TOO LATE

Many Heroic Rescues by Police and Firemen Mark a Quick Blaze in an East Side Tenement.

In spite of the efforts of firemen who rushed to aid her, Mrs. Mary Miller was killed at a fire early yesterday morning in the tenement house 333 East Seventieth Street. She had made a brave effort to save her 11 months' old baby, Max, before she was overcome. With her night clothes ablaze she had carried him to the window, and only dropped him as she became unconscious. The firemen found him on the floor, and at the Presbyterian Hospital it is believed he will recover.

Patrolman Patrick Regan of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station saw the flames shoot from the windows as though they already had gained good headway, and he ran to the building. The fire had begun on the third floor, in the hallway, and had worked up to the fifth floor, where, in a few moments, the four apartments were burning fiercely.

Truck 16 was the first to arrive. As it turned the corner every fire-escape was black with people, shrieking in alarm and fighting to get down. Capt. Duvan ordered ladders placed against the windows, and the firemen raced up. By hard work they calmed the frightened tenants and assisted them to the ground.

Policeman Regan, who had rushed into the house, had made his way up to the fifth floor. There he came upon Mrs. Becvar, who had leaped from bed at the first alarm and awakened her eighteen-year-old son Charles and the two children, Mary, aged 7, and Eddie, aged 8. Calling them to follow, she dashed for the street. Charles did so, but the children lost their way in the smoke. Regan found them gasping for breath under a bed. He carried them out, and as no ambulance had yet arrived they were placed in a baker's wagon and hurried to the Flower Hospital, where the doctors declared that though they had inhaled smoke and were slightly burned, they would recover.

Mrs. Miller, in the next apartment to the Becvars, on the fifth floor, was seen by the firemen at the window, screaming with fright, her night clothes already ablaze. A ladder was run up, and Capt. Ruddy of Truck 13 and Firemen McCue, Stephens, Rich, and Long started up to aid her. As they got near she dropped on the floor.

The firemen carried her to the roof, as the stairs were blocked by flames. When they got her to the street an ambulance surgeon declared she was dead. William Miller, the woman's husband, was found wandering aimlessly about the rooms, half unconscious with the smoke. The firemen got him and the baby out safely.

Patrolman Cunningham of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station carried Sadie Fisher from the third floor, and Fireman Golden of Truck 18 rescued a little girl in the hallway as she was about to fall unconscious.

The loss to the building was set at $5,000. Salvatore Gabriel, who had a grocery store in the basement, said that in the excitement some one had stolen $11 from his cash drawer and $200 worth of jewelry.

NEW SHUBERT BUILDING.

Office Structure to be Erected at Sixth Avenue and Forty-first Street.

The neighborhood of Times Square is to be still further beautified by the erection of a large office structure for the Shuberts at Sixth Avenue and Forty-first Street, opposite Bryant Park. While the general plan for the new building is not definitely settled, Lee Shubert said yesterday it was likely that a theatre would be included in the operation.

The Shuberts have for some time been considering the possibility of erecting a commercial structure in a centrally located part of the city as a headquarters for the offices of their extensive theatrical interests.

The new building will occupy a large plot on the southwest corner of Sixth Avenue and Forty-first Street, the property having been leased from Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry for a term of sixty-three years. There will be a frontage of 100 feet in Sixth Avenue, adjoining the new Union Dime Savings Bank on the Fortieth Street Corner, opened only a few weeks ago, while on Forty-first Street, where the frontage will be 125 feet, the new building will adjoin the Shubert's new Comedy Theatre.

In addition to its advantages in being opposite Bryant Park, the building will also possess exceptional facilities for light and air on the other three sides.

Old houses now stand on the corner, and building operations, Mr. Shubert said, could not begin until next Spring.

CHICAGO RAILWAYS IN RECEIVERS' HANDS

Traction Combination Moves to Meet $1,344,684 Judgment on Consolidated Bonds.

SECURITIES DROP 9 POINTS

Railways Co., Counsel Says, Sought Protection of Federal Court Against Possible State Court Receivership.

CHICAGO, May 23.—A receivership into which the Chicago Railways Company was thrown to-day caused its most active stock, Series 2 participating certificates, to drop an extreme of 9 points in the Stock Exchange, with only a slight recovery. This stock participates only after the payment of bond interest and dividends on certificates of Series 1. The earnings of the company recently were believed to indicate an early dividend on Series 2. Thousands of shares were sold when news of the receivership reached La Salle Street.

The appointment of the receivers, John M. Roach, President of the company, and Henry A. Blair, Chairman of the Board of Directors, was precipitated by the fact that the company had neither sufficient assets to pay a judgment of $1,344,684 rendered against it by Judge Ball in the Superior Court of Cook County last week, nor to provide sufficient bond to procure a stay of execution by means of an appeal.

The action for a receivership, which is described as a "mere legal move for friendly conservation," was taken suddenly and secretly in the United States Circuit Court presided over by Judge Grosscup. By this arrangement it will be possible to protect the company while Judge Ball's decision is carried to the Supreme Court of Illinois.

Judge Ball held that the Chicago Railways Company, in taking over the old Union Traction Company, promoted by Charles T. Yerkes, assumed responsibility for the bonds of the financially shattered Consolidated Traction Company. The judgment awarded by Judge Ball, and entered to-day, was in favor of litigating bondholders of the latter company. Should this decision be upheld, it may open the way for additional judgments of a similar nature aggregating about $5,000,000.

Chicago Interest Protected.

The city's interest under the reorganization ordinance of three years ago, whereby the municipality receives 55 per cent. of the net profits of the company, is fully protected under the receivership. Physical improvements, on which millions have already been spent, will go forward under direction of the Board of Supervising Engineers.

It is said that the bonds of the Chicago Railways Company are not affected either by the receivership or by the judgment, as they constitute a prior lien on the $50,000,000 assets of the company.

The petition for a receivership was filed by Charles P. Cotton, Jr., of New York, representing the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. His bill set up that the Chicago Railways Company owes $69,549 to the electric concern which it cannot pay, owing to the judgment entered against it.

Seek Federal Court for Protection.

The receivership of the Chicago Railways Company, it was said in the financial district here yesterday, was brought about mainly for the purpose of obtaining an adjudication in the Federal court of the claims which have been advanced against the company by the holders of the securities of companies whose property was taken over by the Chicago Railways Company, particularly the claim for principal and interest advanced against the company by the holders of the 4 per cent. bonds of the Consolidated Traction Company, which was one of the companies of which control was assumed by the Chicago Union Traction Company long prior to the time of the formation of the new Chicago Railways Company.

The point was emphasized that the receivership was in no way the outgrowth of the company's finances or an indication of poor earnings. The company does not regard itself as liable for the bonds of the old company for which claim against the Chicago Railways Company has been successfully advanced in a State court, and it was, therefore, decided to put the company under the protection of the Federal court pending an adjustment of the claims of the old bondholders.

The following statement about the litigation was made by L. C. Krauthoff, General Counsel of the Railways Company:

"The Chicago Consolidated Traction Company, an entirely separate corporation, organized by the late Mr. Yerkes, made an issue of bonds secured by a mortgage on that property which were guaranteed by the Chicago Union Traction Company. Although the Consolidated Traction Company or its property was in nowise involved in the ordinance to the Chicago Railways Company, and constitute no part of the property of that company, a Chicago local court has nevertheless held that the Chicago Railways Company is responsible for these bonds. This holding is contrary to the opinion expressed and conclusions reached by a large number of counsel who have had occasion to examine the question. These counsel are still unanimously of the opinion that the action of the trial court will be reversed.

"It will necessarily take some time to obtain a final disposition of the matter on appeal. Pending this final disposition, the property of the company would be subject to the risk of a receivership in the State court under the control of the plaintiffs in that case. Such a receivership would, in the opinion of counsel and of security holders largely interested, cause much embarrassment in the prosecution of the rehabilitation and in other construction work of the company, and as well in its operation and in its relations to and dealings with the City of Chicago. To insure a conservation of the property and its administration for the protection of the security holders of the Chicago Railways Company, the property has temporarily been committed to the protection of the Federal Court and its receivers.

"The judgment recovered in the State court, even if finally affirmed, cannot be enforced to the prejudice of the outstanding bonds of the company. But it is particularly true that neither that nor any other judgment, nor the receivership proceedings in the Federal court, nor any other matter, or event, or contingency, can or will in anywise affect or impair either the rights or the security or the value of the outstanding rehabilitation bonds of the Chicago Railways Company These bonds have been issued under the partnership agreement between the City of Chicago and the Chicago Railways Company, evidenced by the ordinance of Feb. 11, 1909, in which it is expressly provided that these bonds shall be secured by a primary mortgage and that there shall not at any time exist 'any lien or incumbrance upon the property or rights conveyed by said mortgage or deed of trust, or any part thereof, superior to that securing said bonds and obligations'; and it is also expressly provided that 'the lien securing said bonds and obligations shall at all times be deemed and recognized to be a first lien upon the entire street railway system hereby authorized, including all rights granted to the company by this ordinance.'

"The nature of this partnership agreement between the city and the company and the terms and provisions of the first mortgage securing the rehabilitation bonds are such that the present receivership is not to be treated, either practically or sentimentally, on the basis of a receivership in ordinary cases. The situation and the provisions of the ordinance and mortgage are such that the case stands upon grounds of its own, namely, the city and the company were precise and careful to provide that no conceivable contingency or event could by any possibility or to any extent impair the lien or security of these bonds or the prompt payment of the interest thereon."

Sunday's New York Times June 5th will contain a special article on Summer Motoring, with descriptions of week-end trips. New cars for business and pleasure. Recent legislation and a mass of information for motorists.—Adv.

NO ECLIPSE AND NO COMET.

Heavy Fog Shut Off the View of Local Astronomers.

Sun sets to-day 7:15. Comet sets 10:38.

Fog last night shut out the view of the comet and the eclipse of the moon in this city, to the disappointment of local astronomers. If the comet is seen to-night, it will equal in brilliancy, a star of the third magnitude. The drizzling rain of the early afternoon turned to a haze as darkness neared, and by night a curtain of fog had shut down on the city and its waters.

The fog came in across the bay and rolled upward until from the Battery Governors Island could not be seen, and only the dim shapes of passing craft appeared. It did not get thick enough to keep the Sound steamers at their piers, though they probably had to anchor near the entrance to the Sound.

The fog delayed the Holland-America liner Ryndam, from Rotterdam, and the Italian liner Duc d'Aosta, from Naples. Both vessels got as far as the entrance to Ambrose Channel, and there dropped anchor. The last vessels to get through Quarantine were the Royal Mail Packet Company's steamship Orotava, from Bermuda, and the Cuban cruiser Hatuey.

Ferryboats had to move cautiously through the fog, and there was a delay of from five to ten minutes on some lines.

The quarantine tug Charles F. Allen, returning from Hoffman and Swinburne Islands, ran ashore in the fog near the south dock of Fort Wadsworth. Because of the ebb tide all efforts to pull her off were unsuccessful. She probably will be floated at high tide to-day. Her position is not dangerous. Capt. Crawford and her crew of four remained on board.

The fog was said to be responsible for Pennsylvania Railroad Float No. 17 running into the bulkhead of a pier owned by the Brooklyn Union Gas Company at the foot of Little Street, that borough, last evening. The float was in tow of tug boat No. 9 of the same company, in charge of Capt. Arthur Fowler of 58 Waverley Street. Part of the pier bulkhead was torn away, and the float was slightly damaged, but no one was injured.

TAFT SEES THE COMET.

Senator Stephenson Views It for Second Time, After 75 Years.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Through the twenty-six-inch telescope at the United States Naval Observatory President Taft saw Halley's comet to-night for the first time, although he had looked for it before. He viewed it also through one of the smaller telescopes. Having been much interested in the movements of the comet, he was gratified with the view to-night, although on account of the clouds and haze not much of the tail was visible.

Capt. Veeder, Superintendent of the Observatory, and Lieut. Commander Blamer escorted the President's party, which included Mrs. Taft, Charles P. Taft, John Hays Hammond, and Gen. and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards.

Former Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin saw the comet to-night for the second time in his life, having viewed it seventy-five years ago, when he was only 6 years old. At that time he saw it from a point in Maine; to-night from the Capitol, where several telescopes were placed a few days ago for the accommodation of Congressional parties.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 23.—Cloudy skies prevented observations of Halley's comet and the eclipse of the moon by the astronomers at the Harvard Observatory to-night.

PHILADELPHIA SEES ECLIPSE.

Heavy Clouds, However, Blot Out Any View of Halley's Comet.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—While clouds prevented a view of the comet to-night, they did not interfere to any considerable extent with observations of the total eclipse of the moon. The moon entered the shadow of the earth at 10:45 o'clock, and slowly its east limb became blotted out. At 12:08 A. M. the phase of totality began, being central at 12:33 A. M. and ending twenty-six minutes later, the phenomenon coming to an end at 2:21 A. M.

Early in the evening hosts of comet gazers were out, but while the two brightest stars in the west, Castor and Pollux, were faintly visible, a heavy cloud bank hung down over the western horizon and prevented any glimpses of the comet.

TOO MANY COMET REPORTS.

Navigators' Zeal Wiring Observations Overburdens Hydrographer's Office.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Capt. Knapp, Chief Hydrographer, is obtaining more information about the comet than he desires. Some time ago he sent a general request to all navigators to look out for the comet, take careful note of its position and peculiarities, and report their observations to him.

These reports have been coming in in such numbers that Capt. Knapp foresees the speedy exhaustion of the limited sum of money allowed annually by Congress for telegraph and cable expenses of the office. They all come "collect," and the hydrographer can devise no way to stop them.

COMET OBSERVATION AT SEA.

Mate of Royal Mail Packet Saw the Tail Across the Zenith.

Second Officer E. A. Bridges of the Royal Mail steam packet Orotava, which arrived yesterday from Bermuda, reported that he had taken careful observations of Halley's comet when the earth was supposed to have been passing through its tail on the night of May 18. At 3 A. M. on May 19 he was on the bridge, when the ship was 235 miles south of Sandy Hook, and saw the tail of the comet stretched right across the zenith. "It was like the Milky Way but not quite so wavy," said Mr. Bridges.

CRITICISES HEARING ON THIRD AVE. ROAD

Bondholders' Counsel Objects to Commission "Whispering" to Its Lawyer.

SAYS RECORD IS CLOGGED

Also Mr. Guthrie Protests Against Accountant Testifying, Lest He Depreciate the Value of Securities.

At the hearing before the Public Service Commission on the reorganization plan for the Third Avenue Railroad William D. Guthrie, attorney for the Bondholders' Committee, continued yesterday his criticism on the procedure of the commission.

At the previous session Mr. Guthrie had read a long protest against many features of the commission's method of conducting hearings, among them the fact that Oliver M. Semple, one of its lawyers, was permitted to sit with the Commissioners. Mr. Semple again was present yesterday.

"I object to the counsel for the commission whispering to the Commissioners," expostulated Mr. Guthrie.

"I am not whispering," replied Mr. Semple. "I am examining a statement regarding transfers which you have submitted."

"The counsel for the commission has whispered to the Commissioners at every hearing which I have attended," insisted Mr. Guthrie.

The Public Service Commission proceeded to listen to the cross-examination of its transportation engineer, F. J. Connett, as to his estimates on the value of the Third Avenue's property. Mr. Connett came within $3,000,000 of the bondholders' figures as to the physical property and about as close as to the replacement value.

This did not please Mr. Guthrie, who demanded if Mr. Connett was not influenced by the idiosyncracies of some of the Commissioners. Mr. Connett said he was not.

The transportation engineer did remark that he considered the rate at which the Third Avenue's gross earnings increased during 1909—from $5,308,000 to $7,049,000—abnormal, and that he did not look for a further increase of more than 5 per cent. a year.

The result in 1909 Mr. Connett attributed to the popularization of the Third Avenue by the tremendous improvement of its service, the introduction of the pay-as-you-enter cars, and the use of the cross-seat cars.

Before the close of the hearing Mr. Guthrie once more objected to the commission "clogging its record." He remarked again that the commission apparently proposed to introduce testimony from Marvyn Scudder, the accountant, that might prove sensational and depreciate the value of existing and proposed securities and bother the reorganizers. He protested at this, and filed a letter supplementing the written statement of his earlier protests, as a part of the commission's record.

It was learned that the commission retained Mr. Scudder to conduct an independent investigation of matters connected with the Third Avenue road, intending to get all the facts before passing on the bondholders' plan.

It has declined to permit a preliminary examination of Mr. Scudder by counsel for the Bondholders' Committee, inasmuch as it has not itself examined him as to the results of his investigation, nor does it propose to do so until he is called as a witness.

WON'T CUT FRANCHISE TAX.

Court Refuses to Reduce Manhattan Railroad Assessments.

Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman handed down a decision yesterday in which he declined to reduce the amount of the special tax on the franchises of the Manhattan Railway Company for the years 1906, 1908, and 1909, and said the assessment in the Bronx was insufficient. He finds that the value of the easements, $12,182,652, is properly included in the company's assets. Those easements must be taken, he says, into consideration in ascertaining the value of the company's tangible property in the streets. The company operated the elevated railroads before their taking over by the Interborough.

"Although the easements are private," says Justice O'Gorman, "and derived from the city or State, they, nevertheless, enter into the value of the railroad structure and tangible property. The structure did not become lawful until these easements were acquired, and the relation between the structure and easements which permit its maintenance in the public streets is so intimate as to be inseparable in estimating the value of the tangible property."

The probable cost of reproducing the existing structure is, Justice O'Gorman says, $14,375,561. Its existing value, enhanced by the easements, is $26,559,218. The value of the special franchise is in excess of $80,000,000, which equalized by a reduction of 11 per cent. leaves $72,000,000. As the assessment is only for $60,050,000 it is not erroneous by reason of overvaluation or inequality.

The assets upon which the company is entitled to return and their value for the year 1908 the court places at $48,304,521, the total value of the tangible property. The net income for 1908 was $3,574,206.87. The computation on these figures makes the value of the special franchise $77,888,257. The assessment for 1908 was but $75,000,000.

"As to the assessments in the Bronx," says Justice O'Gorman, "it clearly appears that they are grossly under assessed. Instead of being assessed in 1906 at approximately $5,000,000, and in 1908 at $6,000,000, which the evidence would seem to justify, the assessments based upon such information as was then available to the Tax Board was fixed at $2,650,000 and $3,500,000.

IN THE FIRST MAYOR'S HONOR.

Mayor Gaynor Asked to Aid in Erecting a Tombstone for Thomas Willett.

Mayor Gaynor received a letter yesterday from Arthur E. Warner of Elizabeth, N. J., urging him to see that some steps are taken for the suitable marking of the grave of Thomas Willett, the first Mayor of the old City of New York, which is in a little out-of-the-way cemetery in Rhode Island. The letter read:

Hon. William J. Gaynor:

Dear Sir: I wish to call the attention of your Honor to a historical fact which is but little known in New York City, yet which may be of great interest. The first Mayor of New York, Thomas Willett, was buried in a small cemetery in Rhode Island, the spot being marked by a crude headstone, upon which is carved his name, the date of his death, and the fact that he was first Mayor of New York City, and was twice chosen to the place. At the time the Mayor was appointed by the English Governor.

This cemetery, which is a short distance from my native town, was formerly a part of the land granted to Mayor Willett by the State of Massachusetts. Would not some action whereby this neglected grave might be properly marked be fitting? Thinking perhaps that the matter might be of interest to you, I beg leave to present the facts.

Should you desire any further information I shall be pleased to give it to you, either through a letter or by appointment at your office. Yours respectfully,

ARTHUR E. WARNER,
Elizabeth, N. J.

The Mayor replied to Mr. Warner, promising to look into the matter.

Thomas Willett was Mayor of New York in 1665 and again in 1667, Thomas Delavall being Mayor in 1666.

FAVORS CITY WATER TUNNEL.

Special Committee Says It Would Cost Much Less Than a Pipe Line.

The committee selected by the Board of Estimate to consider the feasibility of the construction of a high-pressure tunnel under Manhattan for the distribution of the Catskill water supply, consisting of Clemens Herschel, a hydraulic engineer; Francis L. Pruyn, a consulting engineer, and J. Edmund Woodman, a geologist, has reported favorably on the scheme. They say that the cost of the construction of such a tunnel at an average depth of 200 feet would not be more than $26,000,000, while the distribution of the water by a pipe line system would cost nearly $50,000,000.

Several objections, however, are raised to the proposed plan for the construction of the tunnel from the Bronx to Queens, to Brooklyn, and thence to Manhattan and Richmond.

FREE PAVILION FOR CONEY.

Plan for a Municipal Bath House to be Reported Favorably.

There was little opposition to the project of erecting a municipal bathing pavilion at Coney Island at the hearing which the Aldermen's Finance Committee held on the matter at City Hall yesterday, and it was decided to report favorably on the resolution appropriating the necessary $175,000 at to-day's meeting of the board. The matter has already been approved by the Board of Estimate.

Dr. Albert Chambers of Coney Island contended that the utilization of the proposed site at the foot of Ocean Boulevard for this purpose would work a hardship on the poor people.

PLEA FOR WATERSHED BILLS.

Commissioner Thompson Calls on the Legislature to Pass Them.

Water Commissioner Thompson sent to Albany yesterday an urgent request that the bill giving him the power to order the abatement of nuisances on the city's watershed be passed this year. The measure has been reposing in committee for some time.

The Commissioner may go to Albany personally to see what he can do about getting the bill passed.

"It is a measure which would do a great deal of good for the protection of the health of the people of the city," said he yesterday, "and there can be no possible reason for the refusal of the Legislature to pass it except the old squabble of the up-State men against the city representatives."

CITY HALL CABINET MEETING.

Mayor Holds First Conference with His Official Family.

Mayor Gaynor held the first of a series of "cabinet meetings" with the heads of departments at City Hall yesterday. All the Commissioners were present except Tenement House Commissioner Murphy and Corporation Counsel Watson, who are out of town.

General plans were discussed, but nothing was announced.

After the meeting the Mayor said he would hold such meetings each month. He intended to begin them earlier in the year, but declared that every one in the administration has been so busy that a date could not be fixed.

INDICT POLICE LIEUTENANT.

Hannon Is Accused of Bribery and Extortion by a Saloon Keeper.

The Richmond County Grand Jury indicted Police Lieut. Stephen J. Hannon yesterday on the charges of bribery and extortion. He is held in $5,000 bail. Police Capt. Young of the Eighty-first Police Precinct Station, to which Hannon was attached, arrested him on May 2, following a complaint made by Joseph Vitterli, a saloon keeper on Post Avenue, Port Richmond, who said that Hannon had extorted money for promised immunity from excise arrests.

Hannon, who has served thirty-one years in the Police Department and has an excellent record, denied the charges.

TICKETS TO ORDER WHILE YOU WAIT

The Long Island Railroad Adopts a Machine That Makes Them to Suit Each Passenger.

SAVES TIME AND MONEY.

Prints a Record Slip for the Auditing Department Simultaneously—First Used by French Railways.

A machine the use of which may revolutionize the local passenger business of this country, so far as it affects the sale of tickets and the operation of the auditing departments of railways, has been installed in the Long Island Railroad station in Brooklyn. A. B. Bierck, the Auditor of the railroad, who recommended the installation of the machine, said yesterday that it has proved successful, and he prophesied the placing of similar machines in other stations, not only of the Long Island, but of other railway systems of the country as well.

The machine is a French invention, and for two years has been used on the Northern Railroad of France and in all of the stations of the Paris Subway. It was while in France two years ago that Mr. Bierck saw the apparatus for the first time, and, coming home, he told the officials of the Long Island that a great saving could be made by the use of similar machines in this country. A week ago the first of the machines ever installed in this country was put in the Flatbush Avenue terminal.

Not only does the machine record price, date, and destination on the ticket, but it also totals up the day's sales by stations—as, for instance, Woodhaven, 200; Far Rockaway, 100, &c.—and the next morning, or within five minutes after closing if necessary, the auditing department is in possession of the figures, which show exactly what passenger business every station on the road has done during the day. The machine also manufactures every ticket as it is sold, and the saving in printing of tickets alone will amount to thousands of dollars. Last year the Long Island sold 27,000,000 tickets. The regular cost of printing tickets is about $1 per thousand. The cost per thousand as manufactured in this machine is about 15 cents.

Each machine, it is asserted, can do the work of three ticket agents, and when the agent's day's work is ended, instead of his having to stay behind from one to three hours, in order to get together his daily report, that report has already been made out by the machine, and he can go immediately.

Mr. Bierck said that he figured that the introduction of the machine would mean a saving of at least 33 1-3 per cent. in both the auditing and ticket-selling offices. The machine sells tickets at the rate of eighty a minute. Mr. Bierck described the working of the machine yesterday.

"The machine," he said, "is composed of a series of printing devices, called for convenience blocks, upon one-half of which the text to be printed on the ticket is borne, and upon the other the text to be printed upon the registration strip, or report. In addition, by a system of movable type, the date is printed on the reverse side of the ticket.

"To make a ticket is simple. Control is secured by the dial bearing the names of the destination stations and the classes of the tickets, in front of which a movable arrow, controlled by a wheel, is placed, the agent moving the wheel until the arrow is opposite the name of the station to which the ticket is desired, and then by a simple pressure of a lever the electric motor is started, which causes the ticket to be printed, cut off, and delivered, and at the same time makes the necessary entry on the registration strip or report."

CAR RAMS AN AUTO TRUCK.

One Man Badly Injured and Later an Ambulance Hits a Car.

Two trolley cars of the Union Railway in the Bronx got into trouble last night. One of them, north bound in Webster Avenue, at 168th Street, ran into a dry goods auto truck and injured Charles Wuenchel of 110 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, a helper. Another car, east bound, on Brook Avenue at 161st Street, got in the way of a Lebanon Hospital ambulance hurrying to the scene of the first collision.

The ambulance horse stuck his head through the window and flying glass cut two of the passengers slightly. Michael Hamrady, the ambulance driver, and Dr. Block, the ambulance surgeon, both jumped before the collision and, capturing the horse, which had started to run away, continued on their errand.

Wuenchel was unconscious and was found to have internal injuries and a spinal contusion. Both the car and the auto truck, which was a heavy one, were badly damaged.

READY AT LAST IN BOOK FORM

A Remarkable New Novel by the author of "The Inner Shrine"

The WILD OLIVE

THE WILD OLIVE has the same remarkable qualities which made the author's previous novel, The Inner Shrine, the most widely read and talked of book of its year. As a serial in Harper's Magazine, THE WILD OLIVE has called forth an unusual number of letters written in terms of almost extravagant praise and delighted interest. The book, which is now ready, contains much new material not possible within the exigencies of serial space.

The title is quoted from St. Paul—"And thou, being a wild olive-tree"—an allusion to the heroine's origin, which places her, a growth of nature, apart from the cultivated trees of the orchard—society.

THE WILD OLIVE is a story in a new setting, a story that seizes the reader from the first chapter—a story of great vigor and delightful charm. The scene opens in the Adirondack wilderness, with a fugitive from justice, young and a gentleman, running through the woods at night. Looking through a cottage window, he recognizes the judge who condemned him—innocent. A girl's form outside beckons him to follow. The story rushes on, carrying the youth into rehabilitated manhood and the girl to the height of emotional sacrifice and final triumph.

DRAGGED FROM BED TO TELL OF GRAFT

Reluctant Witness Carried in an Automobile Before the Queens Grand Jury.

ANOTHER EMPLOYE IN TEARS

L. J. McNally, Clerk in Gresser's Office, Denies Postage Stamp Fraud, and So Does Magistrate Cragen.

One of the most exciting and prolonged sessions ever held by a Queens County Grand Jury took place in the Court House in Long Island City yesterday when the present Grand Jury which is investigating the charges of official corruption unearthed by Commissioner Fosdick took up the inquiry into the charges that vouchers for postage stamps used in the office of the Borough President had been raised from $5 to $50, by which the city was defrauded out of more than $2,000. One man was dragged from his bed and forced to appear before the Grand Jury.

Starting at 10 o'clock in the morning the session lasted until after 8 o'clock last night. Louis J. McNally, a junior clerk in the office of the Borough President, and who, it is alleged, had charge of the postage stamp vouchers, was taken back and forth from the Grand Jury room several times. When not before the Grand Jury he was kept sequestrated in a small room in the District Attorney's office. Of all the witnesses examined young McNally underwent the worst ordeal. At times the lawyers in the corridor could hear him sobbing.

All during the day Municipal Magistrate John M. Cragen, who was secretary to the Borough President up to the first of the new year, when he took his seat as Magistrate, nervously paced the court corridors. He began the day by appearing before Justice Garretson in the Queens County Supreme Court with his counsel, Clarence Edwards of Newtown, where Mr. Cragen petitioned the court to direct the Grand Jury to call him as a witness.

In a sworn petition Magistrate Cragen, after citing Mayor Gaynor's letter to District Attorney De Witt based on Commissioner Fosdick's report, declared that the charges that there had been fraud in the purchase of postage stamps was false. The petition set forth that the purchase of the stamps was intrusted to Louis J. McNally.

"It had been his custom," so the petition read, "when he had obtained ten receipts for $5 each to alter one of them to show the amount of ten and send that in as a mere memorandum, casting aside or destroying the other nine; and that your petitioner verily believes that McNally had no reason for making such alteration except for convenience in reducing the bulk of paper and in making the amounts received by him for stamps correspond in dates and amounts with such memoranda; and that he was entirely innocent of any criminal intent, and actually expended for the proper purpose the amounts receiver by him aforesaid."

To the petition was appended an affidavit made by Louis J. McNally, in which he swore that he was the person mentioned in the affidavit of John M. Cragen, and the statements made concerning him in that affidavit were true. Continuing McNally's affidavit reads:

"I actually paid for the stamps used in the office of the President of the Borough of Queens the full amounts shown in the memoranda made by me by changing Postmaster's receipts from $5 to $50. In each instance when I made such change I had ten receipts for $5 each and cast aside or destroyed the other nine, and the latter were never used by me for any purpose."

In conclusion he swears he made the alterations without any intent to deceive or defraud the city, and he also waived his rights and asked to be called as a witness before the Grand Jury.

In passing upon the petition Justice Garretson said that it was not for the court to direct the Grand Jury, but he accepted the petition, and summoning the Grand Jury before them turned the petition over to them when they again retired.

Then began the session of the Grand Jury. Magistrate Cragen remained in the Court House until they took a recess until to-morrow, but was not called as a witness. But there were plenty of other witnesses to fill in the intervening time. Miss Matilda Ryan, who has charge of the postage stamp sales in the Long Island City Post Office; Postmaster George Ripperger, with the books of the office; Dennis J. McAneny, and Francis X. Hussey, clerks in the Post Office, were among the witnesses.

In addition to young McNally, among the witnesses from the Borough Hall were David W. Murphy, chief bookkeeper in the President's office, and James Rourke, a clerk in the Borough Hall. Toward evening John Hipple of 154 Young Street, Long Island City, a clerk in the Borough Hall, was also wanted as a witness. Mr. Hipple sent word that his brother, Joseph Hipple, was buried yesterday, and he was too ill to attend.

Dr. C. N. Platt, the County Physician, was summoned, and, accompanied by Detective George A. Bolton of the District Attorney's office, they went together in an automobile to Mr. Hipple's house, where he was taken from his bed and brought to the Court House. He was kept before the Grand Jury for about an hour, when he left in Dr. Platt's car.

When the Grand Jury finished its session and the jurors filed out of the building, nothing could be learned concerning what action had been taken.

Big Cuban melons are $1 to $1.25 each.

This is the trout season. For frying trout the head is left on. They are cooked in plenty of fat and may either be rubbed with flour or dipped in egg and bread crumbs. They will fry in from six to ten minutes. Boiled trout are cooked according to size, but no longer than necessary. Lobster sauce is served with boiled trout.

Cream cheese makes a good Spring salad. When served in a salad dish the cheese should be put through a ricer, the white dots making a pretty contrast on the crisp green leaves. Around the edge the salad is decorated with cream cheese balls with an English walnut on either side of each ball. The French dressing is poured over the lettuce just before it is served.

Fresh mushrooms are sliced for a mushroom omelette and sauted in butter. When the omelette is on the dish it is opened through the centre and the sauted mushrooms poured in.

It takes about half an hour to boil fresh, young artichokes. They are sent to the table whole and served with a Hollandaise or Dutch sauce.

HEARING IN LAWSON SUIT.

Donohue's Claim for $250,000 Up Before Auditor in Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 23.—John F. Donohue was on the witness stand for three hours to-day as the first and chief witness for the plaintiff in the action to recover $250,000 for services alleged to have been rendered by Mr. Donohue to Thomas W. Lawson. The case has been in the courts since April 7, 1908. The hearing begun to-day, with Samuel K. Hamilton presiding as auditor, will occupy some weeks, and Mr. Hamilton will carefully note the evidence and with his report will later submit the evidence as a matter of record to the court.

The plaintiff asserts that he was associated with Thomas W. Lawson for twenty years in the capacity of confidential agent and adviser. In asking a judgment of $250,000 for services rendered he has specified thirty-three services for which he says he received no reward.

He says he stopped the criticism of Mr. Lawson which appeared in Town Topics, that he aided Mr. Lawson in sending to the Associated Press a fake story having to do with Olga Nethersole, the actress. He asserts also that he arranged for Mr. Lawson a number of meetings between men prominent in the financial world.

Mr. Donohue was at one time Secretary of the Bay State Gas Company of Delaware.

The hearings are not open to the public, and the attorneys do not wish to allow to get out at this time what facts are being disputed. Homer Albers and Henry F. Horlbert represent Mr. Lawson and E. A. Donohue is the attorney for the plaintiff.

This Is Turned Over to the City Chamberlain to Await Claimants.

Probably the smallest estate ever administered in New York has finally been settled. Public Administrator John T. Robinson of Queens yesterday turned over to the care of the City Chamberlain 25 cents, to be held subject to the claims of the heirs of William Portland, a negro.

To reach this settlement a land developing company on which Portland was employed at the time he was removed to the Flushing Hospital and died a few weeks ago, was obliged to petition the Surrogate of Queens County for a settlement of the estate.

In his better days Portland was a heavyweight pugilist, and old-timers say that many years ago, when Harry Hill ran his resort on the shores of Flushing Bay, Portland was one of the star attractions of the place.

After his death the company, in seeking to get possession of the shanty in which Portland lived, was compelle dto petition the Surrogate to appoint an administrator to take charge of the dead man's effects. Public Administrator Robinson found a trunk, clothing, and a brass ring, in which was set a large piece of cut glass, backed up with quicksilver. When cutting a dash in his better days, Portland always wore this ring, which his admirers mistook for a diamond. When offered for sale, an Italian junkman, attracted by the ring, bought the entire estate for 25 cents, which in conformit with an order from the Surrogate has been turned over to the City Chamberlain.

BLACKSMITH FOR SENATOR.

John F. Breckenridge, Once Performing Cowboy and Socialist, Out for Missouri Seat.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 23.—John F. Breckenridge, the blacksmith who announces himself a candidate for United States Senator from Missouri and whose petition, with the required number of names, has been filed with the Secretary of State at Jefferson City, in his early days followed "the trail" as a cowboy. He now runs a horseshoeing establishment at the stock yards in South St. Joseph.

While with Wild West shows as a rope and cattle thrower Mr. Breckenridge visited Europe and every part of the United States. In Brussels ten years ago he saved the lives of five persons in a hotel fire, and again at Jacksonville, Fla., seven years ago he rescued two persons from being suffocated by smoke. As a farrier in Jerseyville, Ill., six years ago, he made a strong race for Congress as a Socialist and labor candidate. Mr. Breckenridge says he will make a strenuous campaign for United States Senator, visiting every county in the State.

MORE PAY FOR TELEGRAPHERS

National President Says Big Companies Have Given It Voluntarily.

S. J. Konenkamp, National President of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, has been in conference with the representatives of some of the business concerns and with the local officers of the union.

"The wages of telegraphers," said Konenkamp, "have been advancing all over. The Western Union has advanced wages of first class operators from $80 to $90 a month, and the Postal has advanced them to $95. The railroad telegraphers, the most poorly paid of any class of operators, have had their wages raised to a sum aggregating $1,000,000 since Jan. 1.

LACKAWANNA MEN DEMUR.

They Talk Strike Unless the Road Comes to Their Terms.

The hitch in the agreement between the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad and its trainmen and conductors because of the yard rates, it was stated yesterday, now extends to the road rates. No agreement, the men say, will be made until the Lackawanna reaches their way of thinking. President Garretson of the Order of Railroad Conductores said last night the men were waiting to see what the Lackawanna is going to do, and that there will be trouble unless it agrees to pay the rates they demand.

SAYS POLICE BEAT STRIKERS.

One Jumped In the River to Save His Life, Mayor Is Told.

Miss Mary E. Dreier, President of the Women's Trade Union League of this city, said last night that she had asked Mayor Gaynor to investigate the clubbing by the police of strikers at the American Manufacturing Company plant in Greenpoint.

Miss Dreier said one striker, Lawrence Dull, when clubbed by the police, jumped into the East River, thinking he was going to be killed.

GREENE COPPER MEN DENY CONSPIRACY

Minority Stockholders' Receivership Suit Brought to Injure the Company, Officials Say.

NOT A DOLLAR DIVERTED

And Salaries Cut Instead of Increased —Sale of Land and Lumber Company Explained.

The suit brought by Berton A. Garrett and Max Sand against Thomas F. Cole, John D. Ryan, and other officers and Directors of the Greene-Cananea Copper Company and its constituent companies, in which the papers served last week charge conspiracy and ask for a receiver and an accounting, stirred the officers of the consolidation of Mexican properties into replying yesterday.

Secretary J. W. Allen of the Greene Consolidated Copper Company, of which the complainants are minority stockholders, said that the company would have paid no attention to the charges, except in court, were it not for the "reckless statements" made in the complaint and the obvious intention to injure the company as much as possible by wide publicity through the press, even before the suit had been filed.

Louis Hasbrouck Newkirk, attorney for the minority interests, had been segking light on certain details of the merger of the Greene Consolidated with the Greene-Cananea for more than a year before starting suit. Secretary Allen paid his compliments to the attorney without mentioning him by name. He said that aside from historic facts in relation to the organization of the companies the allegations of the complaint were not only untrue but without any foundation and known to be so by the attorney.

Secretary Allen denied that the Cole-Ryan interests which organized the Greene-Cananea Company controlled or were interested in the Greene Consolidated Copper Company, and stated that in the merger they represented the Cananea central company only. In answer to the other allegations in the complaint he said:

"The Cole-Ryan people put in $4,000,000 new cash, which all went into the treasury of the Greene Consolidated Company or its Mexican company, every dollar of which has either been used for or now is in the treasury of that company, and out of which the large improvements to its smelting plant and mine equipment and development have been made. Not a dollar of the cash or other assets of that company have been diverted to any other company or person.

"Instead of the present officers and Directors of the Greene Consolidated Company having voted themselves large salaries, the salaries have been greatly reduced, and now are only about one-fourth as much as they were before the merger. Neither Cole, Ryan, nor any officer of the Greene Company outside of the operating force at Cananea and the President and Secretary of the Greene Consolidated Copper Company have received one dollar for services. Economy in office expense as well as in operation has been the practice."

One of the principal allegations in the complaint relates to the loss to the Greene Consolidated Company of the Sierra Madre Land and Lumber Company, its stock interest having been sold to Col. Greene, who defaulted on his payments, the company eventually being sold under foreclosure. Of this property Secretary Allen said:

"At the time of the merger the copper company owned 51 per cent. of the land and lumber company stock, which cost the copper company $500,000, but was entered on its books and carried as an asset at $7,650,000, or at the par value of the stock of the lumber company held. Cole and Ryan found that the land and lumber company was greatly in debt and its affairs badly complicated. It had mortgage bonds outstanding to the amount of $3,000,000, and a floating indebtedness of more than $1,700,000.

"In order to put the company on a profitable operating basis a further large expenditure would be required in completing mills and railroads, besides a large working capital, and it would involve the copper company to the extent of at least $7,000,000 to properly finance the lumber company and operate it, which was out of the question.

"It was decided, as Col. Greene and his friends already held about 49 per cent. of the stock, to sell him the 51 per cent. owned by the copper company, which was done for $2,000. He gave his notes for that amount and put up 75 per cent. of the lumber company's stock as security, and as a condition of the sale, Cole and Ryan secured for the copper company from Col. Greene $1,150,000 in cash to repay indebtedness of the lumber company to the copper company.

"The lumber company subsequently defaulted on its bonds, and its property was sold under foreclosure to an English syndicate headed by Dr. F. S. Pearson. Neither Cole nor Ryan nor any other of their associates in any way participated in the purchase or are interested in the present ownership. A large majority of the minority stockholders of the copper company fully approve of the action taken."

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Duty Is Reduced on Alleged Metal Thread and on Edible Seaweed.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has reversed the local Custom House authorities in the classification of merchandise returned for duty as "manufactures in chief value of metal thread." Under this classification the goods were assessed at 5 cents per pound and 35 per cent. ad valorem.

Bailey, Green & Elger, the importers, appealed to the board to set aside the high rates imposed on the merchandise, and this the tribunal does in a decision handed down by General Appraiser Fischer. It is decided that the goods are "beltings made in part of silk, and hence are dutiable properly at the rate of 50 per cent. under the tariff.

Judge Waite, for the board, has reduced the assessment of duty on several varieties of edible seaweed in sheets, which have been dried for the purpose of preservation. It is held that the dried seaweed is not taxable as "prepared vegetable," but instead is free of duty as "crude seaweed." Certain other varieties of the seaweed, merely dried, but not cut into sheets, are also held to be entitled to exemption under the paragraph for the crude material. The classification as "prepared" is reversed. The importations were made by several importers of Japanese commodities.

LEATHER COMMON DIVIDEND.

J. S. Bache & Co. Write to Ask What the Outlook Is.

The hope of a large stockholding interest in the Central Leather Company's common stock that a dividend would be declared, which has been unfulfilled for many months, was the basis of a request for information on the subject from J. S. Bache & Co. This house, which represents between 17,000 and 20,000 shares of the stock, addressed a letter to President E. C. Hoyt on May 13, asking for his opinion on the outlook, but the letter has not been answered so far. The brokers' letter read:

> We are strongly of the opinion that the present earnings of the company justify a dividend on the common stock.
>
> We are naturally disappointed that no action has been taken by the Directors, but we are quite sure that you are looking out for the best interests of all stockholders.
>
> Will you kindly let us have your opinion as to the outlook for a dividend on these shares, and generally as to the subject of the prospects of the common stock?

The Central Leather Company's common stock outstanding totals $88,459,902.

ANOTHER PROMISE BROKEN.

The venerable GEORGE F. EDMUNDS, who for twenty-five years, from 1866 to 1891, was a Senator from the State of Vermont, and during that time was one of the most influential and honored members of the upper branch of Congress, still retains his interest in public affairs and contemporary politics. In a letter to the editor of Leslie's Weekly he expresses his regret that the Railroad bill, which is now the subject of such contentious proceedings in Congress, fails to fulfill the pledge of the Republican platform of 1908. Senator EDMUNDS speaks with some authority upon legislation for the regulation of corporations, since in the preparation of the Anti-Trust law of 1890 he doubtless took a more active part than even Senator SHERMAN himself, who is commonly spoken of as the author of the act. Senator EDMUNDS writes as follows of the pending bill:

> I most earnestly wish that our party will fulfill its obligations to obey our platform of the last election in respect to the Anti-Trust law. To do that you will see, if you carefully read it on that subject, that it cannot pass the seventh section of the proposed railroad bill in any form that it has yet been presented in by our party leaders, and that if passed in that form it will be a distinct and bare-faced violation of its declarations, which were that the inter-State commerce law should be amended so as to authorize, with the approval of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, railway operators to make traffic arrangements, but preserving the principle of keeping up competition and only authorizing arrangements that should not be in restraint of trade. I am sorrowfully expecting that if we do not hold to that we shall certainly lose a majority in the next House of Representatives, and I think in such a case we should deserve it.

It is true, as Senator EDMUNDS says, that the Republican Party by its platform committed itself to the principle of traffic agreements. An amendment permitting such agreements had been advocated by president ROOSEVELT, and was advocated by Mr. TAFT during the campaign. Here is the platform declaration:

> We believe, however, that the inter-State commerce law should be further amended so as to give railroads the right to make and publish traffic agreements subject to the approval of the Commission, but maintaining always the principle of competition between naturally competing lines, and avoiding the common control of such lines by any means whatever.

It may be that the insurgent friends of radical railroad regulation would insist that this is not a pledge. Certainly it differs from the tariff plank, from which we quote: "The Republican Party declares unequivocally for a revision of the tariff by a special session of Congress," and it was laid down as the "true principle of protection" that the duty should equal the difference between production cost here and abroad, with a reasonable profit to the home manufacturer. Compared with that unequivocal declaration the traffic agreement plank might be called a mere aspiration, the expression of a pious wish. But when a party says in its platform that it believes certain amendatory legislation should be had, the reasonable construction to be put upon its declaration, even if it be expressed in the form of a belief, is that it intends to pass the laws which it says it believes ought to be passed. Having in view the repeated declarations of Mr. ROOSEVELT and of the candidate of 1908, no doubt the country accepted this expression of belief as a promise. Senator EDMUNDS is justified, therefore, we think, in calling upon the party to fulfill its obligations.

We are by no means so certain that he is right when he predicts defeat in the Congressional elections this Fall as a consequence of the breaking of this pledge. The situation is a curious one. The insurgents have made a prodigious fuss about the broken tariff pledge. That was party dishonor, that was bad faith with the people. But it happens that the insurgents almost to a man are in favor of the most stringent regulation of the railroads and the Trusts. They are entirely willing that the traffic agreement pledge of the platform should be trampled underfoot. They are troubled only by the breach of faith in respect to the downward revision of the tariff. The regular Republicans have shown that they are not strong enough to put a traffic agreement clause into the Railroad bill. Their attitude is that of surrendering pretty much everything they might be supposed to desire in that projected law. They will hardly use this broken platform pledge as an argument against their party this Fall. The Democrats, certainly, can make no use of it, for they stand with the insurgents in favor of throttling the railroads.

About the only solemn truth that emerges from the mess is this: That platforms are intended for campaign use only, and should be burned with other rubbish of National Committee rooms on election night.

THE PRISON PAROLE BILL.

The bill to permit the release of Federal prisoners on parole under certain conditions is now in conference committee, and in a few days will be sent to the President. An examination of its detailed provisions in the light of the facts that have been presented in its discussion makes it apparent that the measure is hasty and ill-considered, and that the President would be quite justified in returning it with objections.

The aim of the bill is a sound one. It applies to prisoners not committed for the most serious crimes, and permits their conditional release after serving one-third of their term, if the Board of Parole is convinced that they mean to live right lives. That is a principle which, under proper and adequate conditions, is applied in many of the States, and with advantage. The conditions in this bill are not adequate. In the first place the Board of Parole, which grants release, consists of an officer in Washington, a district United States Judge for the district in which the prison is situated, and a private citizen of that district selected by the Attorney General, all serving without pay. There are some 2,500 Federal prisoners in confinement, of whom it is estimated that about 250 in the Federal penitentiaries alone could apply for parole under this law. These prisoners come from all over the Union. It is not to be expected that the members of the Board as constituted could inform themselves thoroughly enough as to the circumstances of these prisoners' career and character to reach a safe conclusion as to their fitness for conditional release.

Apart from this initial defect in the bill, there is no sufficient means provided for keeping track of the released prisoners. Each one is simply left to the supervision of the United States Marshal of the district if he returns home. Apparently if he does not return home there is no certain supervision. Two conditions are absolutely indispensable in the proper administration of release on parole. One is that the prisoner shall be shown clearly to wish to live a right life, the second is that he shall be carefully watched and returned to prison if he does not lead a right life. Neither condition seems to be complied with in this bill.

CURRENCY REFORM AT LAST.

Readers of THE TIMES learned yesterday on the authority of Prof. HILDITCH and The Medical Record that soiled American banknotes are tainted with 142,000 bacteria apiece. Many of them have lost their virulence, to be sure, but any of them might be a cause of disease. Happily the Treasury is alive to the danger, and is considering two reforms. Secretary MACVEAGH himself is considering reducing the size of the notes, and thereby reducing the area which can contain the bacteria, and a subordinate has invented a machine for cleansing the notes.

The notes are to be reduced in size, if the plans prevail, by about an inch in length and half an inch in width. That is about one-fifth, or approximately the shrinkage in purchasing power which has attracted the attention of not a few observers. Finance rivals political economy as the deadly dull science, but this novel interpretation of the demand of the financiers for an elastic currency meets a long-felt want. It is to be remarked that the size of this currency is inversely related to its volume. That is to say, the larger total of dollars afloat the smaller the amount which each dollar will buy, and therefore the smaller the superficial area of the promise to pay. Thus we have a smaller dollar than ever before because the cost of living is so high, and each square inch supports too many bacteria.

It would not be fair to infer that when prices fall, and a dollar goes further, then the Treasury will increase the size of the banknotes again. Perhaps if the dollars were larger or smaller as there were more or fewer of them, and in proportion as their purchasing power were larger or smaller, there would be a sudden interest in measuring the length and breadth of the dollars received and paid, and there would be a most useful lesson in the quantitative theory of money. But the Treasury spoils any such idea. The dollars are to be smaller because paper and ink come high, and there is thought to be no special reason why our circulating notes ought to be larger than other countries'. Bankers dislike the idea of two sizes of notes, as there must be for many years, and have urged a resolution in Congress about it. However, bankers are not influential in the consultations of Congressmen, and experience shows that the Treasury is likely to have its way.

The smallness of the currency will not be due to shrinkage in the wash. This ought to be distinctly understood, for the currency is to be laundered regularly hereafter, if the plans do not miscarry. A process has been discovered whereby a banknote which has been in circulation for some years, and carries more bacteria than can be counted, can be washed and ironed at a cost of 20 cents per thousand. The machine does patching and pressing at the same time, and when half of a note has been done over the contrast with the other half is almost incredible. This is a strictly American idea. We wear out $24,000,000 of currency each year, and we need so much money for rivers and harbors and battleships and pensions, to a total of a billion of dollars, that we cannot afford new currency if the old can be vamped over. The notion that a banknote represents a commercial transaction, and should be issued afresh for each occasion, just as a merchant makes a new promissory note for each discount, is absurd. Other nations are able to keep banknotes afloat only about sixty days. We can use ours as long as the paper holds together if the Treasury laundry produces results. This is a practical reform, made to order while we are waiting for the theoretical reforms of the Monetary Commission, and is a practical answer to the aspersion that this Administration cannot do anything worth while.

THE KING OF IRELAND.

King of Great Britain and Ireland, Defender of the Faith and Emperor of India. Thus the British sovereign is styled. Mr. JOHN REDMOND has explained to an assemblage of Irishmen in Cork that though EDWARD VII. was King of Ireland, and, all things considered, a good King to the Irish, never exhibiting any hostility to a historically oppressed people, yet he was not the constitutional King of Ireland as he was of England. For the Irishmen Mr. REDMOND represents, though they admit the existence of that ancient, powerful but invisible thing called the British Constitution, will not accept it as their own. They demand their own Constitution, and when they get it Mr. REDMOND promises that they will become loyal supporters of the King of Ireland under that Constitution.

Mr. REDMOND has a happy way of putting things. The Sun's report of the Cork meeting announces that some voices proclaimed REDMOND himself Ireland's King, but he has no craving for royal authority, and, as his words show, no thought of separation. The present outlook for Irish home rule seems dubious, but grave changes are pending, and nobody can tell what the year may bring forth.

THE COMET AND ITS TAIL.

An inquiring reader asks us to express an opinion as to why the comet, now said to be in the western sky after sunset, having hitherto pulled its tail, should now take a turn at pushing it. Presumably he is aware of the purely scientific explanation of the tail of a comet and knows that the comet is now journeying away from the sun. We do not blame him for seeking more intelligible ideas of this comet than are obtainable from sources avowedly scientific. He likens the comet and its tail to a locomotive and a train of cars, and remarks that it is exceptional for the engine to push the cars. Moreover, as there is no iron track, he thinks it would be natural in this case for the engine to force its way to the head again and pull. In fact, he attaches a measure of importance to this comet's tail which it does not possess, and seems to think that it is undignified for a comet to imitate a Brooklyn father pushing the baby buggy in Prospect Park.

An easy explanation is not hard to find. The comet approached the earth from the east, where "pull" is the watchword. Without a "pull" in the east one's chances are few. It is now in the west, and there the motto is "push." If our inquirer is determined to reject the scientific explanation of light particles expelled from the comet by the action of the sun's rays, and persists in thinking that a comet preceded by its tail is akin to the tail wagging the dog, he must be satisfied with this, modestly proffered, which accepts the comet as a symbol, and that, too, on blind faith. For where is this comet our inquisitive friend is worrying about?

THE MARCONI SERVICE.

A large number of the special dispatches from European cities in last Sunday's TIMES were sent by the Marconi Transatlantic Wireless System by way of Clifden, Ireland. The service of news dispatches by this system, interrupted for some time by necessary alterations in the machinery at the stations and by the burning of our station, has now been resumed, and once more the news and gossip of the Old World centres now speed across the ocean, from Ireland to Glace Bay. The transmission is rapid and accurate, and the Marconi system now fairly competes with the cable companies in the transmission of news as well as in the ordinary commercial service.

Many thousands of words were thus received for publication in THE SUNDAY TIMES, including much matter requiring great care and accuracy in transmission. News from London, Paris, Rome, and other European centres was received by wireless. Before long it will be possible to receive all the news of Europe daily by this transatlantic agency, which only a few years ago was regarded as a remote scientific possibility, but is now, as the airship soon will be, a factor in the routine of our lives.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Theories of Smuggling.

According to Prof. HUGO MUENSTERBERG, the Harvard psychologist, the reason why rich people smuggle is their inability to personify the Government. In other words, so vague is their realisation as to where, and to what, will go the money they are asked to pay on the goods they bring into the country when they return from abroad, that they do not feel they are robbing anybody when they avoid as much of the payment as they can.

This is an interesting theory, and there may be something in it—there usually is when Prof. MUENSTERBERG talks about anything except beer—but we suspect that, of all who doubt its adequacy and accuracy, those whose conduct it is expected to explain will be the most dubious. Ex-Gov. ROLLINS, for instance, evolved a pleasing assortment of excuses when he was caught smuggling, the other day, and his ingenious counsel devised several more, but neither of them pleaded for mercy on the ground that the eminent New Hampshire protectionist couldn't get clearly before his mind's eye a picture of Uncle Sam, sitting at the receipt of customs and implacably demanding from all his sons and daughters the wherewithal for running the family home.

Prof. MUENSTERBERG hasn't been in the United States very long, else would he have learned that most of us, and the rich even more than the poor, can personify the Government with extreme ease. At any rate we can when we want it to do something for us. Then we turn promptly and with touching confidence to "Washington," and are either indignant or grieved or both if whatever we want is not forthcoming. But of course giving is a very different thing from getting, and probably there lurks in many minds an impression, naturally strongest in those who know most about the workings of the protective system, that as the amount of revenue which the tariff brings to the Government is trivial as compared with the tax it imposes on the public, to pay duties that can be escaped is hardly worth while.

And smuggling is not a peculiarity of the rich. It is not true that everybody smuggles, but it probably is true that almost everybody who scrupulously "declares" every foreign purchase does it because of an abnormally vivid appreciation of the unpleasant consequences that may follow, and nowadays are rather more than likely to follow, an attempt to fool the Inspectors. Only the exceptional conscience sees any moral turpitude in the sort of smuggling tourists do, and the number of them who are restrained only by fear is beyond computation by anybody except professional mathematicians.

Showing Royal Clemency.

King GEORGE, on coming to his throne, has followed the ancient custom of opening the jail doors to a considerable number of men upon whom they had closed in the reign of his predecessor. It is not quite easy to figure out why he did this. In other days, presumably, the thing was done, partly to give the impression that the new ruler was merciful and generous, and partly on the fair assumption that the old King had put a good many people in prison not because they were criminals or otherwise dangerous to society, but because they had interfered with the execution of his plans or had otherwise made themselves personally obnoxious to himself or his friends. Those whom one monarch incarcerated, of course, another could release.

There are at present, however, no political prisoners, properly so called, and, as Kings have nothing whatever to do with the filling of jails, there is no obvious reason why they should exercise the pardoning power except as a part of the law's regular administration and for considerations quite different from those which must have moved the new head of the British Government. Those whom he has set free are criminals, not martyrs to opinion, and the people whom their crimes injured are not likely to join very heartily in applauding the royal clemency.

But there the pardons were in the category of kingly rites established aforetime, and of course it wouldn't do to omit them. That they were anachronisms, that they have ceased to serve a purpose and to be explicable, must be taken as arguments for rather than against them. Forms have to be scrupulously observed if an institution that has come to be itself merely a form is to be preserved a while longer. The prisoners were freed for the same reason that the ancient ceremonies of proclaiming the King's accession were carried out exactly as in the days when there was no other way of spreading the news, and the ancient costumes of heralds and pursuivants had to be worn by the very modern individuals who did the proclaiming to people as well informed of recent happenings as themselves.

For those who like such things they are very likable indeed—and, if the truth were told, we all like them more or less. To laugh at them is permissible, but it should be kindly and sympathetic laughter, with an underlying sense of the utility there is in clinging to old fashions, for the sake of their associations and their picturesqueness—so long as they do not interfere seriously with the adoption of newer and better fashions. England is none the less democratic because monarchical.

Ignorance Plus Obstinacy.

"Making change" is something done so often and so willingly by those with anything to sell that now and then when one of them refuses to do it a little resentment is apt to be mingled with the surprise that follows. People have practically forgotten that really the obligations to make change is on the buyer, not on the seller, and that the latter can always, if he chooses, decline to accept for his wares anything except the exact amount of the price he demands for them.

Therefore was he a most foolish fellow who thought himself aggrieved and affronted when a ticket seller on the elevated railway wouldn't take a $20 bill and return for it $19.95 and a single ticket. The expectation was unreasonable, the refusal justifiable, and as the man with the big bill insisted on arguing the matter for fifteen minutes while a long line of people behind him fumed and fretted over the delay it is well that he was arrested, taken to police court, and fined.

The episode taught him, and possibly not a few others, something new about the meaning of the phrase "legal tender"—to wit, that a $20 bill, no matter if it be "as good as gold," is not legal tender in payment for a 5-cent ticket.

Academic Costumes and Suffrage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Cannot something be done to instill into college graduates something of the reverence for the cap and gown which is felt for the flag of one's country? I believe that before a law was passed preventing it the American flag was used for advertising purposes. I am sure among the officers of the colleges and among the wisest graduates the cap and gown are held to be suitable only for academic purposes. I hope to see such a tradition upheld, and to become powerful enough to prevent college women from wearing their caps and gowns at suffrage conventions, parades, and open-air meetings. It would never occur to a man to show such bad taste as to drag in the fact of his college education in such a manner. I hope that alumnæ associations throughout the country will take this matter up.

A WAY OUT.

Suggested That Disinterested Committee Pass Upon All Palladino Conditions

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The problem of the Palladino séance is not so difficult of solution if those most closely interested will resort to a very simple expedient. We know the exact conditions under which Mme. Palladino will hold her séance, and how she wishes it judged. We know Mr. Rinn's conditions and his ideas of judgment. Mr. Carrington's, ditto.

Why not let an absolutely disinterested committee pass upon these three sets of conditions and ideas of proper judgment to see if from them some common ground can be established for final action and settlement?

The mutual recrimination being so freely indulged in at present by Messrs. Rinn and Carrington as to who is backing down cannot possibly lead to anything but the popular success of the more subtle writer. The medium's permanent reputation should really have a more material foundation.

VERITAS.

Palladino's Need of Darkness.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Justice to La Palladino. It is but right that Palladino be not deprived of her working tools. We could not reasonably expect a carpenter or any other tradesman to do his work, much less good work, if we deprived him of his working tools. If those of your correspondents who fail to understand why Palladino must work with lights turned down, or in almost total darkness, to do good work and get fair phenomena, will refer to their Bibles, they will perhaps discover, if they have eyes to see, that darkness has always been considered a necessary adjunct to the production of spiritist phenomena. Numbers, Chapter XXII.: Why could Balaam not inform Balak's messengers what the Lord said without their having to stay with him over the night? Evidently the Lord would not appear in daylight. See also Numbers, Chapter XXIV., and Verses 2 to 4 and 15 and 16. Of course, if we are clairvoyant and clairaudient, we could readily see the angel in the path and hear the ass speak. The production and character of spiritistic phenomena depend upon the "medium" and also the "control." Like attracts like. Again, all spirits may not be truthful. We have heard, of yore, of lying spirits and false prophets. See First John, Chapter IV.

MISS PROCTOR'S SUCCESS.

Story Suggested by Her Location of Comet in the East.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having more than average interest in astronomy, because of considerable study for a score of years and the possession of a twelve-inch telescope, it gives me pleasure to express hearty appreciation of the achievement of Miss Mary B. Proctor in "locating" the tail of Halley's comet by looking to the east while all the professors were gazing in the opposite direction on the night when the predictions were that the earth would be bathed in comet dust. It recalls an incident in one of the late Sylvanus Cobb's stories, which some of the old boys like myself may remember, when some people in an early age of the world decided to choose as King the man who should first see the sun in the morning when the tall candidates were standing on a level plain. One wise man, not so tall as the others, turned his back to the east and looked intently toward the west, and the others smiled at his seeming indifference. But when the sun, not yet risen, was gilding a mountain top to the west the man shouted: "Look! Behold the sun!" And when the whole assembly turned to look at the sunlight he suddenly turned to the east just in time to see the sun when it was appearing above the horizon. And they made him King. So Miss Proctor discovered the tail of the comet while the most famous professors were looking in the other direction. The discovery is worthy of commendation, although not quite so famous, as was Prof. Barnard's discovery of the fifth moon of Jupiter in 1892 at Mount Hamilton, when, it is alleged, there was a suspicion of jealousy in the ranks above him, and he fortunately won the glory of the discovery in spite of it.

Comets are the most mysterious bodies in the entire universe, and their purpose baffles the investigations of the wisest astronomers. The Chinese name for them is "sui," or broom. Perhaps they are created to sweep the realms of space allotted to our solar system, gathering up in their somewhat erratic course the meteoric stones and bolides which might be too numerous otherwise for the comfort of the inhabitants of the habitable planets.

'PHONES AT CITY'S EXPENSE.

Judge Foster's Letter Does Not Prove His Right to One.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note in news columns of May 16 copies of letters addressed to the Controller in reference to telephones maintained at public expense.

While the letter of Judge Foster may be said to cover most excellent reasons for the maintenance of these 'phones, does it really furnish any proof why the generally taxed public who contribute their just proportion of all city expenses should be billed up with these added expenses as well? A physician, no matter how poorly compensated for the service, is often called upon at most unseasonable hours. It would impress us as most unusual were he to expect such connection at the expense of the general public. A lawyer or Judge would, under ordinary circumstances, install a telephone at his residence. If he is a guest at a hotel he is entitled to messenger service from the telephone centre in that hotel. The expense of all local telephoning is at the "calling" end, not at the final. Why double the expense to the city?

The whole matter is much on the principle of a railroad President riding free, while the wage earner, office worker, and numerous commuters who receive only the smallest percentage of his income pay their way, and pay it up to the full limit of the law governing fares. When we wake up to the fact that the public at large should not be called upon to pay more for the maintenance of the city's government in salaries, expenses, or fees than is paid for like service by private firms, then will we begin to enjoy the small comforts without paying a royalty therefor.

Simplified Spelling.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

During the recent agitation for reformed English and simplified spelling no mention seems to have been made of a device which appears to me both simple and logical. We have in English a "K" and an "S" and another letter, "C," which is sometimes one and sometimes the other. I can think of no instance where this "C" occurs with a phonetic value of its own. In short, it is superfluous, and it would be a decided step toward the inner harmony and consistency of the English language to reject its use altogether. All that is required to effect this reform is to supplant it with a "K" when it occurs with the sound of "K," i. e., come—kome, can—kan, cat—kat, &c., and with an "S" when it occurs with the sound of "S," i. e., certainly—sertainly, &c. Where it occurs within a word but is not sounded it can be dropped, i. e., kick—kik.

THEO. C. WEEKS.

Mr. Roosevelt's Full Dress.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is consoling to know that Mr. Roosevelt did not wear evening dress of his own volition.

But why should the British authorities prescribe a form of attire repugnant, at such an hour, to themselves unless through a well-intentioned though mistaken conception of the estimate of "full dress" in "the States"?

Ah, me! I fear they do not know that the habit of "swallow-tail" and open shirtfront before sundown passed with the custom of New Year's calling upward of thirty years ago. Such, however, is the mutability of human affairs.

Perhaps after all, on knowledge of Mr. Roosevelt's Dutch extraction, it was a graceful tribute to his Dutchness.

SAVINGS BANKS' PLANS.

Little Change in Interest Rates Expected by the City Institutions.

With the approach of the Summer interest period on savings bank deposits the question of the dividend or interest rate which will prevail is already being canvassed, although the Trustees of the New York City banks do not meet to take action on the question for several weeks.

Last Winter, when the semi-annual rate was under discussion, there was a tendency among the larger banks to curtail the rate because of the decreasing returns on savings bank investment in the rising bond market, but only a few institutions then reduced their interest rate from 4 per cent., which had been general in the previous year, to 3½ per cent., notably the Bowery Savings Bank, which is the largest in this country; the Dry Dock, the North River, and the Union Square Savings Banks.

For the midsummer period the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, whose Trustees meet on the 9th or 10th of next month, will probably be the first to take action. Controller Pulleyn of that institution said yesterday that while it was too early to predict what would be done there was no reason to believe that there would be any departure from the 4 per cent. rate which the bank has maintained through good times and bad for the last six years. It is expected that most of the other banks which stuck to the 4 per cent. rate last January will maintain it this Summer.

Although there has been some attempt outside New York City, notably in Rochester and Syracuse, to bring about uniformity in savings bank rates, the movement has not extended to this city, and each bank acts independently.

The State Association of Savings Banks holds its annual meeting on Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce.

NO ACTION AGAINST DR. EWALD

Decision of Committee of County Medical Society Not Made Public.

No action was taken last night at the meeting of the Medical Society of the County of New York in regard to Dr. Louis Anton Ewald of 48 East Eighty-seventh Street, a member of the society, who was charged with falsifying a report regarding operations he said he had performed, which was published in a book called the "Festschrift," issued last Fall by the medical staff of the German Hospital.

When Dr. Ewald wrote that he had performed Freund's radical operation, an abdominal operation for cancerous growth which is said to be extremely rare, his word was questioned by members of the German Hospital, the Obstetrical Society, and the County Medical Society.

Charges against him were filed with the County Medical Society, and the Board of Censors took the matter before the Comitia Minora, the members of which, it was said last night, reached a decision several days ago. What that decision was no one connected with the society would say. The incident, so far as the Medical Society is concerned, it was said last night, was closed.

TIGHE BEFORE GRAND JURY.

Brooklyn Magistrate Questioned in Bail Bond Investigation.

Magistrate Tighe yesterday appeared before the Kings County Grand Jury, which is investigating the case of Michael H. Feeney, whose activity as a special bondsman in the Brooklyn police courts was the subject of a recent report to the Mayor by Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick. Magistrate Tighe was charged in the report with accepting Feeney's security twenty-two times in a year in the Adams Street Court.

Commissioner Fosdick said Feeney's property was accepted by Magistrates when outstanding against it were judgments which offset its value for bail bond purposes.

WHITE SLAVERY BUNCOMBE?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read your comments in to-day's TIMES in regard to the conviction of the Moore woman. I think you might have gone a step further and asked the logical questions: Would this woman have committed the crime of which she now stands convicted had not the City of New York appropriated $25,000 of the taxpayers' money to prove or disprove the white slave allegations? Whose money made the woman commit the crime? Whose agents induced her to commit it? For what purpose was this money of the taxpayers appropriated? Was it to make white slaves? What has become of the people who (according to the newspapers last Fall) were over head and ears in the white slave traffic? Is it right, is it manly, to squander so much money in tempting a negro woman to engage in a bargain of the kind described and then send her to jail for it? Is this civic virtue or sniveling hypocrisy? And these girls who were used, girls with street careers, one of them described as a poor child crying for her teddy bear, who now turns out to be a professional, married at that—what of them? Are they the only kind of white slaves we have? Is not the whole thing buncombe—the most despicable kind of buncombe?

CHARLES O'CONOR IRWIN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The thanks of a quite ordinary person for your well-balanced, topical comment on "Ill-Chosen Agents of Reform" are yours. From the outset of this incident, with its "compelling" setting of "teddy bears," "dolls," and clearly alleged though elusive "child of eleven," my conviction has been that the thing was a "spot-light plant," designed to reflect an effulgence of great purpose upon the authors thereof.

That the reverse should be proved in the accomplishment is probably more surprising to those that "walked in the light" than to the rest of us who viewed the "drama" from the shadows of our crude understanding.

Stuyvesant Pear Tree.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of this date replying to an inquiry about noted trees by "Mrs. E. C.," you state the Stuyvesant pear tree was on the "northwest" corner of Third Avenue and Thirteenth Street. This is a mistake. It was on the northeast corner. I remember it well and have some frames made from it.

STUYVESANT F. MORRIS.

A MATTER OF IMPORTANCE.

Let us pause in our discussions
Of women's right to vote
And for a time consider
A question less remote.

No doubt the rights of women
Have been ignored by men,
No doubt by these same creatures
They'll be ignored again,

But that is not the question;
What now concerns us more
Shunts politics and pushes
Religion to the fore.

That is to say, shall women
Take off their hats in church,
Or give the men around them
A more exalted perch?

According to the fashions
Prevailing most to-day
The women's giant bonnets
Block up the narrow way.

So men cannot get in it,
Or even see ahead,
And soon they will be hitting
The broad one that is red.

Now therefore will the women
Adopt a different plan?
Or will they keep the bonnet

AVIATORS ORGANIZE TO OPPOSE WRIGHTS

Form an American Association to Hold Meetings Independent of the Inventors.

THE AERO CLUB A MEMBER

And All Those Now Affiliated with It —No Decision Reached as to International Air Contest.

The American Aeronautic Association was organized yesterday in the clubroom of the Aero Club of America, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street. The new association embraces many of the affiliated clubs of the parent body, and will in time control the administrative affairs in aeronautics, both National and local.

Contrary to expectation, no action was taken interfering with the Aero Club of America's progress with respect to the forthcoming international aviation meet on Long Island next October, and the affiliation of the other clubs with the Aero Club of America remains as before, the chief purpose of the new organization being to bring about a more effective handling of local affairs.

Under the new association, outside cities will be able to hold independent meets, and by engaging non-infringing machines will be able to ignore the Wright brothers, whose present agreement with the Aero Club of America makes it impossible for any city to hold an aviation meet under a sanction from the Aero Club without a license from the Wright brothers. The reason for the new organization was defined in the following resolution:

> We recommend that for the administration of aeronautical affairs, of National or local character in the United States, the American Aeronautical Association be formed at once, with officers elected to serve until June 22, 1910, in New York City, at which time we recommend that new officers be elected by the affiliated clubs for the ensuing year.
> We further recommend that all aeronautical clubs and bodies now existing or in the future to be organized in the United States, including the Aero Club of America, be invited to join this association, upon some acceptable basis of powers and representation, founded upon the members of such clubs, or upon their membership, in accordance with rules and regulations to be enacted into permanent form by the representatives of affiliated clubs here assembled, and to be revised from time to time as may be decided at future meetings of the representatives or delegates of affiliated clubs.

The following representatives of the affiliated clubs attended the meeting: A. B. Lambert, Indianapolis and St. Louis; Jerome H. Joyce and J. Albert Hughes, Baltimore; A. W. Carpenter, J. V. Martin, M. C. Brown, and R. M. Allen, Harvard University Aeronautical Society; J. E. Plew and Victor Lougheed, Illinois; W. J. Strang and George M. Myers, Kansas City; J. M. Satterfield, Buffalo; J. S. Fanciulli, Washington, and Samuel H. Valentine and P. T. Dodge, Aero Club of America. Augustus Post was a delegate of the Ohio Aero Club and E. R. Hawley represented Pittsfield Aero Club. Both were present, but as they did not hold special credentials they did not vote. It is expected that the future activities of the new organization will be more completely formulated at the next meeting of the club, on June 22. The temporary officers are George M. Myers, Kansas City Aero Club, President; A. B. Lambert, St. Louis Aero Club, First Vice President; J. V. Martin, Harvard Aeronautical Society, Second Vice President; Victor Lougheed, Aero Club of Illinois, Secretary; Jerome H. Joyce, Aero Club of Baltimore, Treasurer. A special meeting of the Board of Governors of the Aero Club of America will be held to-day, when it is expected that final decision will be reached as to the place for holding the international aviation meet. It is said a strong opposition has developed to the contemplated plan of permitting the Wright brothers to control the meeting through Andrew Freedman and L. L. Gillespie, as it is thought that should the Wright interests control the meet foreign aviators will not compete, and thus deprive the meeting of its international aspect.

Although it is known that the meeting will be held on Long Island, no definite location has been selected. It is understood that Israel Ludlow, representing a syndicate, has offered a guarantee of $100,000 with 5 per cent. of the receipts to the Wright brothers. Two other offers have been received, one of which is from Stilton, N. J. It is almost certain that Belmont Park will not be selected, and that the choice of site lies between Hempstead Plains and the Motor Parkway.

Boston Man Makes Flights.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., May 23.—The longest aeroplane flight thus far in New England was made to-day by William Hilliard of Boston, who covered a third of a mile at Plum Island. In another flight to-day Hilliard flew 700 feet. The machine worked smoothly, and no mishap occurred.

Aviation Meet for Omaha.

OMAHA, May 23.—This city is to have an aviation meet beginning July 9. It is expected that Glenn H. Curtiss, Charles Hamilton, or C. J. Mars will make flights on each of the five days of the meet.

BARS MOVING PICTURES.

Court Refuses to Grant a License for One Near a School.

"The granting of prior licenses in school districts cannot aid the relator, inasmuch as it has been made to appear that entertainment in such districts has tended to affect injuriously the education of the young and otherwise to be a baneful influence to them."

Thus did Supreme Court Justice Erlanger yesterday deny M. Bonfiglio a writ of certiorari to compel the Police Commissioner to grant a license for a moving-picture theatre at 389 Amsterdam Avenue.

Supt. Maxwell and District Supt. Schauffer put themselves on record against granting the license.

FOR A UNIVERSITY IN CHINA.

Association Formed for the Purpose at a Methodist Conference.

At a conference in the Continental Hotel yesterday between prominent Methodist clergymen and laymen, the Fukien University Association was organized, to erect an American university at Foo-Chow, China.

INEBRIATE BILL SIGNED BY MAYOR

Doubting Value of It, in a Note to the Governor He Observes Drunkenness Is Decreasing.

FEWER TOPERS THAN EVER

Gaynor Attributes the Reform to Churches, Father Matthew Societies, and Other Influences.

Mayor Gaynor has approved the bill passed by the Legislature authorizing the Board of Estimate to provide for the retention and treatment of inebriates in this city. In his memorandum forwarded to the Governor with his acceptance of the bill the Mayor points out that the measure is purely permissive, and lays emphasis on the possible cost of carrying out its provisions. He seems to have been deeply impressed by the number of letters written to him favoring the plan. The memorandum reads:

"This bill makes it optional with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment whether it shall incur the expense of establishing and maintaining an institution for the detention and discipline of inebriates. It is certain that drunkenness has very much decreased during the last thirty years or more. There used to be five topers for one that you see now. This is due to several causes. The foremost is the education and elevation morally of our people through our churches and splendid system of schools. The next is the improvement in methods of hygiene and living. The next is the particular influence which has been exerted against intemperance by organized effort in the churches and elsewhere, and by great temperance leaders such as Father Matthew and John B. Gough.

"There are thousands of these Father Matthew Societies all over the United States doing incalculable good. Finally, the substitution of light beers for strong drinks has done much to do away with drunkenness. It might also be mentioned that the general introduction of machinery, and especially electricity, has done much to require total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, for only sober and alert men are fit for these employments.

"I feel certain that these influences are doing vastly more than this statute could do to decrease the number of inebriates. I doubt if this bill, should it become a law, will do much to decrease the number. I view it more as furnishing a humane and rational manner of restraining and treating inebriates rather than let them go from bad to worse, and finally be sent to prison for some crime. It has back of it good men and women, and I should be reluctant to refuse to accept it on behalf of the city. I accept it, leaving it to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to say whether the great expense which the carrying of it out would entail on the city should be incurred—that is to say, whether it will be worth the while to incur it."

The Mayor also signed a bill granting per diem city employes two weeks' vacation this year with pay. He vetoed yesterday a bill authorizing the Board of Assessors to determine the possible damages sustained by abutting property owners as a result of the construction of the approaches to the Manhattan Bridge. In his memorandum on this bill the Mayor says:

"It is doubtful if any one has been injured by any change of street grade to conform to the Manhattan Bridge, and, moreover, the grossly excessive awards, sometimes for hundreds of thousands of dollars, when there was no damage at all, which had in one way and another been procured under similar legislation, induces me to withhold acceptance for the city."

The Mayor will hold a public hearing this morning on a bill which was the outcome of the investigation of the lower courts of the city by a joint legislative committee last Summer.

It provides for the establishment of a night court for women, a domestic relations court for cases of abandonment, non-support, and cruelty; a Chief Justice in the Court of Special Sessions, a Chief Police Magistrate in each district of the city, three additional police Magistrates, a new card identification system for petty offenders, and the abolishment of the system of detailing policemen as court attendants.

COMMITTEE REVIVES HERESY CHARGES

Assembly Body Says a Prima Facie Case Was Established by Minority of Presbytery.

GOES NOW TO COMMISSION

Findings to be Reported to Presbyterian General Assembly for Action.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 23.—The decision to try the heresy charges in New York Presbytery involving Messrs. Black, Steen, and Finch, who were granted preaching orders after the young men had refused to accept in full the beliefs of the Church, was announced by the Judicial Committee of the Presbyterian General Assembly to-day. The committee, headed by the Rev. E. D. Warfield, President of Lafayette College, presented a report in which it declared the belief "that the minority members of the New York Presbytery Board established a prima facie case of heresy and the matter has now been referred to the Judicial Commission of the Assembly who will hear witnesses and report their findings for final action by the assembly."

W. H. Landon of California, W. K. Spencer of Michigan, Jesse C. Bruce of Pennsylvania, Charles T. Thompson of Minnesota, and J. Y. Hamilton of Illinois were elected members of the Judicial Commission to take the places of members whose terms expired with the present meeting.

Dr. Warfield introduced a resolution to allow contributions to divinity students of more than $200, the sum allowed by the assembly to pay the expenses of students working their way through college, when necessary. Dr. Warfield said that "theological students should not be forced to peddle books or groceries to secure an education." The resolution carried a proviso that the increase should only be allowed in case of "sickness or other extraordinary need."

The report of the Board of Ministerial Relief shows that the board has upon its rolls 472 ministers, 595 widows, 35 orphan families, 13 women missionaries, and 52 other persons. The receipts of the board for the past year were $488,024 and the expenditures $400,378. The endowment fund amounts to $2,000,000.

The board calls attention to the constantly increasing number of families of ministers that need aid, and asks the General Assembly to call the attention of the churches to the urgent needs of the board.

A statement in the report that there were 4,480 churches which had not contributed a cent to the cause during the last year brought out a resolution which was passed ordering that such churches as failed in future to make proper contributions should be reported to the assembly and publicly censured.

It was stated that the increase in the cost of food, clothing, and other necessaries had made it imperative for the church to increase its payments to disabled clergymen and widows of clergymen from $300 to $500 for the former and from $250 to $300 for the latter.

To meet this increase in the annual payments it was voted unanimously to raise the endowment fund to $6,000,000.

PRESBYTERIANS ON DIVORCES.

Southern Church at Odds Concerning Proposed Changes in Rules.

LEWISBURG, West Va., May 23.—One of the campaigns of the Southern Presbyterian Assembly began to-day when the ad interim Committee on Marriage and Divorce was called to report. So divergent were the views of the members that attempts to obtain a majority report were abandoned.

Dr. W. E. Boggs, Atlanta, Ga., the last Moderator, and Dr. W. Joplin, Red Springs, N. C., submitted a report commending radical changes in the confession of faith. Dr. Russell Cecil, Richmond, Va., and Dr. H. Fleming submitted a substitute report recommending that no changes be made.

Dr. Boggs wanted to debar polygamists from baptism and the Lord's Supper. Dr. Cecil was in favor of missionaries exercising discretion in extending membership to heathen polygamists, claiming that great hardships would result from requiring heathens to desert all but one wife and one family. Dr. Boggs met this with the statement that it was the duty of the Church to care for these cast offs.

Dr. Boggs opposed the Church's continuing to allow "willful desertion" as a cause of divorce. At the same time he recommended an amendment of the confession so as to allow the guilty party in adultery divorces to remarry upon furnishing satisfactory evidence of rependance to the Church. He claimed there was nothing in the Scriptures forbidding this. Dr. Cecil opposed both recommendations.

So important did the assembly regard the matter that it declined to act on the marriage and divorce reports until both had been printed.

HONOR BOOKER WASHINGTON.

Sunday Schools End Color Line Row by Making Him Life Member.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The color line drawn on negro delegates was eradicated by the world's sixth Sunday School Convention to-day when Booker T. Washington was made a life member of the organization and the necessary subscription of $1,000 was promptly pledged, mostly by delegates from Southern States.

A white delegate from Kentucky nominated Mr. Washington, saying: "We may all have our own ideas of how the negro problem is to be worked out, but we owe it as a tribute to the Christian negroes of the world to make Mr. Washington a life member."

At the evening session former Congressman Walter O. Hoffecker of Delaware rose from the rear of the great crowd that filled Convention Hall and sang by himself "Traveling Home, Led by Jesus I Am Traveling Home." The audience applauded so vigorously that Mr. Hoffecker was compelled to mount the platform and sing it again. It was during a song service led by Charles M. Alexander, the singing evangelist, who has sung the Gospel story to immense audiences in all parts of the world that Mr. Hoffecker responded to the call to sing, and almost swept the audience off its feet with enthusiasm.

Mrs. Alfred C. Barney Presents "Daphnephoria" for a Charity.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Society was fairly well represented this afternoon at the sylvan play given on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Blount of Georgetown. Mrs. Alfred C. Barney arranged the festival under the name of "Daphnephoria," in aid of Neighborhood House, her special charity.

Mrs. Noyes, whose professional début will take place in London next Fall, led the classic dancing in the rôle of Galatea. Ben Greet, now conducting a short dramatic season at a local theatre, read the prologue. The participants were chiefly from Mrs. Barbour's private dancing class, all in artistic draping designed by Mrs. Barney. A chorus of children selected for their grace and beauty added greatly to the effect. Owing to the threatened rain and departure from town of many of the patronesses the audience was smaller than at any similar performance offered by this philanthropic social leader.

The Marine Band played during the assembling of the audience, which included Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Blount, Mrs. Julian James, Mrs. Hennen Jennings and Miss Jennings, Mrs. Willard H. NEWPORTERS FACE STRIKE.

Assistant Gardeners in Cottage Colony Demand Higher Wages.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, May 23.—More than 200 assistant gardeners in the cottage colony, where the grounds are being made ready for the coming of their owners, intend to strike on June 1 unless their demands for increased wages are granted.

In an appeal to the public for its moral support they point out that the present wages of $4.87 a day have prevailed since twenty years ago, although the cost of living has advanced greatly in that time. They ask $2.25 a day, the same the City of Newport pays its laborers for shorter hours.

MRS. WILLIAM COLLIER'S WILL

William Collier, the actor, is one of the defendants named by Mrs. Rachel Allen, mother of Collier's late wife, Louise Allen Collier, in a suit begun to admit to probate a copy of the late will. The original Mrs. Collier's estate, estimated at $10,000, of the will has been lost. It left all of Mrs. Collier's estate, estimated at $10,000 to her mother, cutting off her husband and two brothers and four sisters. Collier has since remarried.

The suit comes into court to-day on a motion which will be argued before Supreme Court Justice Erlanger. Collier had not filed any answer to the suit yesterday.

Actors Won Few Prizes at Fair.

Those who held lucky tickets for the Actors' Fund Fair prizes have been notified of their fortune. The number of tickets sold for one of the pianos was so small that the management has decided to refund the money to the purchasers and to return the piano. The articles that are uncalled for within two days will be placed in storage at the expense and risk of those who may have a claim to them. The full list of winners contains the names of few actors, most of the fortunate people being outside of the profession. The names of the winners of the big prizes have already been published.

Nat Wills Weds Heloise Titcombe.

With only two friends present as witnesses, Nat M. Wills, the vaudeville comedian, and Heloise McCeney, known on the vaudeville stage as Heloise Titcome, were married yesterday at the City Hall by Alderman Hannon, and will sail to-day for Europe on the Rotterdam for their honeymoon. After a month's rest, Wills will open at the Palace Theatre, London, for a four weeks' engagement, and then return to this country with his bride. This is Wills's third marriage. The marriage license application showed that Miss Titcomb obtained a divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty from Waine McEinbett ten days ago in Chicago, with permission to resume her maiden name and marry again. She is known on the stage as the "Parisian Dancer on Horseback." Wills gave his age as 36 and the bride as 28.

Jacob L. Phillips.

Jacob L. Phillips, for more than twenty years a teacher of Hebrew and other languages in this city, died yesterday of pneumonia, following an operation. Mr. Phillips was the author of five Hebrew works of wide popularity, and his death interrupted his preparation of an exhaustive work in Hebrew on the history of the Jews. His Hebrew grammars and condensed stories from the Scriptures were standard works in Hebrew schools all over the world. Mr. Phillips was 75 years old. He came to the United States from Russia twenty-seven years ago and became a citizen twenty-two years ago. He was one of the founders of the Hebrew Sheltering House, the East Side Civic Club, and the People's Synagogue. He was prominently identified with the Greater New York Taxpayers' Conference, for which his son, Harold M. Phillips, is attorney. He took a prominent part in the first campaign of William Travers Jerome for District Attorney, and was an active Republican Party worker. He was a member of the Educational Alliance, of the United Hebrew Charities, the Independent Order B'Nai Brith, the Zion Benevolent Association, the Montefiore Benevolent Association, and the Alliance Israelit Universelle. Mr. Phillips was one of the first members of the Rice Chess Club. Mr. Phillips is survived by his widow, Miriam; three sons, Harold M., Herman, and Nathaniel Phillips, all lawyers, and two daughters, Annie Phillips, a public school teacher, and Fannie Phillips. His home was at 148 West 111th Street.

Funeral of Mrs. Theron Butler.

At the funeral of Mrs. Theron Butler, which was held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, Thirty-first Street and Madison Avenue, the Rev. Dr. Charles Eaton, the pastor, conducted the services. Bruno Huhn, the organist, played the Chopin "Funeral March" and the "Dead March" from Handel's "Saul." The choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light"; "Abide With Me," and "When All Thy Mercies, O My God." There was a similar service at Fort Chester Sunday with the same selections.

Miss Corrina Shattuck.

Miss Corrina Shattuck, noted for her heroism in Armenia during the massacres of 1895, died yesterday in Dorchester, Mass. In 1895 Miss Shattuck withstood a Turkish mob that sought to break up her schools and slaughter her pupils. Her defiance of the mob was successful, and her pupils were saved. She had been in Turkey since 1873.

Regal Cars

In the All Connecticut Reliability Run the $1250 REGAL defeats in its class

Chalmers	$1500
Jackson	$1600
Reo	$1250

The REGAL also made a better showing than nine higher priced, higher powered machines. Every automobile buyer should read this.

The REGAL WON in its class, but that was expected, for the REGAL $1250 has ALWAYS shown more RELIABILITY and greater ENDURANCE than any car at $2000 or under. For example, in our class we were penalized 13 points, while the Chalmers, our nearest competitor, lost 34 points.

The RELIABILITY and ENDURANCE of the REGAL was again proved in this contest. The $1250 REGAL made a BETTER SCORE than the $2500 National, the $2500 Rambler, the $2750 Chalmers and others.

Price does not make a car. In reliability—in endurance—we proved, by performance, that we were a $2500 car.

You may not want to drive your REGAL 200 miles a day for 3 days in mud up to the hubs, but it's a heap of satisfaction to know that your REGAL is more than equal to it.

Many people have deprived themselves from the pleasure of owning a touring car because they thought no car selling for less than $2500 would really SATISFY them. If you are one of these, you are the man we want to convince. You do not have to pay a fancy price for a thoroughly reliable touring car.

Judge REGAL reliability by what it does in public contests—judge its style, power and comfort for yourself.

If you want to save at least $1000 and get a better car—buy now. Duplicates of this model for immediate delivery.

JEFFRIES HITS HIS TRAINERS TOO HARD

Choynski and Armstrong Find Boilermaker Has His Old-Time Punch.

Special to The New York Times.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 23.—Jeffries returned to his regular routine work today, with the exception that he did road work directly after breakfast and postponed "gym" work and boxing until the afternoon. He slept late this morning after his trip to Santa Cruz last evening, but he covered nine miles on the road at a lively clip. The last mile was run in a sprint, for Joe Choynski and Jack Jeffries paced him for this distance. Choynski beat him by a few yards, but Jack was outdistanced.

In boxing to-day Jeffries showed much aggressiveness, and evidently had much trouble to temper his blows. If he lets himself out he hurts Choynski and Armstrong, and they become irritated.

Jeffries is evidently counting on his trip to San Francisco to give an exhibition of sparring next Friday night. He will box three rounds with each of his training partners, winding up with a twenty-minute exhibition in shadow boxing, rope skipping, &c. Jeffries, in speaking of this appearance declared that the audience "might see something drop" if he felt as he did to-day. Armstrong and Choynski did not welcome this statement from their chief, especially as each of them has been pretty well beaten up during the past fortnight.

Jim Corbett, who is to be the third man in the ring when Jeffries tackles his sparring partners, expects to reach San Francisco in time for Friday's exhibition.

Frank Gotch, champion wrestler of the world, will join J. J. Jeffries's staff of trainers not later than June 5, according to telegraphic advices received from the wrestler to-day. He will be the last addition to the Jeffries camp.

It is now accepted by Jeffries and his followers that Tex Rickard will referee the fight on July 4.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The one worry of Jack Johnson's mind was dissipated to-day when Frank Sutton of Pittsburg arrived to take charge of the champion's training table. Sutton has served in this capacity before for Johnson, and he will have exclusive charge of the culinary department of the training camp. Johnson was on the road early and covered twelve miles at a rattling clip. His weight at the end of the road work was 218, which seemed to satisfy him. After a game of baseball Johnson laid off for the remainder of the day.

Johnson will probably be in the audience next Friday night when Jeffries boxes in this city. He said: "I don't see why I shouldn't see Jeff box. I have seen him in action before, but seeing him now would give me a pretty good line on his condition."

Resolutions condemning prize fighting as "dangerous, degrading, and demoralizing" were adopted at a meeting of the congregation of the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church last night. An appeal will be made to Gov. Gillett, Mayor McCarthy, and Chief of Police Martin to use their influence to prevent further prizefights in this city.

The Rev. Leslie B. Riggs, pastor of the Bethany Congregational Church, in his sermon last night declared that boxing contests as conducted in England were fair sport, but he denounced the manner in which glove matches are held in California. He said that every effort would be made to stop the Johnson-Jeffries battle.

Attorney J. E. White, representing the city's Church Federation, said yesterday he felt safe in stating the fight would not take place.

BROWN AND GRIFFIN DRAW.

Fight Ten Rounds at Olympic Athletic Club in Knockabout Fashion.

A terrific left swing to the jaw put "Knockout" Brown down flat just before the close of the final ten-round bout at the Olympic Athletic Club last night and gave his opponent, Charley Griffin, the Australian featherweight champion, a draw. Up to that moment any decision that would have been rendered by an equably minded referee must have favored Brown slightly, but Griffin plucked a draw from the jaws of defeat at the very last moment of the go.

It was, as had been expected, a vicious battle throughout, with never a let-up in the fast pace that was set from opening to closing bell. Brown scored heavily in the first four rounds with lefts to the body, and in the sixth session started Griffin's nose bleeding with a hard left swing to the face. Griffin improved from that moment, and set a whirlwind clip to the final gong, with both lads going strong when the bout came to an end. It was announced that each had weighed in under 128 pounds at 6 o'clock.

They did not wait a second to start hostilities in the opening round. They exchanged hard lefts to the head and, Griffin missing cleanly with left and right, Brown put a stinging left to the body. Griffin fought himself out of one of the numerous clinches—in almost all of which Brown did considerable holding—with hard body punches.

From that time on up to almost the close of the bout clinches were frequent and long-sustained, with both lads wrestling and fighting viciously at close range. Neither was particularly clever in measuring speed or distance, and both missed sadly when the blows should have landed and would have done the least good—to the other fellow. It was an interesting enough bout of its kind—but too many of the kind would be more than a surfeit.

"Kid" Albert and "Kid" McDonald fought six rounds to a tame draw in the semi-final.

Boxing Crowd Sees Only Wrestling.

The 800 members of the Marathon Athletic Club who attended the club last night with the expectation of witnessing a boxing entertainment were disappointed, as the club was unable to arrange a card of boxing, but staged a double-header wrestling contest. Young Mundy, the wrestling instructor of the club, volunteered to meet two men in fifteen-minute contests. His first opponent was Jack Kennedy. The latter put up a good exhibition, but was thrown with a half-Nelson hold in 14:33. After a short interval George McCarthy, the wrestling motorman of Brooklyn, faced Mundy. This bout was a hummer from start to finish, and the Brooklyn motorman gave the club instructor all he could do to keep from being thrown himself. The men wrestled a fast fifteen-minute draw, both working hard, with McCarthy puzzling his opponent by his tricky moves.

On June 6 Joe Bedell and Battling Hurley will clash in the star boxing bout of this club for ten rounds.

FREEMAN LEADS GOLFERS.

Makes 78 in Newspaper Tournament Over Fox Hills Course.

W. C. Freeman led the newspaper golfers of the New York Newspaper Golf Club yesterday in the qualifying round of the monthly handicap tournament played over the Fox Hills course. He was scratch man, and turned in a card of 78. This was also the best gross score, H. F. Jones and Freeman both making the same mark. The handicap allotted to Jones was plus 8, and he tied with P. Godfrey, who had a handicap of 40, for second place, the count of each being 81.

Considering the conditions under which the qualifying round was played, the cards of the leaders were considered highly creditable. The total by Jones and Freeman was only two strokes more than that made by Gardner White, who was the leader in the recent Fox Hills invitation tournament, in which Jerome D. Travers and Walter Travis took part.

The course was in excellent condition except for the fact that the rain made the greens rather slow. The summary:

W. C. Freeman, 78, 0—78; P. Godfrey, 121, 40—81; H. F. Jones, 78, 3—81; G. Cooper, 105, 22—83; S. Frankel, 119, 35—84; H. A. Haines, 93, 8—85; J. W. Ferguson, 101, 15—86; C. Bayer, 137, 50—87; K. N. Petrie, 91, 3—88; M. J. Hynes, 104, 16—88; T. A. Dugan, 10, 82—88; J. Hennings, 123, 35—88; A. Murray, 129, 40—89; E. C. Rich, 99, 10—89; P. K. Sprague, 115, 25—90; B. H. Ridder, 90, 0—90; E. C. Knight, 105, 15—90; H. C. Martin, 98, 8—90; J. Rickey, 116, 25—91; T. Vivian, 109, 17—92; W. P. Eaton, 100, 8—92; A. Hodley, 103, 10—93; C. Legendre, 105, 12—93; C. M. Van Slyck, 113, 20—93; G. E. Westcott, 109, 15—94; C. E. T. Scharps, 134, 40—94; R. Wheeler, 116, 22—94; F. L. Hawthorne, 103, 9—94; J. H. Williams, 118, 23—95; R. F. Foster, 109, 12—96; R. S. Durstine, 104, 8—96; A. J. Coleman, 114, 15—99; F. Mahon, 134, 35—99; W. J. McBeth, 140, 40—100; C. S. Lanty, 140, 40—100; M. J. Sullivan, 135, 35—100; F. F. Pope, 132, 30—102; H. G. Daley, 114, 10—104; F. L. O'Connell, 127, 22—105; H. A. Igoe, 145, 35—107; W. J. Taub, 193, 50—143.

Metropolitan Golf To-morrow.

The best amateurs in the district have entered for the twelfth annual championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association, to begin to-morrow at Morris County. Walter J. Travis, the title holder, will be there, and so will his rivals, Jerome D. Travers of Montclair, Fred Herreshoff of Westbrook, and Findlay Douglas of Nassau. As these golfers are all playing in their best form at present, the chances are that the Garden City veteran will be hard pressed before the end of the week.

The total entry exceeds a hundred, and thirty of the sixty-one clubs holding membership in the association are represented. Conditions call for thirty-six holes of medal play to-morrow, and in order to get the unwieldly field around twice it will be necessary to start the first pair at 8 o'clock.

LOANTAKA BACK IN PORT.

Defective Engines Cause Philadelphia to Havana Boat to be Withdrawn.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The Loantaka, which was obliged to withdraw from the Philadelphia to Havana motor boat race after breaking down four times on her way to the sea, came back to port this afternoon.

Defective engines, which had not been properly tested, caused the little craft to abandon the contest, according to the owner, H. S. Peters of Dover, N. J. The Loantaka will be taken back to Trenton, N. J., where she was built, for an overhauling.

The engines had just been installed, it is said, and should have had at least a two weeks' test before the boat was taken out for a long distance run.

The Loantaka was the largest boat of those entered in the race. All went well with the Loantaka until she was off Bombay Hook at 4:54 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Then hot bearings necessitated a stop of eight minutes. At 5:50 o'clock the engines became piston-bound and the Loantaka was delayed three hours. At 10:55 o'clock Saturday night a turn buckle loosened on the steering gear, and again the racer was held up, this time for ten minutes.

Sunday morning at 12:20 o'clock the Loantaka came to a full stop near the Overfalls Lightship, off the Delaware Capes. Again her engines had gone back on her. For twenty-seven hours they were tinkered, and at the end of that time the engineers declared them unseaworthy. Then it was decided to return to port.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE TO TRY OUT FOOTBALL

Games Will Be Canceled if New Rules Prove to be Unsatisfactory.

That all is not gold that glitters in the world of American football—which is to New England universities and colleges, ly decided upon by the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee on May 18 is not going to be taken with that degree of public assurance that has marked its adoption in previous years—was made only too evident yesterday by a statement issued by H. H. Kissam, manager of the Williams College Football Association, in sending out the schedule of his institution's eleven for next Fall.

Mr. Kissam's statement in its entirety is as follows:

Inclosed is the official football schedule for the season of 1910; but the following statement must accompany it:

"Subject to cancellation at any time if it appears that the new rules are not operating satisfactorily."

Sept. 24, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Williamstown; Oct. 1, Union College at Williamstown; Oct. 8, Harvard University at Cambridge; Oct. 15, New York University at New York; Oct. 22, Dartmouth College at Williamstown; Oct. 29, Cornell University at Ithaca; Nov. 5, Wesleyan University at Williamstown; and Nov. 12, Amherst College at Amherst.

During the last annual convention of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association of the United States, of which Capt. Palmer E. Pierce, U. S. A., is President, held in this city on Dec. 29, 1909, Prof. F. W. Nicolson of Wesleyan University, Secretary of the association, and Prof. Paul C. Phillips of Amherst College stated that it had been definitely decided by the Faculties of their respective institutions to await the action of the Rules Committee and the actual working out of the rules before stating finally whether or not football would be permited next Fall at these two schools. The Williams delegate did not make any statement at all on this point.

Prof. Nicolson later gave himself up to the reporters, who wanted to know in detail just what import his remarks were intended to convey. He said that at a conference of the heads of almost all the New England universities and colleges, held in the home of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard—only President Hadley of Yale of the prominent institutions being absent—it had been definitely decided to let the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee finish its labors of rules revision with absolutely no hint of what these New England institutions desired in the way of reform.

The safety of the game was intrusted to the committee, and it was their duty to see that the sport was properly hedged about with security to the physical well-being of participants, Prof. Nicolson said.

Consequently, he added, nothing would be asked of the rulemakers by any of the New England institutions party to the conference at President Lowell's house. When finally the new code was promulgated, Prof. Nicolson continued, its contents would be carefully scanned, and then, if in the opinion of the New England Faculties, the game had been made safe enough for New England college students, it would be permitted.

But this primary scanning of the code was not the only obligation that football was under, so far as injury to participants was concerned. If, after the season got under way, there were any serious accidents to players or any fatality, in even a single instance, to a trained college player, wherever it occurred, then the game would be formally proscribed and banned, and New England institutions would not permit their students to dally longer with it, Prof. Nicolson continued.

Asked the point blank question, "Football is, then, on trial for its life, so far as your New England colleges are concerned?" Prof. Nicolson replied:

"That is exactly it. We, the Faculty members, are standing aside now to let what will happen with regard to rule changes."

POLO ON WET FIELD.

Port Chester Defeats Squadron A in First Game of Cup Series.

Port Chester defeated Squadron A at polo yesterday at Van Cortlandt Park by a score of 11½ goals to 7 in the first game of the series for the Squadron A cups. The contest was played in a constant drizzle, which left the footing very bad for the ponies and made really hard riding and playing almost impossible.

The Squadron A four really never had a chance to win, for their team work was very ragged, whereas the Port Chester team seemed able to get together and stay there whenever the troopers were at all dangerous. As a matter of fact the four men who played for Port Chester were all members of the Squadron, too, so that the crack cavalry organization did not emerge from the contest without some glory after all.

The playing of the two Hunt brothers for Port Chester was noticeably good, but individual honors in the game easily went to P. Boyer, back of the Port Chester aggregation. His supporting work was excellent and his shots accurate and hard hit.

Owing to the rain and the late hour at which the game was started yesterday there was almost no gallery at all. To-day's contest, which is between the Rumson Polo Club and Cooperstown, will be started promptly at 4 o'clock, rain or shine, and a big crowd is expected to witness it. The line-up:

PORT CHESTER. Pos.	H'c'p.	SQUADRON A. Pos.	H'c'p.

CLOSE SCORE IN AUTO RUN.

Long Island A. C. Defeats Crescent A. C. by Average of 22-3 Points.

The Long Island Automobile Club will retain possession of the Pardington Trophy for one year. The Point Committee of the two days' reliability team match between the Long Island Automobile Club and the Crescent Athletic Club yesterday announced the official score, which was in favor of the Long Island organization by an average score of 9 to 11 2-3 points of penalization. The victory by the narrow margin of 2 2-3 points shows how close the contest was.

That thirty cars in a run of close to 250 miles should have incurred so small an average penalization under rules so strict that lifting a bonnet or, even taking in fuel, cost 25 points, is a remarkable tribute to the reliability of American cars. The run will be repeated next year.

Big Dog Show for Mineola.

The eighth annual bench show of the Ladies' Kennel Association of America, which will be held on the Mineola Fair Grounds June 1 and 2, will be the second largest show held in this country, as 862 dogs will be benched, making 1,737 entries in the various classes. The apportionment follows:

Bloodhounds, 8; St. Bernards, 17; Great Danes, 13; Russian wolfhounds, 32; Irish wolfhounds, 6; deerhounds, 9; greyhounds, 10; Eskimos, 3; foxhounds, 30; pointers, 32; setters, 39; retrievers, 3; sporting spaniels, 107; beagles, 69; dachshunds, 13; whippets, 2; collies, 78; old English sheepdogs, 12; poodles, 52; chow-chows, 64; Dalmatians, 54; bulldogs, 77; Airedale terriers, 85; bull terriers, 54; French bull dogs, 62; Boston terriers, 85; fox terriers, 50; Irish terriers, 62; Scotch terriers, 64; West Highland white terriers, 39; Welsh terriers, 47; Dandy Dinmont terriers, 13; black and tan (Manchester) terriers, 2; Schipperkes, 26; Pomeranians, 72; English toy spaniels, 46; Japanese, 10; Pekingese, 51; pugs, 3; toy poodles, 3; Yorkshire terriers, 2; Maltese terriers, 7; toy black and tan terriers, 2; Chihuahuas, 3; Italian greyhounds, 12; miscellaneous, 7; variety classes, 180.

Friday Is Lewis's Lucky Day.

Willie Lewis is to fight Stanley Ketchel at the National Sporting Club next Friday night. He thinks he will outpoint Ketchel, if for no other reason than that the bout is to be decided on a Friday. "That's my lucky day," said Willie. "All my important battles in the ring have been won on a Friday. I beat Martin Canole on a Friday, and then came here while boxing was open after the old Horton law days, and won a six-round bout over Joe Gans in Madison Square Garden. My next important fight on a Friday was with Jack O'Keefe, and I took him into camp, and last year stopped both Sailor Burke and Honey Mellody on a Friday.

Six Teams in Intercollegiate Shoot.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Six colleges—Yale, Harvard, Columbia, University of Pennsylvania, George Washington, and Massachusetts Agricultural College—already have signified their intention of sending rifle teams to compete in the intercollegiate rifle match to be held here June 18 under the auspices of the National Rifl Association. Among the members of the Yale Rifle team is a Chinese student and a son of Secretary of War Dickinson. This will be the fifth meet; the team winning the cup oftenest out of twelve meets will retain it permanently. The cup has been won once by Princeton, once by Columbia, and twice by George Washington University.

Fighters Break Down Ring Ropes.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., May 23.—The scheduled ten-round bout between Bill Hurley of this city and Dixie Kid of New York and California here to-day was stopped by the police in the eighth round because of the rough tactics indulged in by both fighters. Hurley was inclined to rough it throughout, and although he received several stiff blows from the negro boy, one of which left an inch-long gash over his right eye, he was strong at the finish. During the mix-up both men were hurled among the spectators four different times, and when the end came only two ringposts were left standing. Hurley was aggressive all the way, but it was Dixie Kid's fight.

Kilpatrick in Elihu Club.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 23.—It was announced to-night that John R. Kilpatrick, '11, of New York City has been elected a member of the Elihu Club of Yale University. Kilpatrick is prospective captain of the 1911 track team and All-American football end. His failure to get an election on tap day to any of the three senior societies caused much comment.

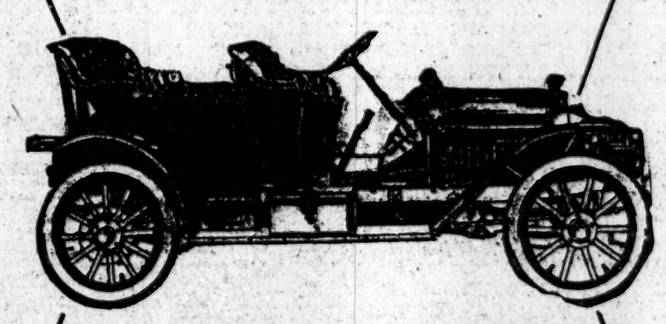
Do You Love the Music of a Sweet Sounding Motor—Buy a MORA

When the idea was conceived to build a motor car and call it the "MORA LIGHT FOUR"—one basic principle was decided upon—not to see how many Mora "Light Fours" could be built—but to build just as many as could be Mechanically Right in every way and, consequently, guaranteed as Strenuously Reliable.

Now, as a matter of fact, the Mora factory is larger by a good deal than many factories building three and four times as many cars as Mora builds.

But to build Mora cars requires special machinery—for every individual part is a Mora part; the design is a Mora design. What goes into a Mora, doesn't go into any other car. In short, it is not an assembled proposition—for which fifty or more "makers of parts" drop their responsibility when you make your purchase.



Mora "Light Four" Tourer is $2,500

It is a big roomy five-passenger proposition—with 34 by 4-inch wheels all around. Entire power plant is protected by an aluminum base (no noisy pan to rattle) which is a distinct Mora feature. Cylinders are 4 1-2 inch bore with 5 1-8 inch stroke—there's no place you may wish to go that a Mora won't take you.

There's nothing to listen to when driving—except the sweet and constant hum of a motor that "motes" under all conditions—and never fails. Your trips—short and long—are unalloyed pleasure rides, for there are no irksome details to look after every few minutes—the Mora runs and keeps running—day in and day out, if you desire it to.

A Catalogue and full details for the asking—all of which is well worth having—if you're a bit interested in a proposition that gives you all you can get for $4,000 or $5,000—at almost half that.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 23.—The Giants were splendidly arrayed in their batting habersdashery here to-day, and pounded three Pirate flingers in old-time style for a 7-to-1 victory. Phillippe got the brunt of the opening attack. Then the heavy artillery got after Camnitz, and Webb finished the game. Seymour carried off the day's batting honors, with three hits, one a three-bagger. Larry Doyle also hit for three sacks, and Mathewson was well up with the head-liners in the batting outburst. One of Matty's cracks was for two bases, and his single also came at an opportune time.

Wiltse started to pitch for New York, and was doing well when he was hit by a pitched ball in the fourth inning on the left arm. The bruise was very painful, and Wiltse had to retire, Mathewson taking up the tossing. Wiltse will be unable to pitch again for two weeks at least. Like Wiltse before him, Matty kept the Pirate hits scattered, where they would do little damage. Tommy Leach was stricken with a violent attack of oratory in the fifth, when Umpire Hank O'Day called Camnitz out at the plate. There happened to be only one side to this argument, and Leach was exiled from the game.

Jack Murray with two down in the first, walked and went down to second on Flynn's bad "peg." Seymour's hit scored him. Devlin singled in the second, and Merkle sacrificed. Meyers ripped off a single, sending Devlin to third. Wiltse singled to right, scoring Devlin. Devore sent a grasser to Miller, and Meyers died at the plate.

The Pirates got their one lonesome tally in the second. Hans Wagner jarred the leather with anarchistic fury and waddled around as far as third base on it. If the ball had been a foot higher it would have gone over the stockade and lost forevermore. Wagner scored on Flynn's sacrifice fly to centre.

The Giants got another in the third. Camnitz took Phillippe's place on the mound, and Murray died when Wagner was quick in transferring his grounder to Flynn. Seymour gave Camnitz a hearty welcome by pounding the ball into deep right field for three bases. Bridwell walked, and while he was being forced at second after Devlin's grounder, Seymour scored.

In the seventh, Matty singled to centre, and Devore fouled to Byrne. Doyle whacked the ball to the jungles of right field for three bases, scoring Matty. Murray pumped a sacrifice fly into centre, and Doyle scored. The Giants kept right after Camnitz in the eighth. Bridwell singled to centre, Devlin was hit by a pitched ball. Merkle sacrificed, sending Bridwell to third. He scored on Meyers's sacrifice fly, and Devlin took third, scoring on Matty's double to centre.

Doves Tie Score, but Reds Win Finally

CINCINNATI, May 23.—Boston hit Gaspar hard in the ninth inning and tied the score, but Cincinnati bunched hits on Frock in its half and won, 6 to 5. Paskert stole second, third, and home in the first inning. The score:

Newark Wins in First Inning.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, May 23.—Newark scored enough runs in the first inning to defeat Montreal, counting four runs, twice as many as the locals got in the entire game. Siever was pounded hard, four hits being amassed in the opening round, which was as far as Siever got. Then Jones took up the task, and lasted until the end of the third inning, in which Newark scored her last two runs. Winter finished the game. Mueller pitched the full game for Newark and held Montreal to five scattered hits. The score:

Woodmere Country Club Opening.

The opening reception of the Woodmere Country Club will take place on the afternoon and evening of next Saturday. The newly elected officers are: George De Lacy, President; Watson Vredenburgh, Vice President; Clarence G. Galston, Treasurer; D. Edward McAvoy, Secretary.

The Board of Governors includes: William B. Bryant, John House Burton, George De Lacy, James Frank, Clarence G. Galston, Frederic Gurney, D. E. McAvoy, Maximilian Morgenthau, and Watson Vredenburgh.

The new clubhouse is located in the centre of Woodmere, near the railroad station, and within easy access of all sections of the town. On the campus in front of the house nine clay tennis courts have been worked into excellent condition in preparation for the first tournament, to be played on the afternoon of the opening day. Application for membership in the National Association has been made, and the club expects to hold tournaments at regular intervals throughout the season. Upon completion of the dredging operations now under way in Woodmere Bay, the club will acquire frontage and erect a waterside casino and boathouse.

Several members of the club have recently purchased high-powered motor boats, so that motor boating will be one of the principal features of the organization.

WHITE SOX WIN LONG BATTLE IN BOSTON

Pitcher Hall Weakens in Fifteenth Inning and Chicago Scores Winning Run.

BOSTON, May 23.—Chicago defeated Boston 4 to 3 this afternoon in fifteen innings, when Walsh's single in the final session sent Tannehill scampering home with the winning run. Sharp fielding by both teams and the excellent work of the pitchers kept the score down. Hall weakened in the fifteenth inning, while Walsh appeared stronger than ever. Speaker's single, a wild pitch, Wagner's scratch hit, and Gardner's grounder allowed Speaker to score the tying run in the ninth for Boston. The score:

BREAK IN WHEAT PRICES

Fall in May Option in Chicago Without Influence on Professional Stock Market—Exchange Up Here.

The failure of yesterday's stock market to respond to the very sharp declines in wheat in Chicago and the recessions in cotton on the local Cotton Exchange was fairly satisfactory evidence of the purely professional trading which is at the moment dictating the course of securities. Apparently the advances which occurred in stocks in the closing days of last week provoked both profit taking and short selling yesterday. The movements of Reading betrayed plainly speculatinve forces which were at work on a smaller scale in other parts of the list. This stock, which is in relatively scanty supply, and which to all appearances is passing out of the market steadily in connection with plans best known to those in control of the property was, nevertheless, sold openly and fearlessly yesterday, and closed at a loss of nearly 2 points. The other side of the picture is presented in the sharp rise of Missouri Pacific, a stock which has undoubtedly attracted a substantial short interest, owing to the high price at which it stands in comparison with other non-dividend-paying shares. Late in the day some uneasiness was created in financial circles by the unexpected announcement of the appointment of receivers for the Chicago City Railways Company, a concern which lately passed through a reorganization. Explanation of this move allayed apprehensions, however, for it appears that it was the result of a court decision holding the railways company accountable for certain bonds of the Consolidated Traction Company, provision for which was not made in the recent reorganization plan. This makes the receivership a more or less technical matter, especially so since it is understood that aside from the responsibility placed upon the railways company by the decision in question its finances are in excellent shape. News of the receivership, however, contributed to the heaviness of the list in the final dealings which were in practically all cases at substantial recessions as compared with Saturday's close. The really important developments of the day were the declines in wheat and cotton already mentioned. Wheat prices were at most off from 4 cents for May to 1 cent for December in Chicago, while cotton here after advancing 10 points or more beyond Saturday's last prices lost all this gain and from 5 to 10 points more before the end of the day. Selling in both cases was obviously due to the uniformly excellent reports from agricultural sections of the country, which have now had nearly ten days of practically ideal growing weather.

Attention was fixed upon the London money situation by a sharp upturn in interest rates there and the rise in sterling at Paris. This advance in London exchange was reported as due in part to the recent purchase of American securities in France, but whatever its cause its results are very likely to include shipments of gold to London from Paris. Much of the hardening of money in the English capital has been due to the tax collections which should soon be out of the way if the strain itself is not relieved by receipts of gold before this happens. Exchange rates here were also higher, reflecting the noteworthy ease of money conditions as exhibited in Saturday's bank return.

Imagination vs. Logic.

If some one in search of amusement were to offer a prize in Wall Street for the display of the maximum ingenuity in creating explanations for the behavior of the stock market or in originating factors upon which prices might be supposed to turn in the future, the results could hardly be more startling than the daily grist of "reasons" now put out without any such stimulus. Logic is always at a discount in market comment in speculative circles; imagination commands the premium. Sometimes the course of one of these imaginative explanations leads to an impasse, but this never embarrasses the philosopher concerned; he simply hands the problem over to you to do with as you please; for his part, he is quite satisfied to have brought you so far and so pleasantly. This was illustrated yesterday in a suggested "reason" for the strength of Baltimore & Ohio in recent markets. It was ascribed to the prospective receipt by the Baltimore & Ohio of benefits in some supposititious distribution which Reading is to make. The stone wall came in the shape of a very substantial decline in Reading itself and in real heaviness in New York Central, although through Lake Shore the Central controls about as much Reading as does the Baltimore & Ohio. At this point, therefore, one receives the problem, and can either retrace his steps or do some imagining on his own account.

The Roosevelt ian Theory.

So far as soothsayings and prophecies are concerned, these, as a rule, are no whit less interesting and surprising than the daily market explanations. One prediction, in which it must be confessed a good part of Wall Street participates, revolves the stock markets of the immediate future around Theodore Roosevelt. As one Stock Exchange house put it in its market letter yesterday, after stating that the three factors now having free play in the market are the crops, the political situation, and the attitude of Mr. Roosevelt on those phases of politics of interest to Wall Street: "If Mr. Roosevelt should indorse the Taft Administration and advise the people to approve of it, the political outlook, in our opinion, would be much improved; and if Mr. Roosevelt should adopt merely a policy of non-interference, that would, we believe, be favorable in a speculative sense. However, there is no telling just now what course Mr. Roosevelt will pursue." This last sentence is so profound as to justify the suspicion that it was written after a heart-to-heart talk with Mr. Taft.

St. Paul Loan Near Conclusion.

Although no formal announcement of the conclusion in Paris of the negotiations for the placing there of the proposed new St. Paul bond issue was made yesterday, the understanding in the financial district was that the sale of the bonds may be formally announced very soon. The transaction was closed in broad outline some time ago, but details have been in process of adjustment, or rather of being attended to in keeping with the requirements of the French market, and it is the carrying out of these details which has necessitated the delay in the formal announcement. The issue is to be $50,000,000 of debentures. Report has it that the sale will take the form of an outright sale of $30,000,000 of the bonds to the Paris bankers, with an option on the remaining $20,000,000, which may also be taken by the same bankers.

Lehigh Valley Stock Issue.

A representative of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company said yesterday that at the rate proxies for the meeting to authorize the new stock issue were coming in the vote will be practically unanimous. The new stock is to be offered to stockholders at par to the extent of 50 per cent. of their holdings. The proceeds, amounting to $20,167,400, will be used for the retirement of $6,000,000 second mortgage 7 per cent. bonds and other obligations for construction and "future needs."

***

May Cotton Dying Softly.

Very little cotton was delivered yesterday on May contracts, and brokers who are handling the bulk of the bull accounts say that there remains only a small amount yet to be delivered on the two settlement days that remain in the month on the May contracts, which a short time ago it was feared would cause a disastrous corner. Notwithstanding the heavy losses in New York, due to fraudulent bills of lading issued by certain Southern sellers of cotton, the largest bull campaign that this market has probably ever seen has been without fatalities so far, and the critical month is about over.

***

Brokers Won't Play Ball.

The Boston and New York Stock Exchanges will not meet on the baseball diamond this year, following custom, and hence there will be no annual love feast. When the announcement was made that there would be no game it was said that the men who usually play ball "couldn't spare the time." There is another reason. The last few months of stagnation in the copper stock market has filled the Boston Exchange with gloom, and here likewise there has been little going on lately to turn brokers' thoughts to hilarity, baseball, and dinners. Seats are selling down toward the low levels of 1908.

U. S. REALTY CO.'S REPORT.

Gross Earnings for the Year Ended April 30 Were $4,143,975.

The annual report of the United States Realty and Improvement Company for the year ended April 30 shows gross earnings of $4,143,975, of which $1,405,461 was from building contracts, $2,216,268 from investments and sales of real estate, and $522,245 "from accumulated earnings of subsidiary companies not heretofore taken into account."

After charging interest, expenses of unproductive real estate, depreciation and expenses, net earnings were shown totaling $2,729,445. Interest on debenture bonds amounted to $842,800, and dividends to $767,733, leaving a net addition to surplus of $1,318,912. The surplus of the company at the beginning of the fiscal year was $3,409,274, and with the increase for the year was brought to $4,728,187. In this connection the report states:

"If the amount of the unrealized profits had been added, the surplus on April 30 would have been $5,764,901. The Directors, however, decided to apply a portion of the unrealized profits and a part of the surplus to the reduction of the good will carried on last year's statement at $5,934,181. As a result the item of good will is now carried at only $1,000,000, and there still remains a surplus of earnings amounting to $878,187."

In addition to this reduction in the good will item the company applied funds during the year to the purchase and cancellation of $1,284,000 par value of its debenture bonds, reducing the amount outstanding to $12,000,000 and effecting an annual saving of $64,200 in interest. The report states that the return from investments was sufficient to meet all fixed charges without resorting to profits from the construction and real estate operating departments. In commenting on the construction department's operation it is said:

"While the construction work shows a falling off in the East there is a very considerable revival in the Middle and Western States."

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 23.—Money was dearer to-day; the income taxe collection seemed to impoverish the market and necessitate borrowing from the Bank of England. Discounts were firmer.

Russia and India obtained most of the £500,000 gold available.

The stock market was active and firm under the lead of investment securities Consols rose 7-16, on prospects of gold imports from France, owing to the rise in the Paris Cheque. Home rails, Mexican rails, and India stocks improved ½ to 1 point. Paris bought some favorites, and this helped the cheerfulness, but speculative issues eased off in the afternoon, on realizations prior to the settlement.

American securities opened ⅛ to ¼ higher, on the good American bank statement, but eased off on realizing. During the afternoon the market showed some hesitation, but later developed weakness, under New York offerings, and closed easy.

Bar silver steady at 24 13-16d per ounce.

Money, 3¾@4 per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 3⅞ per cent.; for three months' bills, 3¾@3⅞ per cent.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Breaks Heavily on Cables and Good Weather—Corn and Oats Decline—Cotton Unsettled.

There was a heavy trade in wheat and a very weak market. The influences against values were cables, the weather news, and the developments of financial complications at Albany. There was a good deal of selling of wheat on Saturday, which it was stated was on Albany account, and a great deal of stuff was evened up before it was generally known that there was any trouble. The foreign markets were decidedly weak over Sunday and showed pronounced decline, owing to heavy pressure of Australian, Argentine, and Russian wheat, and further favorable crop news. The influence of the weakness abroad was quite pronounced. Liverpool July wheat was quoted equal to about 95c a bushel over there, and, as it costs about 15c a bushel to lay wheat down from Chicago to Liverpool, it is readily evident how much out of line European markets are for any export business in American wheat. The weather conditions were favorable over Sunday. There were further general rains through the Winter wheat States and in the Canadian Northwest. Temperatures were fairly seasonable in the Winter wheat districts and somewhat warmer in the Northwest. Chicago May wheat was decidedly weak, breaking 4c a bushel, accompanied by reports that deliveries on that contract would be about 4,500,000 bushels in all. Later part of this decline was recovered. The visible supply showed a decrease of 842,000 bushels in America, but, including Canada, the net decrease was only 93,000 bushels. Last week the decrease in United States was 1,712,000 bushels, and last year the decrease was 1,740,000 bushels. Cash wheat quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.11, nominal; No. 2 red spot, nominal, $1.15, free on board, afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.16½, nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, nominal, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.01¼.

Corn was fairly active and very steady during the morning. There was some little buying on the complaints of too much rain in the Central West for the completion of planting, and it was stated that there was considerable buying supposed to be for Albany in the evening up of trades. Later this buying was satisfied, and prices developed considerable weakness, partially influenced by the afternoon decline in wheat. The visible supply showed a decrease of 1,239,000 bushels. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, 67¼c, nominal, elevator, domestic basis, and steamer, nominal, elevator export basis.

The movement in the oats market was somewhat smaller, with the fluctuations of corn. Early prices were very steady, but later there was a good deal of pressure on favorable crop and weather reports. The market showed heaviness during the afternoon. The visible supply showed an increase of 140,000 bushels. Cash

COTTON.

The market was irregular, with a good deal of buying during the morning. After midday the market was weak, with a prominent Wall Street house selling the July freely. The early advance was very largely due to further reports regarding the shipment of cotton to Liverpool, additional rumors of freight engagements, and Southern advices claiming that there was too much rain now through the Central States and that the recent local storms in Texas had caused damage over some small areas. The maximum estimate of damage was placed at 250,000 bales, but this was scattered, and not entirely on the cotton crop. The morning demand was satisfied before midday, and when early buyers tried to sell there was very little stuff wanted, and a Wall Street house was a heavy seller of July. This selling encouraged local traders to hammer the market. The May delivery was relatively very firm all the session. The receipts continue to be large, and the stocks are being maintained, notwithstanding the amount of cotton which is being shipped out. The market late was rather irregular. Deliveries on contract were 1,900 bales, making the total this month 274,000 bales. This at the present value of middling cotton would be equal to $21,000,000. Sales for the day were 6,056 bales, and so far this month 55,724 bales. Deliveries for the entire month are expected to exceed 300,000 bales.

Southern spot markets unchanged to ⅛c advance. New York spot cotton quiet, unchanged. Middling upland, 15.40c; middling Gulf, 15.65c.

COFFEE.

Coffee was very narrow, with prices easily influenced either way. At the opening the tone was steady, with June 5 points higher, and other positions unchanged to 2 points advance, but late in the day a somewhat easier feeling prevailed, and final prices were at 3 points advance to 5 points decline, with total sales amounting to 4,750 bags. The European markets were steady, Havre being 1¼f higher, and Hamburg unchanged to ½ pfennig advance. The Brazilian markets were unchanged, and Rio private exchange on London was 1-16d lower, at 15 15-16d. Receipts at Rio and Santos so far this season are 14,456,000 bags, against 11,799,000 last year and 9,790,000 two years ago. It is apparent that the crop is turning out fully as large as expected, or about 15,000,000 bags. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 67,533 bags, against 51,476 bags the previous week and 50,539 last year. The total visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States is 3,044,634 bags, against 3,513,749 bags last year and 3,495,828 bags two years ago. In the spot position the assortment of Santos coffees is becoming poor and prices for the desirable grades are firmly held, while Rio was in poor demand and prices were barely steady, 8¼c for Rio No. 7.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Shuberts Lease Sixth Ave. and 41st Street—Harlem Apartment in $500,000 Deal—Private Dwelling Market Active—Bronx and Suburban Sales.

The Shuberts have leased for a term of sixty-three years from Elbridge T. Gerry a plot, 100 by 125 feet, at the southwest corner of Sixth Avenue and Forty-first Street. They will probably erect a theatre and office building. Further details will be found in another column.

Apartment House in $500,000 Trade.

One of the most important transactions in the realty market yesterday was an exchange of investment properties involving about $500,000 and affecting a Broadway business building and the Hudson Grant View apartment house, at 122d Street and Claremont Avenue.

The former property, a five-story store and loft building, occupying a plot 25 by 200, at 449 Broadway, extending through the block to 26 Mercer Street, was sold by the Mannados Realty Company, (S. H. Stone) to O. D. Gray, President of the Gray Lithographing Company.

This property is between Howard and Grand Streets, and was taken in part payment for the Hudson-Grant View apartment, a six-story elevator structure covering a plot 100 by 100, at 122 to 128 Claremont Avenue, 100 feet north of 122d Street, and facing Grant's Tomb. Mr. Gray purchased this property a year ago from the builders, who then held it at a value of $265,000.

Deals in the Loft Zone.

K. Bunnell and others have sold 275 Seventh Avenue, southwest corner of Twenty-sixth Street, three and four story buildings, on lot 24.8 by 100.

N. Weiner has sold 209 West Twentieth Street, a three-story building, on lot 25 by 81.9, to L. J. Kershover, who owns 207 adjoining, and now controls a plot 50 by 83.

Wessex Realty Co. Increases Holdings.

The Wessex Realty Company, represented by J. W. Ehrich, has purchased through De Casanova & Co. 284, 286, and 288 West Forty-eighth Street, three three-story and basement dwellings, on a plot 59 by 98.9. The sellers were Jennie E. McClelland, Susan Laydecker, and George Wallace, respectively. S. G. Goodale & Son were associated as brokers in the sale of 284, and Hulbert Peck & Son in that of 286.

The Wessex Realty Company has also bought through De Casanova & Co. 248 West Thirty-ninth Street, a three-story building, on lot 20.6 by 98.9.

Active Private Dwelling Market.

Dr. Lewis A. Conner has bought from Mrs. J. West Roosevelt 119 and 121 East Sixty-second Street, two three-story and basement dwellings, on lots 16 by 68.9 and 16 by 70.6. Dr. Conner recently sold his residence at 53 East Forty-ninth Street to the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company. Frederick Southack and Alwyn Ball, Jr., negotiated the sale.

Dr. Ellwood Harlow has sold 13 East Seventy-seventh Street, a four-story dwelling, on lot 16.8 by 102.2.

The Frank L. Fisher Company has sold for Austin Slauson of Kingston, N. Y., the three-story and basement private house 238 West Seventy-fifth Street, on lot 24 by 102.2. Notes.

Long Beach
The GEM of America's Sea Side Resorts

LONG BEACH is a gem because it is rare.

NO other ocean beach front equals it in desirability for a great national watering place.

It combines these prime requisites: Ideal natural and climatic conditions, a very high class development and unexcelled transportation facilities.

LONG BEACH is a gem because it is clean.

THE keynote of the whole proposition is the high plane upon which it is conducted. Because of stringent restrictions upon buildings, amusements, enterprises, etc., LONG BEACH will never be a Coney Island or a Rockaway, but rather a bigger, better, cleaner, Atlantic City.

LONG BEACH is a gem because it is valuable.

NO better real estate investment exists for the average person than LONG BEACH property. There is such a combination of the necessary factors at LONG BEACH that it is bound to grow enormously in value.

See LONG BEACH and you will understand why more than $7,000,000 worth of land has been sold there to investors in the past three years.

We will furnish you free tickets to LONG BEACH without placing you under any obligation whatever.

FLATBUSH MURDER MYSTIFIES POLICE

They Find Not a Clue to the Slayers of the Unidentified Italian.

MAY HAVE BEEN REVENGE

Detectives Think the Victim Perhaps Was Waylaid by Friends of the Lupo Gang.

The police found not a clue yesterday to the murder of the Italian whose body was found late Sunday afternoon in the depths of the Paedergat woods, on the outskirts of Flatbush, with nineteen stab wounds in his body, his nose slashed off, and his countenance rendered almost unrecognizable by numerous cuts from forehead to chin.

Although three of the murdered man's fellow-countrymen have been arrested no one has come forward to identify the dead man, and until he is identified the police are handicapped in their efforts to run down his slayers.

That more than one man had a hand in the killing of the Italian is likely, for in the soft ground where the body lay are the footprints of at least two men wearing different sized shoes. And that the murder was committed on or near the desolate spot where the body was found seems assured, in spite of the fact that the murdered man's shoes have not been found. They were apparently taken away by the murderers, possibly with the idea of making identification more difficult.

The police believe that the slashes on the dead man's face, as well as the slits in his ears, were made in an effort to make identification extremely difficult. And in this the murderers were successful up to date, for in spite of the dozens of Italians who called yesterday at the Brooklyn Morgue to view the body not one was able to recognize in the dead man an acquaintance.

Many are the theories advanced by the police and detectives who are trying to solve the mystery. One is that the Italian was lured to the Paedergat woods and slain by members of the Lupo gang of Sicilians in revenge for information he may have given to the Federal authorities while they were working up the case against Lupo and his fellow-counterfeiters, which resulted in their being sent for long terms to the Federal prison at Atlanta.

It was on the strength of this theory that two Italians were arrested yesterday in Newark. Soon after the body was found, the detectives of the Brooklyn Italian Squad under Lieut. Antonio Vachris looked up the names and addresses of some of the close friends of Lupo and his confederates. In this list were James Adeso and Nicolo Tauso of Newark. The police of that city were requested to arrest the two men on suspicion.

Detectives reached the home of Adeso and Tauso, in Lombard Street, Newark, about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The Italians were not at home. The detectives waited an hour and a half, and when they appeared in front of the house ordered them to stop. Tauso drew a stiletto and ran at one of the detectives, but was disarmed. Both prisoners were held for extradition.

The third man under arrest is Giovanni Ciparelli, a laborer employed by Ludwig Batt, a contractor, at South Orange. Ciparelli was arrested at the edge of the Paedergat woods about an hour after the body of the unidentified Italian was found. In his pocket was a revolver with two shells recently exploded. When first accosted by Lieut. Vachris, the man said he lived in Flatbush and was only out for a stroll, but later admitted that he had been employed by Contractor Batt on an excavation at Maplewood, near the outskirts of South Orange.

He was held yesterday afternoon in $2,500 bail by Magistrate Higginbotham in the Flatbush Court on a technical charge of carrying concealed weapons.

While no bullet wounds were found on the body of the murdered man, two shots were heard in the Paedergat woods about an hour before the body was found. The police say that some of the slashes on the dead man's body may have been made to cover traces of bullet wounds, and that the post-mortem examination may disclose that the Italian was shot as well as stabbed.

A razor was used in severing the dead man's nose, the police say. A small piece of blade was found imbedded in the bone at the top of the nose. The only weapon found near the body was a long butcher's knife ground down to a thin stilettolike blade.

In addition to the revolver found in Ciparelli's pockets, the detectives discovered two tickets on the Pennsylvania Railroad calling for passage from New York to Newark. One was dated May 12 and the other May 22.

One of the theories entertained by the detectives is that the murdered man may have come from the West and was on his way back to Italy with a considerable sum of money. His hat, which was found yesterday near the spot where the body lay, was marked "Fashion Store, Sioux City, Iowa." There were no other marks on his clothing which could be useful in identification.

In examining the body of the murdered man the detectives and Coroner Rooney found an old scar on the man's left cheek. It ran from the lip to the lower jaw. There was another old scar on his forehead, and on his left ankle there was a scar about as big as a half dollar, which appeared to be the mark of an old burn.

The police description of the murdered man says he was apparently about 30 years old, 5 feet 6 inches in height, weighed about 170 pounds, and had a rather sallow complexion, dark wavy hair and thin sandy mustache. He wore a black sack suit, striped shirt, purple socks, and light-brown hat.

Another murder similar in many respects to that of Sunday was committed in the Paedergat woods about two years ago, and the Brooklyn police are wondering if the same men had a hand in both. Late in the evening of Feb. 20, 1908, the body of Salvatore Marchione was found about 100 yards away from the spot where the mutilated body was found on Sunday. Marchione's body was pierced with many stab wounds, his face was badly mutilated, and his nose was cut off and carried away, just as was that of the man done to death on Sunday. Four arrests were made after the finding of Marchione's body, but none of the prisoners was convicted.

MRS. DOXEY ON TRIAL.

Woman Charged with Poisoning Inspires the Sympathy of Talesmen.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 23.—Sympathy for women on the part of talesmen was responsible to-day for some delay in the selection of a jury to try Mrs. Dora E. Doxey for the alleged poisoning of William J. Erder, a postal clerk.

Mrs. Doxey and her husband, Dr. Loren B. Doxey, are under indictment on the charge of causing the death of Erder, whom, it is alleged, Mrs. Doxey married a few weeks before his death, while yet the wife of the doctor. Twenty-two members of the panel of forty-seven, from which the jury will be chosen, have been accepted by both the State and the defense. Mrs. Doxey will first be tried by election of the State.

It is charged that Mrs. Doxey poisoned Erder with arsenic. Erder died in convulsions on July 10, last year, and shortly after, it is charged, Mrs. Doxey sent Erder's furniture to the Doxey home in Columbus, Neb. Mrs. Doxey collected Erder's life insurance.

Mrs. Doxey admits she married Erder while she was the wife of Doxey. She says she was not responsible for her acts, as she was under the influence of morphine, which her husband sent her. Since she has been in jail here she has been cured of the drug habit.

The Coroner's jury returned a verdict that Doxey had a "guilty knowledge" of Erder's death. Last December the Grand Jury returned indictments. The defense will claim that Erder took patent medicines. Mrs. Doxey has announced she will not live with her husband again.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 23.—Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond of Cambridge was placed on trial for her life to-day in the Middlesex County Superior Court. The indictment charges Mrs. Richmond with the murder of Stewart McTavish, a boarder, who was found with his head crushed July 23, 1908, in a lit[illegible] room in the Hotel Florence [illegible] owned by Mrs. Richmond. The police stated at the time that Mrs. Richmond, who is a woman unusually large and strong, became involved in a quarrel with McTavish, shot him, and then beat in his head.

THREAT AGAINST KLATZKO.

Witness Says Actor Goldberg Vowed He Would Shoot Him.

Small headway was made yesterday in the defense of Herman Klatzko, the Russian of distinguished bearing on trial in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court for the murder of Lizzie Shapiro, a favorite in an east-side theatre. Mrs. Shapiro's affections were centred on a fellow-member of her profession, Max Goldberg, and the two were shot down in the dark hallway of her home, 107 Forsyth Street, on Dec. 15.

Lawyer Goldfogle promised the jury that the defense would prove threats from Goldberg, which finally ended in a struggle between the two, during which the Shapiro woman was accidentally killed. Some witnesses then took the stand to tell how often they had heard "Crazy" Max swear vengeance against "Count" Klatzko.

Isaac Hillner, a Broome Street grocer, said that on the night of the killing he was walking behind Goldberg and the woman, when he heard her say:

"I am afraid he's following us to-night."

"Don't be afraid," was the answer. "If he follows us I will shoot him."

The defense then halted for a conference in Justice Fitzgerald's chambers, where the District Attorney would accept no plea less than murder in the second degree, and where the defense would not offer more than manslaughter. No agreement was reached, and an adjournment was taken on Lawyer Goldfogle's representation that his witnesses seemed to have disappeared.

The court room was crowded with east-side friends of Klatzko and of the murdered players, and feeling ran high between them.

JACOBS'S SLAYER SENTENCED.

Widow of "Shorty" Mansfield's Victim Overcome in the Courtroom.

Joseph, alias "Shorty," Mansfield, one-time gambler, having pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree, was sentenced by Judge O'Sullivan in General Sessions yesterday to not less than ten nor more than twenty years in prison. On March 22, embittered through his failure to borrow money, he shot and killed Henry Jacobs, a bookmaker, in a West 116th Street café.

As sentence was pronounced a despairing cry was heard from the rear of the courtroom, where the widow of the murdered man struggled to her feet in a state of hysteria and had to be helped from the room.

FOWLER ATTACKS KEAN.

Jersey Congressman Calls Him a "Political Poodle Dog."

Congressman Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey, the only insurgent Republican from Jersey in the House of Representatives, came out with a 7,000-word statement yesterday, most of which was an attack on United States Senator John Kean, also of New Jersey. Congressman Fowler, among other things, called the Senator a "subservient, truculent, literal cuckoo" and a "political poodle dog," and charged that he is preparing to purchase his re-election to the Senate.

Congressman Fowler, who has served seven terms at Washington, is a candidate for re-election. He is opposed by Senator Kean and by State Treasurer Daniel S. Vorhees, the Republican boss in his Congressional district. Hence the attack on Senator Kean. Congressman Fowler also paid his respects to Boss Vorhees in his 7,000-word statement.

"Although it is several months before the primaries are to be held," said the Congressman, "these two men, Daniel S. Vorhees and John Kean, speak of delivering the delegates as so many sheep. Indeed, if they ever do deliver and delegates you may assume with assurance that they have been bought."

Congressman Fowler referred to Senator Kean in this way:

"Of all the subservient, truculent, literal 'mee-too's' and perfect cuckoos; of all the political poodle dogs that Senator Aldrich prized most highly, undoubtedly Senator Kean wears the blue ribbon. He never gets off the Aldrich reservation, right or wrong, and on the Tariff bill gave 128 votes out of 129 to Mr. Aldrich, if my recollection is correct, rebelling only to insist that polo ponies should go on the free list.

"If Senator Kean should lock up his political check book until after the election in November, lock it up even now, and his brother, Hamilton F. Kean, should lock up his political check book, too, even now, and Senator Kean should content himself with going about the State and trying to tell the people why he should be returned to the Senate, is there one single person in the whole State who honestly believes that Senator Kean would be re-elected?

"I charge him with having considered and treated the great office of United States Senator as private property, to be used and prostituted to his own personal political advantage, instead of a sacred political trust to be executed for the benefit of the whole people and the advantage of the Republican Party organization, unless he claims that he is himself the Republican Party."

Miss Stark of Minneapolis Is Charged with Manslaughter.

ST. PAUL, May 23.—A charge of manslaughter was filed by the police to-day against Miss Theodora Stark, an eighteen-year-old Minneapolis girl, who, while driving an automobile ran down and killed S. B. Shotwell, a well-known St. Paul broker, in this city last night.

Miss Stark, with her sister, spent the night in the county jail.

SURGEONS SAY BLOW KILLED JANE ADAMS

They So Testify at the Opening of the Trial of William Seyler.

THRONG IN THE COURTROOM

Victim's Sister Relates the Incidents of the Night on Which the Tragedy Occurred.

Special to The New York Times.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., May 23.—The trial of William Seyler for the murder of Jane Adams began here to-day, with Alice Adams, sister of the dead girl, the star witness. Dr. Emery Marvel of Atlantic City, who examined the body of Miss Adams, testified that the wound on her eye must have been caused before the body entered the water, probably by a fist. The injury, the physician said, could not have been received in falling from the pier to the fish landing.

The trial is one of the most spectacular ever held in the old Court House, the scene of many tragic homicide cases. Long before the court bell tolled this morning the courtroom was filled to the doors.

The special panel of forty-eight talesmen drawn for the trial by Sheriff Johnson was nearly exhausted before a jury was selected. The members were warned by Justice Trenchard against reading newspapers during the trial or conversing with other persons.

Seyler was cool and collected as he shook hands with his counsel, Edmund C. Gaskill, Jr., and nodded to friends and relatives in the court.

In his opening Prosecutor Goldenberg made the statement that Miss Adams met her death defending her honor.

The first witness called by the State was William Hammell, the motorman who discovered the girl's body on the beach after she had been missing more than a week. With the aid of the conductor he pulled it out of the surf. Charles Adams, father of the dead girl, went on the stand just before the noon recess. He was still on the stand when the court adjourned for the noon recess.

Dr. Lewis Souder, County Physician, who performed the autopsy, was then called by the State. He said that the girl died from a wound inflicted before she entered the water. In this he was corroborated by Dr. Marvel.

Alice Adams, sister of Jane, took the stand late in the afternoon. She told to the minutest detail the incidents of the night Jane met her death, and never wavered under cross-examination.

The case will go on to-day.

WYMAN WILL AT PRINCETON.

Largest Benefaction in the University's History, Says Trustee.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 23.—Copies of the Wyman will reached Princeton from Salem, Mass., to-day, and after he had read them President Wilson said he had no comment to make except to echo the general satisfaction that Princeton should receive such a gift. Andrew C. Imbrie, Financial Secretary of the Board of Trustees, said:

"While the amount of the bequest is not known definitely, it is undoubtedly the largest single benefaction which has ever come to the university."

A careful reading reveals the fact that although the administration of the estate is left in the hands of Dean West and John Raymond of Salem, the will distinctly states that "the trustees are to use, expend, and pay over from time to time, as my estate shall be in condition to do so, the whole of said bequest, for such purposes as may be determined upon by the Trustees of Princeton University, in enlarging and extending the power, usefulness, higher service, and scholarship of the university."

Hence in Princeton there is no apprehension that any question will arise such as caused the withdrawal of the Procter gift.

MAY BLOCK HIGHER ERIE FARE

New Jersey Commuters Threaten to Invoke an Old Law.

PATERSON, N. J., May 23.—The prospective increase in the commutation rates of the Erie and its branch lines is said to be subject to a question of legality.

In 1898 the Erie took over the Susquehanna on lease. Before this was done an enabling act was passed by the Legislature. To this Christian Braun, then Senator from this county, obtained this amendment:

> But neither of the said railroad companies shall increase the present rate or rates of the freight or passenger traffic of the said companies in this State, subject to a penalty of the forfeiture of the said lease in case of a violation hereof.

If the Erie files a new schedule of rates it is probable there will be an effort to invoke this law.

BOY WEAK FROM HUNGER.

Runaway from West Springfield, Mass., Picked Up in Mount Vernon.

Half starved and in a bedraggled condition Richard Colburn, 15 years old, of West Springfield, Mass., who ran away from his home a week ago, was found last night by Policeman Simpkins asleep in a doorway at Fourth Avenue and First Street, Mount Vernon. When taken to the police station he told Sergt. Rielly that he had been without food for four days. He was so weak that he could hardly stand.

After the police had given him a supper he told the Sergeant he had run away from his home to see the sights in New York. When he left West Springfield he had $5, which he used for railroad and trolley fare. He said that he had walked from Port Chester to Mount Vernon, a distance of twelve miles, and that he had to lie down because he was exhausted.

He said his father was Elmer F. Colburn, a bookkeeper.

MRS. KNOWLES WINS SUIT.

New York Banker's Wife Gets Separation and $240 Monthly Alimony.

Following the report of Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright, as referee, Supreme Court Justice Isaac N. Mills yesterday filed an order at White Plains granting a decree of separation to Mrs. Anna Coles Knowles from her husband, Andrew A. Knowles, Third Vice President of the Mechanics' National Bank of Manhattan. Judge Mills allows Mrs. Knowles alimony at the rate of $240 a month and $500 counsel fees to Charles E. Le Barbier, former Assistant District Attorney of New York, who represented her at the referee's hearing. The testimony, which was taken in secret, became public to-day when the decree of Judge Mills was filed in the Westchester County Clerk's office.

Mr. and Mrs. Knowles were married on Nov. 17, 1885, and have two children, Kathryn and Harry Coles Knowles, who are 21 and 18 years of age, respectively. Mrs. Knowles says in her complaint that her husband has a large country estate at Glen Cove and is well known in the financial world, and that he abandoned her on Aug. 23, 1906, without "legal cause or justification and refused to provide for her and their children."

Through the law firm of Joline, Larkin & Rathbone of 54 Wall Street the defendant put in a general denial of his wife's charges, but did not appear when the case came up for a hearing. Referee Wainwright, however, insisted on the banker's appearance and referring to his testimony the referee says in his report:

"His evidence and general demeanor while on the stand showed that he had willfully left his wife and intended never to return to her again."

The referee stated that it was a case of "separation without justification."

HAS A CLUE TO HIS JEWELS.

$15,000 Package, Stolen Four Years Ago, May Be Recovered.

E. C. Heathcote, a Malden Lane jeweler, and senior member of the firm of E. C. Heathcote & Co., informed Assistant District Attorney May of Brooklyn yesterday that he had information which might lead to the recovery of $15,000 worth of diamonds stolen from him nearly four years ago on a shuttle train on the Brooklyn Bridge bound for Brooklyn. He lives at 475 East Eighth Street, Flatbush.

I twas a little detective work of his own that gave Mr. Heathcote the clue which the jeweler believes is an important one. He said he recentiy learned that a Flatbush woman, who appears to have become suddenly wealthy, bought a house with money which she told a friend she had realized from the sale of jewels found a few years ago. Mr. Heathcote said she gave her friend a description of the jewels, and when this information came to him he was convinced that the description fitted his missing valuables. The name of the woman was not divulged.

Mr. Heathcote was returning to Brooklyn from Manhattan with his wife when a gang of rowdies started a disturbance in the car. They crowded against him, and when he remonstrated with them one of them struck him. He had the jewels in a package in one hand and with the other knocked his assailant down. He held the hand containing the package of jewels behind his back for protection. While he was struggling with his assailant he felt some one tugging at the package behind him, and believing that it was his wife he released his hold. He did not give the matter further thought until he was leaving the train at the Brooklyn terminal and his wife asked him what he had done with the package.

Eighth Regiment Armory Site Approved

At a meeting of the Armory Board yesterday the use of an unused part of the Jerome Park reservoir for an armory site for the Eighth Regiment, Coast Artillery, N. G. N. Y., was discussed. All the members seemed to approve the scheme, but it was suggested by the Mayor that a conference be held with Water Commissioner Thompson before definite action is taken.

NEWS IS NEWS IN SAMOA.

The Editor Turns It Out Hot Off the Press Every Three Weeks.

Dr. Hans Blising, who has lived for some time in the Samoan Islands, and is now on his way to Germany on a vacation trip, arrived in town yesterday. When seen at the Gotham he told a reporter something about the life in the far-away islands, where news of the outside world is only received about every three weeks.

"In the town of Apia, where I live," said Dr. Blising, "we have one weekly newspaper, but it only prints the outside news after the arrival of a steamer from San Francisco or Vancouver. The editor and his staff seem to have a pretty easy time of it between steamers, but when a steamer is sighted the activity begins.

"A steamer can be sighted a long way from Apia, and the moment she comes in view the publisher begins to make up his advertisements, and the presses are set in order. The news comes in bundles from the steamer, and it is soon set up in type, part in English and part in German.

"Then in a short time the presses begin to whirr, and the Samoan Zeitung is issued with all the latest news. But it is not sold on the streets as in this country. Nearly all of the foreigners and the majority of the educated Samoans subscribe for the paper."

Tea Time Talks

The Tea Plant

reaches its highest perfection in the climate and soil of Ceylon. The plant matures in four years in high altitudes and the leaves are plucked week by week the year 'round.

The plucking is done by women and the light touch of their fingers is the only touch that the human hand gives to "Salada" Tea.

When you open the air-tight lead package of "Salada" you inhale the fragrance of tea just as we should serve it if you were our guest on a Ceylon plantation.

Yearly Sales Over 20,000,000 Packages

Ask your grocer for a ten cent trial package of "Salada" Ceylon Tea. It makes 40 cups. If for any reason your grocer cannot supply you, send us his name and address and we will deliver a trial package to you Free. Our pamphlet, "The Healthfulness of Tea," is mailed Free.
